Extracts from DeLong's note book have been received by the Navy Department from Lieut. Melville. They tell the sad, sickening story of cold, starvation and death on the bleak Siberian coast, and convey a fearful warning to adventurous spirits who would follow in their footsteps.

The first case of yellow fever appeared at New Orleans on Monday week. It was brought by an English sailor named Dan Forbes, from Montevideo. As he had been in a crowded boarding house, and mingled with many of his class, it is feared the disease will spread.

A few days ago a small cyclone struck the town of Ireland, Dubois county, demolishing a new and large residence just erected by Dr. Parr and wrecking the new Odd Fellows Hall, but missing all other houses. What is singular is that last winter both Dr. Parr's residence and the Odd Fellows' Hall were destroyed by fire.

A cyclone struck Indianapolis Sunday night a week about 11 o'clock. A colored boy named Dan was killed, J. E. Mann, of the C. & I. Air Line railroad was seriously injured. St. Paul's church was almost demolished and a large number of other buildings damaged. The loss in the city is estimated at $50,000, while in shade and ornamental trees and shrubbery, the damage was very great.

In the Supreme Court of Indiana, on the 21st, in a case wherein an appellant was seeking a divorce on account of the insanity of her husband, Judge Elliott held: "Appellant seeks a divorce because for eight years past, her husband has been insane and failed to provide her with food, clothing or shelter. Insanity is no cause for divorce. Divorces are granted for faults, not for misfortune. The statute was not meant to apply to cases where the inability to take provision arises from mental or physical disease."

It may well be questioned whether the coming of as many as nearly one hundred thousand emigrants a month will prove beneficial in its effects. Landowners will be enriched wherever the emigrants settle, for land always increases in value with the increase in population, but workingmen will find it harder and harder to gain the means of subsistence. When labor is striking all over the country because rents and provisions are high and wages low the evil is likely to be increased by such a great influx of foreigners. An increase of a million a year is certainly more than we can assimilate. If it goes on, we may be compelled to take the same measures against European emigration that were recently taken against the Chinese.

SILENT BE! IT IS THE GOAT.—A goat went into a St. Louis church during service, jumped up on a seat and went to eating the artificial flowers off a lady's bonnet. She yelled three kinds of murder, and an usher came to put the goat out. They found the usher in the organ loft soon after, and he wanted to know if the baggage car telescoped into the caboose. A goat is a good deal like a gun that isn't loaded. It goes off in the most unaccountable manner.

At Leavenworth, Kansas, on Wednesday last a party of convicts at the State Penitentiary were holding down the tongue of a dray while a stone of several tons weight was being loaded at the opposite end. The prison guards in charge called one of the men to do something else, when all except one let go of the tongue. The weight of the stone threw the tongue into the air with great force, and it was thrown up thirty feet. The fall broke his neck.

When Mrs. Gutzkow found herself on the road to Redwood City, California, her buggy upset, her horse run away, and her husband disabled by a lame leg and a broken arm, she was in a sore quandary what to do. After a while a man came driving by, and she begged him to take her husband and herself to town. He refused, saying he was in a hurry. Thereupon Mrs. Gutzkow snatched up her husband's overcoat, pulled out a revolver, seized the man's horse by the bit, leveled the shooting iron at him, and threatened to put him out of the necessity of ever keeping another engagement if he did not comply with her request. He saw dead earnestness in her eye, weakened, and took his husband and wife to Redwood City; and now Mrs. Gutzkow's reputation as a heroine is firmly established on the Pacific coast. Her husband is a son of the popular poet and writer who recently met his death in Germany by suffocation during a chloral hydrate sleep.

The White House Mail.

Chicago Times Washington Letter.

Several hundred letters are received every day at the White House. They are delivered by a special messenger. The correspondence addressed to the President is not opened by him, and it is very rare that he reads one of the thousands of letters addressed to him.

WIDE AWAKE.—The June number of this excellent children's publication opens with a charming little sketch, "How Jacky Went to Church on Easter Sunday," by Mrs. Elizabeth Barnett Hitt. In addition to giving Mrs. Hitt's sketch the place of honor, the publishers have prefaced it with a beautifully-printed full-page illustration designed by Mrs. Jessie Curtis Shepard. It is impossible in a brief notice to give even the full table of contents, and the statement that it comprises about forty articles by well-known caterers to juvenile taste must suffice. D. Lathrop & Co., Boston.

THE CENTURY FOR JUNE.

The illustrated paper covers a good deal of ground. The first of Mr. Mitchell's papers on seafaring is devoted to "The Age of Piracy." The subject is treated in an expository way, and is illustrated with beautiful engravings by Cole, Kruell, Miss Powell, Evans, Babcock, Shusler, and Tynan. More superb cuts of ancient art have probably never been made. A paper on "Oddities of Southern Life," by Henry Watterson, who, after recalling much that was humorous and characteristic of the South, says: "The 'Old South' and 'Major Jones,' record some of the marked changes that have occurred, since the war, in the motives of society, concludes with a tribute to Southern women and the new Southern thrift. Among the other material is a clever piece of funny verse, entitled "The Year of the 'Hobomantic,'" an endeavor to restore a healthy taste for the Mediæval and the Strong." The author is George M. Davis.
