WILLIAM A. GABE, Editor and Proprietor

Let us have Peace.

We heartily commend the following words from the Lafayette Journal:

We think that Republicans generally throughout the State feel that the moving spirit is toward harmony, conciliation, and the healing up of all past differences. There comes a time when the slate must be wiped off clean, and a new start made; when combatants have sufficiently punched each other's heads, and peace must be declared; when the quarrels, the criminations, the rivalries and jealousies, and feuds, and hard and bitter memories of the past must be blotted out and put away forever. Such a time has now come to the Republican party of Indiana. There have been quite enough advantages frittered away, strength wasted, animosities engendered, feud and strife stirred up, by internal dissensions. "A house divided against itself can not stand." A party engaged in constant civil war will assuredly destroy itself. Revenge and retaliation never come voluntarily to an end. The strong hand of common sense must interpose and put an end to the contest. We feel and hope that there is a disposition to blot out all memory of the feuds of the past everywhere, to exercise the evil spirits which past controversies may have engendered, and start out on an era of good feeling and renewal of long severed friendship. Let us have peace. If we can not we might as well abandon the field altogether. There must be an end of retaliations and old grudges, or the control of the State and the county will be turned over to the enemies of free thought, free speech, free manhood and free education.

—Dr. Foster, the geologist, has written a letter in which he gives many interesting details respecting the newly discovered coal of Indiana. The variety known as "block coal," after being submitted to theoretical and practical tests, has been found to have most of the properties of pure charcoal in the manufacture of iron and steel, and is one of the very few coals that can be introduced into the Bessemer furnace without preliminary coking. The value of such a mineral deposit in developing the industrial interests of Indiana needs no demonstration other than is afforded by the rapid increase in number of the iron foundries, rolling mills and manufacturies of this State. Our State is destined to become one of the wealthiest of the nation.

—A few days ago an old and prominent citizen of Washington county, Matthew Hitchcock, died, and, being an Odd Fellow in good standing, the lodge to which he belonged assembled to bury him, according to his last request. After leaving the house of the deceased, the cortege proceeded to a cemetery controlled by the Society of Friends, in which a lot was owned by the Hitchcock family, situated about two miles and a half from Salem. The procession was met on the way by one William Penn Trueblood, a leading member of the Society of Friends, accompanied by some fifteen or twenty of his followers, who informed the marshal that the corpse could not be buried in their burying ground unless it was done by them and according to their customs, giving as a reason that "they had never known any good of secret societies, such as Odd Fellows or Masons," and even forbade them performing the ceremony in the public highway. As the cemetery had been donated the Quakers by the father of the deceased, who had reserved a lot in it for the use of his family, the request was not heeded. Moving on, the procession arrived at the gate of the cemetery, which the "Friends" had secured with chains and padlock. During considerable excitement an opening was effected, and the last sad ceremony was solemnly performed, and many silent prayers were offered by the surviving brethren. And now it is said that the "Friends" have instituted suit for trespass against the Odd Fellows.

There is something particularly startling in the report and then the full confirmation of the freezing to death of seventeen persons in Nebraska. Lately, a party of immigrants with their families were passing through the country westward, when, the cold constantly increasing, they concluded to camp and light a fire. They were on a piece of high prairie, and several miles from any house, but some three miles off was a piece of timber. After unhitching their teams the men started for this timber to procure fuel. Not returning for several hours, the women left their children to hunt them. This is all that is known, save that the next day the bodies of seventeen persons, who had perished from the intense cold, were found. The children who were left in the wagons were the only survivors of the party who had started to promised homes in the West.

HOW THE PRINCE WAS SAVED.—In the critical period of his recent illness an 'old woman's remedy' saved the life of the Prince of Wales. Among the sacks full of letters which were poured into Sandringham from people in all parts of the country, making suggestions regarding the trusty old family prescriptions for allaying fever, came one from the traditional "old woman," proposing as a remedy for sleeplessness, that the Prince should be provided with a pillow stuffed with hops. The treatment was tried, apparently with success—and the Prince slept, whether from that cause or any other, and the sleep saved him. And what is more remarkable is that, awaking, the first thing that the Prince did was to call for a glass of bitter beer.

It may not be generally known that in case all the greenbacks were drawn in by contraction but one ten dollar bill, the holder could not get gold for it at the Treasury without a violation of law. Every dollar of coin is pledged to the payment of the interest and principal of the bonds, and before specie payments can be reached, that compact made with the public creditors must be changed. It will not be surprising if the holders of public securities shall claim that this shall not be done without their consent. Well, if we cannot quite reach specie payments as the law now is, we may come within one or two per cent. of it, which will be nearly as well.—Cin. Chronicle

It wil be remembered that after Robert Benjowsky had committed the Ringsdorf murder last March, he transferred to his lawyers, Messrs. Hord & Blair, his entire stock of drugs, etc., as a fee for defending him. Now Mrs. Benjowsky brings suit against Messrs. H. & B. for the amount of the fee, alleging that as he was insane (which fact has just been proven in court) he was incapable of transacting business, and they had no right to receive money from him. It promises to be an interesting case.

Smith had failed in business and sold out, and having two or three tough little bills, had given them to a lawyer for collection. Smith went to the office to receive the proceeds. The amount collected was about $50. 'I'm sorry you've been so unfortunate, Smith, for I take a great interest in you. I shan't charge you as much as I should if I didn't feel so much interest in you.' Here he handed Smith $15 and kept the balance. 'You see Smith, I knew you when you were a boy, and I knew your father before you, and I take a good deal of interest in you. Good morning, come and see me again!' Smith moving slowly out of the door, and ruefully contemplating the avails, was heard to mutter, 'Thank Heaven you don't know my grandfather!'

The Sun ceased to support Gen. Grant as soon as he began to appoint men to his Cabinet and to other high places in consideration of presents made to himself. We did this especially as soon as he made Adolph E. Borie, an utterly incompetent man, who had made him a large present in Philadelphia, Secretary of the Navy.—N. Y. Sun.

The Sun ought to have added to the above: And our hatred of Grant became more intense after he refused to appoint Mr. Charles A. Dana, editor-in-chief, to the position of Collector of the Port of New York.—Jour.

Olive Logan, since her marriage, has definitely withdrawn from the Woman Suffrage movement, on the ground, we presume, that she has taken a contract to make Wirt Sykes suffer for the remainder of his days, and that is enough to fill the measure of one woman's ambition.

THE CENTRE OF GRAVITY OF THE UNITED STATES.—Prof. Hilgard of the coast survey, has made some interesting calculations from the last and previous censuses, which show the steady westward movement of the population of the United States. Prof. Hilgard uses the phrase "centre of gravity of the population," which, imagining the country to be a plane loaded with inhabitants, distributed over it in the manner shown by the census, would be the point on which the plane would balance. In 1840 this point was near the foot of the Cumberland mountains, in Virginia, upon the 30th parallel of latitude. In 1850 the census showed that the point had moved westward 57 miles, to a point south of Parkersburg, Va. In 1860 it was 82 miles further west at a place south of Chillicothe, Ohio, not far from the line between Virginia and Kentucky. In 1870 the point was found to have moved 45 miles further west, and it is now at Wilmington, Clinton county, Ohio. He estimates that in the year 1900 the centre will be found to be near Bloomington, Ind.

Now who wouldn't live in Bloomington after this explanation.

☞ The Indianapolis Daily Sentinel, which has always been a good paper, made its appearance on New Year Day in an entire new suit of type. Barring its politics, the Sentinel reflects credit upon the Capital City.
