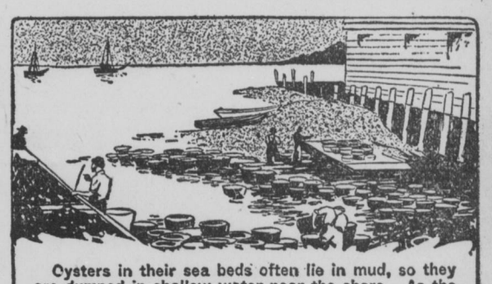
SKETCHES BY BESSEY
SYNOPSIS BY BRAUCHER

The United States produces and consumes more oysters than any other country in the world. This boat has been out to the oyster beds off the New Jersey coast. Oysters are caught by dragging heavy dredges or tongs and rakes across the bottom of the fishing grounds. 2-7

In France and other countries oysters are raised carefully. Eggs are placed in cases to be hatched and after six months are planted in oyster beds. 2-7

When the oysters have grown to their full size they are collected in baskets from the beds. A great part of this work is done by women.



Oysters in their sea beds often lie in mud, so they are dumped in shallow water near the shore. As the tide rises and falls it washes them clean. If they are not needed at once they will remain alive here, while they would die and become unfit for food if left long out of water. (To Be Continued)

Fishing The Air

EDGAR WHITE BURRILL, for the fifth consecutive year, will read Ida M. Tarbell's story, "He Knew Lincoln," as the principal attraction of a Lincoln program to be broadcast by the Eveready hour over WEAF and associated NBC stations tonight at 8.

With music incident to the period in which Lincoln towered among his contemporaries, this Lincoln program, given each year on the Tuesday preceding Lincoln's birthday, has become one of the few traditions which the still young broadcasting industry has as yet associated with it.

As Billy Brown, the old Springfield, Ill., storekeeper who "knew Lincoln," Mr. Burrill in his reading of the sketch brings a peculiarly intimate quality of sympathy to the program.

While radios, installed for the New York Symphony Orchestra, are still in the schools, next Friday afternoon at 3:30, the Parent-Teacher Association of Indianapolis will broadcast a school program through WKBF, under the direction of the Indiana Federation of Music Clubs.

Fishing the Air will announce the details of this program later.

Naum Benditzky, cellist; Inna Roubleff, composer-pianist, and Rhoda Arnold, singer of folk songs, will be heard in the program tonight of the Russian Exposition of Education, Handicrafts, Theater, Science and Industry, in session all week at New York. The program will be sent over the ether by WGBS, New York, at 8 tonight.

The following number will be played by Joseph Szigeti, violinist, at 8 tonight in the Barbixon hour broadcast by WOR, Newark-New York. The soloist will be accompanied by an orchestra recruited from the New York Philharmonic.

"Sonata in G Major" ..... Tartini
"Adagio" ..... Brahms
"Menuet et danse des auvergnats" ..... Exaudet
"Baal Shem" ..... Ernest Bloch
"Gavotte" (violin alone) ..... Bach
"Chant de Roxane" ..... Szymanowsky-Kochansky
"Csarda" ..... Hubay

Ignace Strasfogel at the piano.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, known the world over for her leadership in suffrage and peace work, is to be the featured speaker in the broadcasting program of the "Voters' Service" through the NBC Red network tonight.

"The Voters' Service" is presented each Tuesday evening through the cooperation of the National Broadcasting Company and the National League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Catt's address will be a part of the fortnightly program devoted to "What Congress Is Doing." She particularly will emphasize the conclusions reached by nine national women's organizations in a recent conference in Washington devoted to consideration of the cause and cures of war. She is expected to relate these findings to current congressional efforts toward the elimination of war and the establishment of permanent peace.

The dialogue of "Cotton" and "Morpheus," the two "pedestrianating" broadcasters, as they work on a scaffold as bricklayers, will be heard by NBC Red network listeners, together with music of the Sealy Air Weavers as picked up by their portable radio set at 7:30 tonight.
