Paxtine
A Soluble Antiseptic Powder to be dissolved in water as needed
For Douches

In the local treatment of woman's ills, such as leucorrhoea and inflammation, hot douches of Paxtine are very efficacious. No woman who has ever used medicated douches will fail to appreciate the clean and healthy condition Paxtine produces and the prompt relief from soreness and discomfort which follows its use. This is because Paxtine possesses superior cleansing, disinfecting and healing properties.

For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. has recommended Paxtine in their private correspondence with women, which proves its superiority. Women who have been relieved say it is "worth its weight in gold." At druggists. 60c. large box or by mail. Sample free. The Paxton Toilet Co., Boston, Mass.

HIS DIGNITY IN QUESTION

Newly Promoted Official the Recipient of Really a Neat and Deserved Rebuke.

For a number of years he had been employed as a stenographer for the company, and as such he frequently took dictation from one of the directors who called at the office occasionally. Last week he was made an assistant secretary of the corporation, was relieved of his stenographic duties and was given a desk near the senior officers.

When the visiting director called at the office a day or two later he greeted the former stenographer pleasantly and congratulated him on his advancement.

"But there's no one around here who can operate a typewriter as you can," he added flatteringly, "and I want you to make a copy of this paper before I send it to my lawyer."

But the new assistant secretary was not to be flattered into a relinquishment of the dignity of his position, and he replied:

"Really, Mr. Brown, I think that is asking too much. Do you think I, an assistant secretary of this company, ought to let myself be seen bending over a typewriter like an ordinary stenographer?"

"I beg your pardon," said Mr. Brown, "I forgot about the dignity of your position entirely. I trust you will overlook my indiscretion. By the way," he added, "I see by the papers that a man down in Washington named Woodrow Wilson writes with his own hands and on his own typewriter almost all of the important state papers that he prepares for transmission to the European courts."

HUNT HELPS MAKE SOLDIERS

Preparedness for Military Emergency is Undoubtedly Aided by Outdoor Sport.

While not every one of the three hundred thousand citizens who secured hunters' licenses last year could qualify as a sharpshooter, Doctor Kalbfus, secretary of the state game commission, is not wholly imaginative in suggesting that in the maintenance of its game preserves and in the encouragement of the hunt the state is contributing to its preparedness for military emergency, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

An essential of a soldier's equipment is to know how to shoot, and training for marksmanship in the pursuit of bird or rabbit is obviously of value. But even more essential is the soldier's health, the ruggedness of constitution and physical condition to stand the stress of march and work, and outdoor training is the sine qua non. Anything that the state does to get its young men out of doors and to interest them in health-building muscle-strengthening, nerve-resting sport, goes far in preparing efficient soldiers, and to this physical condition there is added the practical training in the handling of gun and rifle.

Mottled Teeth Is Newest Disease.

Announcement of data on a recently discovered unnamed disease of the teeth, affecting only people in certain localities, was made today by Dr. Frederick S. McKay of Colorado Springs, Colo., before the Panama-Pacific dental congress. Doctor McKay read a paper written in collaboration with Dr. G. V. Black of Chicago, who died recently, and based on their joint research.

The disease, which was described as a disfiguring, mottled or streaked discoloration of teeth, was said to be epidemic in several localities in the Rocky mountain region, in a large area in the Southwest, and here and there in other places, including a small district near Naples, Italy.

Cost of Wet Weather.

Wet weather is an expensive summer diversion, as the people of Kansas have proved to their sorrow. The state board of agriculture figures that there was a loss of 17,000,000 bushels of wheat during the month of August from this cause. That means at least $15,000,000 deducted from the state's farm income and brings the Kansas wheat yield below 100,000,000 bushels. The abandoned area is placed at 20 per cent of last fall's seeding, whereas the loss in area figured on May 1 was only 3.5 per cent of the fall seeding. A wet July ruined many a prime prospect.—Wall Street Journal.

Deer With Glass Eye.

Abalardo Cooper of Salinas, Cal., while hunting in the fastness of the San Lucia range, killed a four-point buck that had a green glass eye in one of its sockets.

Besides, the ears had been swallow tailed, a common practice in marking the ears of cattle, and its tail had been cut off in some manner so that only a stub an inch long stuck out.

It is thought possibly the deer was a pet of one of the ranches down in the Salinas valley, and when the "running" season started the deer answered the call of its mates and started for the wilds.

Raising Barbary Ostriches.

Barbary ostriches were recently brought into South Africa. Great difficulty was experienced in acclimatizing the birds. Of the adult birds, only two survived the vicissitudes of the long journey and the change of climate, but the chicks were found to do better, and a large proportion still survives. Experiments are now being carried on at the government school of agriculture, Grootfontein, both as regards purebred North Africans and crosses with South African strains.
