[illegible] TIGHTEN UP ON ONE

Good Practice on Reid Field Saturday Brought Out A Large Squad.

WHITE BACK IN OLD FORM

STAR PITCHER EXPECTS TO HAVE A GREAT SEASON—QUAKERS HAVE HOPES OF LANDING THE PENNANT.

That Earlham college will be represented by the Spring team tell tales in the history of that institution is a settled fact if early season practice is to be taken as any indication. Though there is many a slip between the early tryouts and the finishing of the championship pennant the middle of June the athletic authorities have a confidence which can not be denied. Captain Hancock is a man who always has made good at any thing he has attempted and the students place implicit confidence in his ability to lead the "Fighting Quaker" nine to victory.

The schedule is such that should the team show the form which is expected, its class will be thoroughly demonstrated, as the list of games includes encounters with Purdue, Notre Dame and Wabash, as well as the most of the smaller colleges of the state. It is still hoped that Indiana will be added to the list of ten colleges already signed.

Reid Field Busy Place.

Reid Field was a busy place Saturday afternoon when Coach Vail and Captain Hancock lined up the aspirants for the nine of 1908. From one to two o'clock the Freshman candidates were tried out and the rest of the afternoon was devoted to the varsity. There were just eighteen lights in the first year squad. Coach Vail was greatly pleased with their performances but he would not let them get loose with their wings, for fear they would develop wings later. Dowling, who is playing the key stone sack, is about the fastest little fielder the Quaker diamond has boasted. He is a natural ball player with more experience than Freshmen usually bring to the game and his water hand throw is one that could be envied. H. Furnas is showing high speed in making the transposition at short and seemingly has the fielding and with a bat. Furnas will undoubtedly make the Quaker aggregation travel a fast pace. Another Freshman, the brother of Furnas, who is a member of the Y. M. C. A. basketball team, is showing up in fine form. He is a Freshman of 1912 and is a member of the Freshman team. He is playing in the outfield and is showing up very well. They are both powerful hitters. Kennard, weighing 185 pounds, is a member of Harvard preparatory school and is a fast man at shortstop. He is a good hitter and has yet had a chance to pitch in a varsity game. The pitchers who will make strong bids for positions on their class team are Jones, Mentzingh, Dennison, E. and F. Gilbert, Wilson, Fisher, Cope, Kagan, Sanders and Davis.

Varsity Lineup.

The varsity took the field with Cast, regular at his old place at third, J. Furnas at short, Hill at second and Dowling at first. Dowling was also tried at second and Furnas at short. Wilson was also tried at second and Furnas at short. Wilson was also tried at second and Furnas at short. Wilson
