THE SCHUYLER FRAUDS.—The Directors of the New York and New Haven Railroad Company have made a report to the stockholders on the subject of the Schuyler frauds. From this document it appears that the amount of spurious stock issued by Robert Schuyler, the Company's Transfer Agent in New York is 17,732 shares, (1,774,200) besides certificates for 1,808 shares ($180,800) transferred without surrendering the original certificates, which original certificates, therefore, now represent no stock on the books of the Company in the names of parties to whom they were transferred by R. & G. L. Schuyler. The whole amount of frauds committed by Schuyler, in one way or another, in the name of the Company, or by the misuse of its obligations, is very near $2,000,000.

On the question whether the spurious stock should be assumed by the Company, the Directors express no opinion. Their able counsel, however, viz: William Curtis Noyes and George Wood, Esqrs., in a document appended to the report, express a decided opinion, that these fraudulent certificates of stocks are illegal and void, and do not implicate the Company in any way; and that without an act of the Connecticut legislature together with the assent of the stockholders the Company cannot lawfully recognise and adopt them, as representing shares in the Company, or entitling the holders to any of the rights of stockholders. Beside the issue of spurious stock Schuyler also accepted two drafts to the amount of $20,000, as President of the Company, issued by R. & G. L. Schuyler to third parties. These acceptances the directors of course repudiate as illegal. The report will be submitted to the stockholders at a meeting to be held in New York on the 3d of October. Five thousand dollars reward has been offered for the arrest of Schuyler.

AN OUTRAGE—STOPPING A PASSENGER TRAIN.—We learn that the passenger train coming to town Frankfort Monday evening, as alleged by some unknown persons, who made the attack a short distance this side of Paxton's station. The engineer was hit with a stone, another person received a very severe lick on the arm, which came very near breaking it, and others made narrow escapes from the showers of stones that rattled against the cars, and demolished several of the glass windows.

This proceeding can be characterized in no other light than as a high-handed outrage, and it is to be hoped the miscreants will be located out, and properly published for their infernal conduct.—Louisville Courier.

To The Voters

Of Switzerland and Ohio Counties.

AS it is currently reported the night of this Senatorial district that I am not eligible to a seat in the Senate, in consequence of having been elected to the office of Justice of the Peace, I think it proper to submit for your consideration, the following opinions, and hope they will satisfy all who have entertained doubts upon this subject.

PHILANDER S. SMITH.

Vevay, September 17, 1854.

The question, whether a justice of the Peace, elected prior to the adoption of the present constitution of the state of Indiana, and continued in his office by virtue of the 10th sec. of the 7th article of the constitution, does not apply to justices of the peace who were in office at the time of the adoption. On the contrary, we think that the section referred to applies only to persons elected to fill an office under that constitution.

Justices of the peace who were in office at the adoption of the present constitution were, by it, continued in office, and as we think, with no exceptions even there, except as to terms of service, that time being fixed by the former constitution.

Under the first constitution, as a justice holds for a limited time, which, at any time within the term for which they were elected, renders his office, and he elected to another office. So we think a justice of the peace holding office by popular vote prior to the adoption of the present constitution may, by resigning it, render himself eligible to any office of trust or profit to which the people may elect him. JOHN SULLIVAN,

DANIEL KELSO,

J. G. MARSHALL.

Madison, Sept. 12, 1854.

I concur in the opinion above expressed, that a person elected to the office of Justice of the Peace under the old constitution is not thereby prevented from holding another office under the new, but by accepting another office he vacates the first. A. C. DOWNEY.

FALL TRADE, 1854!

ARRIVAL OF 200 CASES OF

NEW GOODS

At Zeiller's, No. 10, Main Street!!

I HAVE just returned from the East, and am now opening one of the largest and best selected stocks of

FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS,

Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, with all other articles in the Dry Goods and Clothing line, fully equal to any houses in the trade, all of which have been purchased at the principal Importation and Auction Houses in New York cash, I offer them to the public at lower prices than any house in the West, Cincinnati not excepted.

To prove the truth of my assertion that I am determined to sell cheap, I will annex a small list of articles with prices, which can be found at my establishment:

[illegible]

Ready-Made Clothing

is the largest I have ever had, and the largest in this place, and embraces every style and quality, which will be sold at the very lowest prices.

KNOW NOTHING AND WIDE AWAKE HATS, Silk hats, and caps of all descriptions and prices.

I take this opportunity to return my sincere thanks to my numerous friends and customers for past patronage, and assure them that no act on my part shall induce them to withdraw the same in future. Enabled to sell goods cheaper than ever this fall, I hope to receive a liberal patronage from all. In conclusion, I would say to my regular customers that the usual credit from four to six months will be given them.

South-Eastern Indiana

FEMALE SEMINARY.

A FEMALE Seminary, of a high order, will be opened in this city on the first Monday of September next. The institution, under the care of the Trustees of the New School Presbyterian Congregation, a corporate perpetual body, will be permanent, and meet the educational wants of this city, South-Eastern Indiana, and that portion of Kentucky connected with the business and social interest of Rising Sun; and, it is believed, command some patronage from other portions of the country.

The building is commodious enough to accommodate about one hundred pupils, and is fitted up in an attractive style—being painted, papered, carpeted and furnished with every useful and comfortable convenience.

A library, and other means for intellectual cultivation will be obtained, and lectures on Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, Physiology, and kindred sciences, will be delivered during term time. A thorough teacher, a graduate of one of the first Female Seminaries in the United States, with several years experience in educating young ladies, is expected to take charge of the Institution. If the public, for their benefit the Institution is founded, shall extend to it a co-operating confidence and patronage, it will be a credit to this city and a fountain of good to all.

Board can be had at $2 and $2.50 per week; and young ladies from the country, by forming small circles, can board themselves for about $1 per week. Young ladies who take a full and regular course of studies, will be awarded Diplomas of scholarship.

By order of the Trustees.

Jackson's Collegiate Institute.

FOR the purpose of securing to the students better religious and social privileges, and a more extended course of labor, this Institution will, for a time, be moved from Patriot to Rising Sun, Ohio Co., Ind., and will be opened on the 11th of September.

Such students as are preparing to come to Patriot, and others, are invited to go to Rising Sun where they will be provided with boarding, at boarding houses and in private families, at from $2 to $2.50 per week. Rooms can be furnished those who wish to board themselves, and provisions can be found at the Bakery, for a little in advance of the market price of the raw material. Student who have mastered some Mechanical Profession, will find among the various trades an opportunity to spend profitably a portion of their spare time.

Rising Sun in regard to health, beauty of location and good society, speaks for itself; as for the beauty of those who have not made its acquaintance, we can safely say, it equal is not to be found.

A teachers class will be formed at the commencement of the session for the benefit of those who wish to teach, the ensuing winter, and no pains will be spared in qualifying them for the highly honorable profession.

The mode of instruction and the terms will remain the same as they have been.

CHERRY PECTORAL,

For the rapid Cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

Among the thousands upon thousands of cases in which this preparation has shown its power to relieve the afflicted, and even perform cures of a character so desperate that the boldest of professional men have pronounced them beyond the reach of medicine, we do not claim for it more than we know it to possess. We do not say that it will cure consumption, or even that it will reach those diseases which are universally acknowledged to be incurable. But we do say, that so much of the suffering and so many of the fatal diseases of the lungs and throat are of a bronchial character, that we feel authorized in saying that the Cherry Pectoral will cure them, if any medicine can. And we do say that no other medicine in the world has, to our knowledge, so many and such decisive cures to its credit as this. Its reputation is not confined to any country or climate, but it is equally good in all climates, and with all classes and conditions of men. Its cures are among the most astonishing on record, and its value is known to the people of the country where they live, and their testimony is the best we can have of its virtues. Many of these cures have been made known to us, but we do not publish them, because we do not think it necessary to do so in order to maintain the reputation of the medicine. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the sufferers to make their private affairs the subject of public gossip, without their consent, and we do not think their consent should be asked, because we do not think it just to them to ask it. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the public to be imposed on by the publication of cures which have not been made, or which are not what they are represented to be. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the proprietors of other meritorious medicines to publish our cures, and force them to do the same or be silent and see their business appropriated by others who do publish theirs. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the public to be deluged with the publication of cures of this or any other medicine, when we know that a few of the best authenticated cures are all that the public can read with profit, or have time to read. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the public to be deprived of the use of this medicine, which we know it to be, by the publication of such a mass of testimony as would exclude from the columns of the newspapers the news of the day, and thus deprive the public of their only means of knowing when they can buy food and raiment most cheaply. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the public to be deprived of the services of the Editors, who, if they should do our work, would have no time to do theirs. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the Proprietors of this paper, who would be obliged to employ a large portion of their space in the publication of testimony which would be of no value to them, because it would be of no value to the public, who would be obliged to pay for what they do not want, and would not read if they did get it. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the Editors of other papers, who would be obliged to do the same or be silent and see their columns appropriated by others who do publish theirs. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the public to be deprived of the services of the Clergy, who, if they should do our work, would have no time to do their own. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the Clergy, who would be obliged to do the same or be silent and see their pulpits appropriated by others who do publish theirs. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the Physicians, who would be obliged to do the same or be silent and see their practice usurped by others who do publish theirs. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the Lawyers, who would be obliged to do the same or be silent and see their business appropriated by others who do publish theirs. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the Merchants, who would be obliged to do the same or be silent and see their business appropriated by others who do publish theirs. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the Farmers, who would be obliged to do the same or be silent and see their business appropriated by others who do publish theirs. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the Mechanics, who would be obliged to do the same or be silent and see their business appropriated by others who do publish theirs. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the Laborers, who would be obliged to do the same or be silent and see their business appropriated by others who do publish theirs. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the Sailors, who would be obliged to do the same or be silent and see their business appropriated by others who do publish theirs. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the Soldiers, who would be obliged to do the same or be silent and see their business appropriated by others who do publish theirs. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the Sick, who would be obliged to do the same or be silent and see their business appropriated by others who do publish theirs. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the Dead, who would be obliged to do the same or be silent and see their business appropriated by others who do publish theirs. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the Living, who would be obliged to do the same or be silent and see their business appropriated by others who do publish theirs. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the Publishers, who would be obliged to do the same or be silent and see their business appropriated by others who do publish theirs. We do not publish them because we do not think it just to the Public
