what kind it is nor what its future effects on the country might be. And this, simply that he may have something about which to spout "hot air." The chief objection to the Vreeland bill is that in authorizing the clearing houses to issue emergency currency upon securities presented by the banks, the way is opened for the use of all forms of stocks and bonds and the speculative banks are given the privilege of unloading their watered stocks and bonds upon the public in the shape of issued currency. The thing the country needs is a bill to provide a currency [illegible] that will be given ample time to thoroughly probe the currency question. Sleep judgment should not be taken in anything so important to the welfare of our country as our currency. That is what the Aldrich bill is and is what the Vreeland bill is not. [illegible] Wall street is responsible for the panic in the country that has not yet left us, it is not to be found in a Wall street measure such as Senator Aldrich attempted to give us, is altogether for the gamblers and speculators and is not intended for the sane and sound business men.

GRAVEL USED ON NORTH B STREET

Effort Made to Repair the Street.

In true, good civilization manner, the way, several wagon loads of gravel have been dumped on North B street in the effort to fill partially, the yawning chasms. This street has been worn down six or eight inches below grade and in some places the holes are almost one foot lower than the standard. To make temporary repairs the gravel has been dumped and now the heavy laden wagons passing between the two freight houses and using the Depot bridge, must be dragged through the gravel.

A COMMON MISTAKE

Many women mistake kidney and bladder troubles for some irregularity peculiar to the sex. Foley's Kidney Remedy corrects irregularities and makes women well. Miss Carrie Harden, Bowling Green, Ky., writes: "I suffered much pain from kidney and bladder trouble until I started to use Foley's Kidney Remedy. The first bottle gave me great relief and after taking the second bottle I was entirely well." A. G. Luken & Co.

NEW STYLE SWITCH LIGHTS INSTALLED

Pennsylvania Takes Up With New Wrinkle.

The Pennsylvania railroad is installing seven coy lamps on the various switches and siding in connection with its lines on the southern system. These new lamps consume but one quart of petroleum a week and burn continuously. For many years oil battery lamps or lanterns were used, which necessitated the cleaning and refilling of the same each day.

80 Cents Cures Rheumatism.

Fort Wayne Man Has a Wonderful Case of Recovery.

H. A. Alter, After Suffering for Sixteen Years With Rheumatism, Is Cured By a Few Doses of a Simple Prescription.

(From the Ft. Wayne Journal Gazette.)

Mr. Henry A. Alter, the well known contracting painter, met the writer and told him a most interesting story of sixteen years experience with rheumatism and how he finally found a cure in a simple, inexpensive home remedy. Believing that it will be of value to many of our readers we obtained the prescription, which we gladly publish with Mr. Alter's interesting experience.

In the winter of 1892, Mr. Alter was [illegible] from two to four months. Doctors and patent medicines always failed to help. Every remedy recommended by anxious friends and relatives was tried until he was so discouraged over the hopeless struggle that he was on the verge of resigning himself to his fate. Early in the winter of 1892 his rheumatic attack started with extreme severity, being more severe than ever.

About this time he heard of a simple home prescription. Doubting if a nearby druggist he was astonished to find that it could be filled for about eight cents. He was still more astonished at the first dose, beginning from almost the first dose. In a few days he was able to be out attending business, and now, two months later, believes himself completely cured.

Knowing Mr. Alter personally and having heard from his own lips the account of his marvelous cure we investigated, and, after finding that the prescription could be filled by any druggist, decided to publish it. It is as follows: 1 oz. Fluid Extract Cimaxa, 1 oz. Concentrated Sarsaparilla Compound and 1 oz. Aromatic Elixir. To be taken in teaspoonful doses after each meal and on retiring.

GOVERNOR DENEEN MAY BE PROSECUTED

Criminal Proceedings Advocated Strongly.

Chicago, April 18—Criminal proceedings against Governor Deneen were urged by a member of the Legislative Investigating Committee after revelations of scandals at the State Asylum. Representative John J. Maclaughlin was the author of the proposal.

At the meeting of the subcommittee at the Kankakee Asylum for the Insane he openly denounced the Governor as a violator of the anti-trust law at the end of a bitter trade he declared.

TENDENCY TOWARD RECUPERATION

Henry Clews Says Conditions Are Better in Precincts of Financial District.

STOCK MARKET IS BETTER.

FINANCIER HOWEVER SUGGESTS THAT EXTREME CAUTION BE USED IN STOCK MARKET OPERATIONS.

[illegible] Railroad conditions are still very unsatisfactory. The earnings of 41 roads in the fourth week of March showed a loss of 15 per cent, while for the month of March, 42 roads showed a decrease of 13 per cent. By means of stringent economy the railroads have been able somewhat to compensate for the shrinkage, but the loss of business, if continued much longer, will prove a more serious matter to some of the companies than was at one time anticipated.

Within stock market circles, as already said, the situation shows some improvement. The rise which has taken place is causing the selling of stocks for large gains, and short investors through this movement to net gained. Many of the big operators still hold large lines of surplus stocks for which they would like to find a market. There is no visible speculation and no expansion, [illegible] as a rule are carrying comparatively small lines of securities. [illegible] prop to the situation is the money market. While present low rates of interest remain—which is likely to continue for a considerable period—good stocks will look attractive at [illegible] allowing for reduction in dividends. Meanwhile, the power of cheap money cannot be ignored in stock market operations, for in the hands of skillful men it is the most powerful known leverage for higher prices. The outcome is so uncertain that we cannot but advise much caution in stock market operations. Purchases should only be made on good reactions, and, until the outlook becomes considerably brighter, profits should be taken upon all reasonable advances.

HENRY CLEWS.

Taken as directed, it becomes the greatest curative agent for the relief of suffering humanity ever devised. It's Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, the surest remedy. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. A. G. Luken & Co.
