HINDENBURG CRASH CAUSES ARE LISTED

Five Present at Once, Professor Says.

MUNICH, Oct. 13 (U. P.).—Exhaustive experiments have demonstrated that five separate causes contributed to the Hindenburg disaster at Lakehurst, N. J., Prof. Max Dieckmann of the Atmospheric Electricity Institute of Graeffiling, declared today.

Speaking before the Lilienthal Society, Prof. Dieckmann stated that the disaster would not have occurred had anyone of these causes been lacking:

1. Hydrogen escaped from the balloon during the last minutes of the voyage.
2. The ship was immobile and thus the ventilation effect whereby escaping gas usually is dissipated could not take place.
3. Rain made the body of the ship highly conductive.
4. Sparks generated atmospheric electricity.
5. There was high tension between parts of the ship.

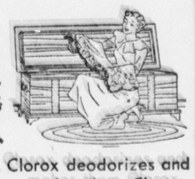
TRUST Treasured Linens TO CLOROX



PRIZED white linens "yellowed" with age and everyday white cottons and linens that are dingy and "grayed" respond quickly to the gentle, whitening touch of Clorox in the regular laundering process.

Clorox also removes so-called "obstinate" stains, such as fruit, berry, beverage, grass, flower, blood, many ink, dye, medicine and other stains—even scorch, mildew—from white and color-fast cottons and linens.

And, too, Clorox deodorizes and disinfects ... makes them Clorox-Clean. This is especially important when germ-laden towels, handkerchiefs, table and bed linens pile up the family wash.

"When it's CLOROX-CLEAN ...it's disinfected"

* * *

Follow directions on the Clorox label as a guide to easier and safer housekeeping in laundry, kitchen and bathroom. It also lists many important personal uses.... Clorox is always uniform in quality...concentrated for economy. There is only one Clorox ... order by name.
