A Rebel on Grant.

In his work entitled "The War Between the States," Vol. 11, page 597, by Alexander H. Stephens, the author says:

"I was in-tantly struck with the great simplicity and perfect naturalness of his manner, and the entire absence of everything like effa- tion, show, or even military air or mean of men in his position."

There was nothing in his position or surroundings which indicated his official rank. * * * His conversation was easy and fluent, without the least effort or restraint. In this, too, Grant was so closely noticed by me as the point and terseness with which he expressed whatever he said. He did not seem either to court or avoid conversation, but whenever he did speak, what he said was directly to the point, and covered the whole matter in a few words. I saw, before I was with him long, that he was exceedingly quick in perception, and direct in purpose, with a vast deal more of brains than tongue, as ready as that was at my command. * * * The more I became acquainted with him, the more I became thoroughly impressed with the very extraordinary combination of rare elements of character which he exhibited. * * *

Upon the whole, the result of this first acquaintance with General Grant * * * was, the conviction on my mind, that taken all in all, he was one of the most remarkable men I had ever met with, and that his career in life, if his days should be prolonged, was hardly ended upon; that he himself was not aware of his power, and that if he lived he would in the future exhibit a controlling influence in shaping the destinies of this country, etc.

One hundred men working in Gill's car shops, of Columbus, Ohio, all Democrats, on Tuesday night, formed a procession, and with a banner at the head of the procession on which was inscribed "We prefer a man of deeds rather than of words," marched to the Grant and Wilson club headquarters and asked to sign their names. The crowd gathered until it had to adjourn to the State House, whence it formed in procession and surprised Gov. Noyes with a visit, who then made them a speech.

A daughter of James McDowell, of Carroll county, was recently discharged from the Insane Asylum, after some years' treatment, as incurably insane. Soon after being taken home, she fell and struck her head against a kettle, fracturing her skull. From that time on she possessed full control of her faculties until her death, which occurred some time after, from the effects of the accident.

A colored gentleman named William Watkins, called Bill for short, living near New Albany, after partaking of politics and whisky, went home and took measures for his wife's funeral, by beating out her brains with a club. He stifled his grief in a cell, and the funeral went on without him.

The comet, the New York Tribune insists, may come yet, and the people had better not commence being wicked and reckless at once. "Comets are eccentric. Astronomers are fallible. The comet may have stopped somewhere to wood and water. When it was first observed it was 3,000,000 miles from the earth. Its rate of travel is nineteen miles a second. Now, when we come to cypher from numerical data like these, it is easy to make a mistake of a few billions of miles or so." To be sure. Figures are delicate things, and easily disarranged. There were those figures from North Carolina, when the majority were confident they had carried it, and North Carolina is but a short distance from New York.

One of the editors of the St. Louis Globe has conversed with a prominent gentleman just from North Carolina, who asserts, from his observation of the strength of Republican sentiment, and from figures and facts obtained in his travels over a large portion of the State, that the majority for Grant and Wilson will be ten thousand, instead of that now conceded by the Democrats.

THE ALBANY for September is a remarkable meritorious number, both as regards its artistic and literary attractions. "Moonlight on the Hudson," drawn by Paul Dixon and engraved by Bogert, is a specimen of what the best of American Art may well be proud. The scene appears to have been chosen just above the Highlands, probably between there and Poughkeepsie; and the effect is a perfect triumph of light and shadow, with a harmony of feeling resulting in and with a most splendid and truthful effect that it has never been our good fortune to see. The other full-page cut, "Wood Ducks," by Gilbert Darling, is a most charming glimpse of nature; and the coloring is displayed in the minutest details of gorgeous plumage and profuse vegetation, stamps the draughtsman as an enthusiastic and careful student of the subject. Those who were delighted with the "Jolly Newfoundland Dog," in the March number, will be equally pleased with Mr. Thayer's "The Old Fisherman," in the September number, in which the poor old fisherman is depicted in a most touching and sympathetic manner, asking, "What Rats?" "Watering Cattle" by Peter Moran; "Little Elsie," by John S. Davis; "Lala Corinthia," after the painting by the same artist, and a number of other excellent illustrations, all of which will have no rival, when, at the close of the year, it is bound or laid upon the parlor, or library table—it will indeed be a royal volume. Subscription (including Old Chron.) $5.00. James Watson & Co., Publishers, 55 Maiden Lane, New York.

The New York World of recent date says: "We will frankly admit that we ourselves, although supporting Mr. Greeley, should be unwilling to submit the financial policy of the country, to his uncontrolled guidance. We have no faith in his financial wisdom and never had."

The Greenbacker Banner thinks Will H. Crow should be elected Township Trustee, because he found a man's pocketbook and didn't keep it, but returned it to its owner. Such Crow is not bad to take.

A Detroit paper says that Mr. George Barrell committed suicide because he was disappointed in love. He couldn't bear the thought of remaining a single Barrell.

Nepotism—Hendricks vs. Grant.

In a speech recently delivered at Lawrenceburg, Hon. G. S. Orth spoke as follows on the subject of nepotism:

"1. When Thomas A. Hendricks was in Congress from the Shelbyville district, his father was appointed visitor to the military school at West Point."

"2. I find that while the afore-said Thomas A. Hendricks was in Congress from that district, by some accident or other, his brother in law, Stephen Morgan, was appointed postmaster at Shelbyville."

"3. I find that while the afore-said Thomas A. Hendricks was commissioner of the General Land Office under James Buchanan, somehow or other, his brother, John Hendricks, was appointed postmaster at Shelbyville."

"4. I find that under the administration of Andy Johnson, when to my certain knowledge, Thomas A. Hendricks controlled the political patronage of this State, the afore-said John Hendricks was again appointed postmaster at Shelbyville."

"5. I find that when Mr. Hendricks was commissioner of the General Land Office, he appointed a brother of his by the name of Jas. Hendricks, to a prominent clerkship in the Land Office at Washington."

"6. I find, furthermore, that Thomas A. Hendricks has a relative by the name of Dr. S. B. Day, whom he had appointed to take charge of some matters connected with the public lands in Minnesota."

"Now then, fellow-citizens, if it is wrong for General Grant, out of sixty odd thousand offices, to put six of his relatives in office, is it right for Thomas A. Hendricks to provide comfortable positions for an equal number of his relatives?" [Applause.] So much for this question of nepotism.

Greeley's election will be the revival of the rebellion. Under Greeley the late rebel States can secede by the mere asking. They will ask to go, and he says they shall.

There is a colored Greeley and Brown club in Indianapolis, composed of a hairdresser named Mahan.

The South Bend Tribune says: "Two Democrats were heard indulging in a discussion on the Court House steps after the close of Morton's record of Greeley last Saturday. 'No Greeley for me,' said one, adding: 'How many Democrats are there in the United States?' 'About four millions,' was the answer. 'Four millions of us, and none of us fit for President? I'll vote for Grant.'"

WHAT I KNOW ABOUT TRIMMING.—Since the days of our grandmothers, there has never been such a rage for trimmings upon ladies' dresses and suits, as this year; and the most popular is the co-called French fold, made from bias material, put upon the dress in a variety of styles. To trim dresses at the present day without the various Sewing Machine attachments would be an impossibility.

A young man in Chicago has just invented an improvement for all Sewing Machines, with which to put on the fold as fast and as easily as an ordinary hand can be made. The same implement is also a practical Binder and good Hemmer.

It is being made and sold by the Leslie Ruffler Company, and is a valuable addition to the Sewing Machine. It is called Comings' French Trimmer, and will be sold by all Sewing Machine Agents.—Chicago Post.

Is there any Republican who would vote to put the Sons of Liberty in power? He who votes for Hendricks votes straight for that.

With Grant we will have peace; with Greeley another rebellion; with his bloody conflicts, cruelties, miseries, persecutions, privations, drafts, &c.

If you are a Democrat and believe Horace Greeley tells the truth, you are a "liar and a horse thief."

Grant's Principles.

The following extracts from the correspondence of General Grant, indicate the motives and principles which guide him in conducting the affairs of the nation, and alone ought to put to blush the silly charge of the opposition that he is a dictator and a tyrant:

If my course is not satisfactory, remove me at once. I do not wish in any other way to impede the success of our arms.—Grant to Halleck, February, 6 1862.

No theory of my own will ever stand in the way of my executing in good faith any order I may receive from those in authority over me.—Grant to Secretary Chase, May 29, 1865.

This is a Republic where the will of the people is the law of the land.—Grant's Letter to President Johnson, August, 1867.

I shall have no policy of my own to interpose against the will of the people.—Grant's Letter, May, 20, 1868.

Human liberty is the only foundation of human government.—Grant's Letter to the Citizens of Memphis.

Let us have peace.—Grant's Letter, May 29, 1870.
