[For the Progress.]
CLEAR CREEK, MAY 2nd, 1870.
To the Farmers and Mechanics of Monroe County.

"Agriculture is the most healthful and useful, and most noble employment of man," said Washington. This truth should never be forgotten by the tillers of the soil. Then let us work together for each others' advancement in every possible way, for we have a common interest in each others' welfare. The time is drawing near when men are to be nominated for the various offices of trust and profit within the gift of the people. This in our own opinion can be done the most satisfactorily, by holding a primary election, in every township throughout the County. And here let me urge you to select as your candidates laboring men, Farmers and Mechanics from our midst. When one of us goes out to purchase a horse, we invariably examine his good points. We find out his age, look at his eyes, form, size, color, general make up, gait and working qualities; and in proportion to the number of good qualities he possesses, are we willing to pay a high or low price for him. Now is it not in like manner of far more importance to examine into the merits and demerits of our office seekers, so that a judicious selection may be made? I contend that an Officer should possess the following qualities, viz: He should be honest, industrious, temperate and religious. If he is lacking in any of these qualities, the community at large will be the sufferers, by his bad legislation, or mismanagement of public affairs. The reason why I am in favor of electing a laboring man to office, in preference to a lawyer, is because the interest of the farmer is identified with the masses, whilst it is to the Lawyer's advantage to legislate in behalf of his own profession. Do you ever expect that a Legislature composed principally of Lawyers, will ever pass a good temperance law for the benefit of community? You might as well look for another total Eclipse of the sun on next 4th of July, and why? The Lawyers all know that the more Rot Gut Whisky men consume, the more crimes they commit, and the consequence is clients are numerous, and the Lawyer fattens on the follies of his fellow creatures, instead of striving to elevate them into true manhood, intelligence and brotherly love. An Administrator, however competent, cannot settle up an estate without the aid of a disciple of Blackstone. Why? Oh! because, it is the law. Who made it thus? The Lawyers of course, so that they might get a finger in the pie, and a large slice it generally takes to satisfy their insatiable appetites.

Christ said when on earth: "Woe unto you, also ye Lawyers! for ye lade men with burdens grievous to be borne, and ye yourselves touch not the burdens with one of your fingers." "Same old Coons yet." Some one might say you farmers and mechanics could not make a public speech. I venture to say that there are a hundred men in this county of either occupation, that could beat General Grant to-day, on the stump; but does that disqualify our President from discharging his duties, and earning the praise he receives from a grateful people? Nay verily. An ounce of good hard sense like he possesses is worth more than a ton of political gas which generally escapes so freely in every campaign. Laboring men of Monroe, we have the numbers and the power to nominate and elect whom we please, let us use the power we possess in the right way; give a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together, in the right direction. Elect one of your number to the Legislature, who will swear "by the Eternal" that he will never vote for the State to shoulder the Canal debt, even if he is offered $50,000 or $100,000 for his vote, by the moneyed men of New York. One that will also work hard and long for a good temperance law, that the monster of the still may be turned back in his devastating march over our beloved State. Fill our county offices with men who have the interest of the laboring community at heart, that our now oppressive burthen of taxation may be lessened by using economy in the management of the trust committed to them, so that every citizen, both White and Colored, will be satisfied and contented, after seeing those placed in power discharging their respective duties.

faithfully, honestly, and for the best interest of the greatest number of our citizens. A FREE THINKER.

From Richland Township.
During the past school year, we have had, in this township, sixteen free schools. The shortest term was 40 days, and the longest 115, at an average cost $1.45 per day. Six male Teachers; ten female. Number of pupils attending school during the year, in the several schools, 558; average daily attendance 302. The number of pupils who studied the various branches, is as follows: Orthography 558, Reading 462, Writing 274, Arithmetic 332, English Grammar 86, History of the U. S. 25, Rhetoric 6, Physiology 5, Latin 2. One branch of common school education has been very much neglected by some of the Teachers, viz: Manners. TRUSTEE.

Sabbath School Convention.
The Monroe County Sunday School Union will hold its Annual Session on the 2d and 3d of June, in the Methodist Church in Bloomington. A Union Prayer Meeting of the various Churches, in behalf of Sabbath Schools, will be held on Wednesday evening, in the same Church. A programme of exercises will appear in next week's paper. A programme in circular form, will be printed in a few days, and can be obtained from Wm. F. Brown, Secretary of the Union. Friends of Sabbath Schools are respectfully requested to circulate information concerning the Convention, also to make arrangements, so far as practicable, to be present and take part in the exercises. I would suggest that each School in the county appoint delegates, thus making it obligatory on certain persons to attend. After this, as many others should come as can. By this means every School in the county will be represented. Let it be remembered that this is not denominational, taking in the schools of only certain churches; it is non-sectarian, taking in all. Come then, and let us reason together and work together, to advance the cause of Sabbath Schools, and through them, moral and religious culture. Other counties are moving in solid phalanx, and so should ours. GEORGE W. HOSKES.
May 11, 1870. Pres. of Union.

Jacob Snodenhoeffer, Adams county, paid his addresses to Miss Ella Bristol, and was rejected, the other day, because Ella didn't like the name—wasn't willing to become Mrs. Snodenhoeffer. This sad set-back infuriated Jacob. The dorsal portion of his manly person became alarmingly altitudinous, and he assaulted Ella with the evident intention of putting a period to her sublimity career. A big brother of the young lady arrived upon the scene in time, to rescue the fair one; and Jacob departed. In point of fact, he stood not on the order of his going, but went at once, with a heavy boot in dangerous proximity to his coat tail. Having faith in hydropathic treatment of severe cases, he made for a pond, and plunged therein. The water closed over his form, and there was imminent danger that the name of Jacob Snodenhoeffer was about to be erased from the poll books and tax lists. But a gentleman engaged in piscatorial pursuits had seen the fearful plunge, and coming up, with all haste, rescued the would be suicide. He now proposes to live out his appointed time on earth, bearing his mellifluous partonymic with all the fortitude that he can summon to his aid.

On the 27th ult., the upper floors of the Capital building in Richmond Virginia, gave way. The galleries were crowded with people. Fifty or sixty persons were killed outright and near 200 more or less severely wounded.

THE STATE GEOLOGIST.—State Geologist Cox may be a very eminent geologist, and doubtless is; but we submit that he has devoted about enough time and labor to the interests of the coal and iron men of Clay county and Indianapolis and Terre Haute. There are other sections of Indiana quite as rich in minerals, and as important in the results that a geological survey would bring about, as Clay County; and if Prof. Cox can find an interval in his devotion to Indianapolis, Terre Haute and Clay county interest, to devote to the counties of Daviess, Sullivan, Gibson, Pike, Crawford and Dubois, he will only fulfill his obligations as a public official to other sections of the State. At all events, we trust the State Geologist will now introduce an interregnum into the Clay county comedy, and allow the curtain to go down on that part of the play, and remain down until his auditors have an opportunity for a long yawn, a strong yawn, and a yawn altogether.—N. A. Ledgers.

"Paris by Sunlight and Gaslight." A work descriptive of the Mysteries and Miseries, the Virtues, Vices, Splendors and Crimes of the City of Paris.—By James D. McCabe, Jr.

This is the title of the most complete and attractive book of the day, issued by the "National Publishing Co.," of Cincinnati, Ohio. It is a large volume of over eight hundred pages, magnificently illustrated with one hundred and fifty fine engravings, by the best French artists, and from the pen of a writer who knows Paris well. It is absorbing and entertaining in a high degree, for, besides containing a vast amount of instructive and abundant in brilliant and thrilling descriptions of the darker side of Parisian life. The reader is carried into the dark and squalid quarters of the Rag-pickers, and is introduced to the houses of the sad children of poverty; the most noted Lorettes and queens of the Demi-monde are portrayed with perfect truthfulness; the terrible roads which vice of all kinds has made in French society, is shown with a startling vigor; Mabelle with its gayeties, with the voluptuous Can-can, are brought home to him; and the mad revels of the carnival are reproduced with great accuracy. The book is, indeed, Paris photographed, and is as attractive and spicy to the reader, as the city itself to the American visitor. Our author dwells particularly on the "rapidity" with which our countrymen conduct themselves amidst the dissipation and temptations of the gay city; nor is the book valuable only for its sensational qualities. It is brim-full of the pleasantest historical instruction and no one possessing a library should fail to place it on its shelves. It is gotten up in exquisite taste by the Publishers, and is quite as attractive externally as internally. Amongst the illustrations of this fine work, we notice the names of Gustave Dore, De Bar, Fichot, Clerget, and Theroud—than whom France has given no more brilliant and successful workers in the art of engraving. It is sold only by subscription.

Mr. Augustus F. Coors, of Indianapolis, is evidently a grocer who does not very well know his own mind; and of him a curious tale is related. It is interesting as showing the facility with which, at the West, the marriage relation is assumed, discarded, and presently resumed. Eight months ago the aforesaid grocer was divorced from Mrs. Coors No. 1, and soon was married to Mrs. Coors No. 2. So far, as good as anything so melancholy could be. If Mr. Coors had a sufficient reason for ridding himself of his first wife, according to law, he was justified in doing so; but we hold that he was under a moral obligation to know his own mind, if he had any mind. Now, it appears, he has put away No. 2 and married No. 1 again. From this it would appear that Mr. C. is of a fickle and wavering turn, and that Mrs. C. No. 1 is of a mighty forgiving nature.

Brigham Young, who is only seventy years old, goes in for amusements, regardless of expense. He has a theater which is pronounced equal to Pike's first Opera House, and when there is any special attraction, he attends with his "family," and pays his bills like a man. A. F. Burnett, who lately gave two entertainments at Salt Lake City, writes in a private letter to a friend here: "Brigham's family were present both nights, and he was a most attentive listener. He paid me $70 for his 'family tickets.'"

Two young Shakers "Shook" the other Shakers of Rose Hill, Ky., a few days ago, and hunted up the Rev. Mr. Hunt, of Nicholasville. There Jariah McCoid became Mrs. John Boyd. Thus buoyed up, the couple went on their way rejoicing.

A woman in San Francisco put some castor beans in the stove to keep them out of the way of the children. Some of them burned, but others dropped through into the ashes, where the children found them. Of three poisoned, one died.

There are a good many people in this country who will be sorry to hear that Queen Victoria's health is declining fast. She has been a good woman in all the relations of life, a little foolish at times and sometimes wrong, but the world is the better for her having lived in it. She has always been the friend of America, although she has often been powerless to express it other than by words. Her death will be none the less deplored because it places the Prince of Wales who would scarcely have been tolerated by his miserable uncle George IV, upon the throne.
