Newspaper Decisions.

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered wishing to continue their subscription.

2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their periodicals the publishers may continue to send them until all arrearages are paid.

3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodicals from the office to which they are directed they are held responsible until they have settled their bills and ordered them discontinued.

4. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publishers, and the papers are sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.

5. The courts have decided that "refusing to take periodicals from the office or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud."

6. Any person who receives a newspaper and makes use of it, whether he has ordered it or not, is held in law to be a subscriber.

7. If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice to the publisher at the end of their time, if they do not wish to continue taking it; otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it on and the subscribers will be responsible until an express notice, with payment of all arrears is sent to the publisher.

Home Adornment Pays.

Other things being equal, a country farm house, with an abundance of shade and fruit trees, with shrubbery and vines, and small fruits and bloom of flowers about, will always command a much higher price in the market than one bare of these attractions; so that time and money spent in these improvements make ample pecuniary returns. And it this were not so, a rosy, cheerful home is far more restful and refreshing to the weary worker than a bleak, barren and dreary one. One gets paid as he goes along for his toil and his struggle, when he sees his trees coming into fruit, his vines laden with grapes, his currant and raspberry bushes heavy with luscious fruit, and tastes the bounties his industry and forethought have secured.—[Ex.

Neil Burgess, the famous impersonator of female characters, who is playing "Widow," in Nasby's "Widow Bedoott," was pressed for time to catch a train at Lafayette last week. Having but 10 minutes to make the train, after his performance, and it requiring not less than 20 to chance his habiliments. Mr. Burgess threw himself into his carriage in his stage female garb, took his seat in the train in the most approved feminine fashion, and so traveled to the end of his route. The passengers regarded the queer bonnet and oldfashioned dress with some meriment, but no one supposed that it was any other but a woman wonderfully and fearfully made. He entered into the spirit of the thing completely, improving the opportunity to determine whether his personation would do as well in broad day-light, as under gas. It was said to have been a very funny performance.—[Ex.
