MURDER TRACED TO GANGLAND

Effort Of Peter Pulizzi To "Muscle In" On Beer Racket Is Cause

Chicago, Sept. 17.—(U.P.)—"The Valley," over on the west side, where the murder map is almost black with dots, remained silent today when detectives pried into gangland haunts for clues that might solve the slaying of Peter Pulizzi, 29, who sought to restore family finances by "muscling in" on the beer racket.

The detectives sought two men, known only as "Joe" and "Angelo," who were seen last with Pulizzi in the Zep cabaret. It was a slim clue but appeared to be the only one that held any promise of solving the daylight murder in which Pulizzi was shot to death in his automobile as he tried in vain to summon enough strength to pull the trigger of his nickel-plated pistol.

So far as police knew Pulizzi was not a gangster. They said the attempt to "muscle in" that brought his death probably was his first. His wife, Anita, said the family finances were low and that her husband had not worked since he sold his interest in the Zep cafe, after a series of raids that ate up the profits.

Pulizzi was shot in the middle of "The Valley" at noon yesterday when the street intersection was crowded.

Woman Seeks Divorce To Free Her Husband

Denver, Colo., Sept. 17—(UP)—Taking the entire blame for her husband's Bibamous marriage to Naomi McElhinney, 18, Mrs. W. S. Armstrong, 38, mother of four children, sought a divorce from the man she still loves, so that the second wedding might be legalized.

"It's all my fault," she explained. "Maybe he would not have become interested in other women if I had been more understanding and had not nagged so much. I have not seen his new wife but I know she is a lovely girl. She must be to love my husband. I love him too and am willing to get a divorce to make him happy."

Armstrong was in jail here on charges preferred by Miss McElninney's father, awealthy rancher of Phoenix, Ariz. The latter expressed litle interest in the proposed divorce and declared he would press the bigamy charges "to the limit of the law."

California Women Will "Uptown" Drinking Parties

San Francisco, Sept. 17 —(UP)—Five Thousand society women of Northern California have agreed to ignore invitations to social functions where they know the prohibition law will be violated. If they innocently attend a gathering and then find that liquor is being served they will only decline to drink, however, and will not leave.

The agreement was reached through adoption of a resolution by the women's committee of 5,000 here yesterday. The committee was orgainzed in behalf of prohibition law enforcement and claims members from clubs, school organizations, the W. C. T. U. and social service bodies.

Mrs. Paul Raymond, prominent San Francisco clubwoman was elected president. Included among directors approved were Mrs. Theodore J. Hoover, sister-in-law of the president; Mrs. David Starr Jordan, wife of the noted educator and Cathleen Norris, author.
