incidents enliven us as well as everybody else, and considerably assist us in making life bearable. Still, we prefer sleeping in our canoes. We are disturbed a little is a good Democrat. He has gone

Incident of the Flood.

ington, at 10 o'clock p.m., Saturday, ber, 1884.

JOSEPH G. MCPHERSON, Jr., Secretary.

—When the war broke out Indiana had a population of about 1,400,000. Out of this number 208,000 went into the war, or two voters out of every three. No state in the Union can show as good a record. The Indiana soldiers were found in the first and last battles of the war. The graves of Indiana soldiers can be found on every battle field of the South; they died in every rebel prison.
The people of Indiana, when the war broke out, were purely an agricultural people. They knew nothing of war, but they proved that a citizen soldier is the best.
If the State could furnish (and it did furnish) 208,000 soldiers in the 60's, now in the 80's it could turn out 300,000 men, all equally as good.

—It is surprising, says the New York World, "that the vast destruction caused by these floods does not prompt some attempt at efficient protection. Millions of property are destroyed year after year.
Would it not be wise to spend millions to prevent such destruction? Engineering science and skill are almost limitless and certainly some methods might be devised by which the overflowing waters would be held in check so as to lessen if not to avert such disasters. We spend many millions on the imaginary improvement of mud creeks and fish ponds under the name of Rivers and Habors. Why not set our engineers at work on the problem of how to avert the destruction caused by the fatal freshets?"

Special to Indianapolis Journal:

Madison, Ind., Feb. 19.—Leaving Aurora at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the first stop of the good relief steamer General Pike was made at Rising Sun, where rations were issued to Mayor Wilber for 100 persons living at Rabbit Pass and in the vicinity of Arnold's creek. The people are high and dry, and were not injured by the flood. Before reaching Rising Sun the boat was hailed at a farm four miles above, in Ohio county, by Hiram Barricklow, who wanted food for his tenants. It was given him, but then Lieutenant Ruben did not know that Mr. Barricklow was worth $80,000, and could take care of a hundred tenants. A woman, who had been advised that the patient should restrict himself absolutely to milk and continue the treatment for a long time. If it disagrees with the stomach (as in some cases it will), Dr. Mitchell advises that the patient be put to bed and the treatment commenced with tablespoonful doses, to which lime water is added, until the stomach tolerates the milk, when from eight to ten pints daily should be taken, and absolutely nothing else.

wisest measure for the advancement of Temperance? Aff., Van Buskirk, Ida Faris, Neg., W. H. Robinson, Maggie Porch. Specimens limited to 8 minutes.

Declamation.—The Modern Cain, Nellie Wade.

Oration.—The Mill and the Mill, Louis Morris.

Song.—Trio from Ruth, Mississippi, Rawles, Wilson.

Friends of the pupils and all patrons of the school will be welcome. Citizens not accustomed to visiting the High School are especially invited. The program indicates an interesting exercise.

old, long slim horns, blind in the right eye, strayed away from Bloomington Sunday night, Feb. 25th. Leave word at McPherson's hardware store.

Co. have for sale hickory stove wood, sawed to proper lengths.
Will deliver to any part of the city.
One horse wagon loads 75 cents, two horse wagon loads $1.25. Or-since. The ground looks dead and I believe it is. Occasionally these spots are met with all over the prairies. They account for them as Buffalo traps, where buffaloes congregated in fly time and tramped until they killed the soil, but from the above occurrence I account for them as having been struck by lightning."

—The city of Bloomington undoubtedly has the best fire service in the State for the size of the place.
During the past winter they have erected a two-story stone front engine-house, costing three thousand dollars. Having put an attachment to the engine in the shape of a Silsby heater, they are enabled to keep a steam pressure of twenty pounds on the boiler at all times. The citizens are proud of the Sanderson, and have no fear of any more disastrous fires in their midst. First, an All New Albany press.

—Cin. Commercial: That which is most surprising about the flood, so far as the city is concerned, is the little actual injury done the houses by the high water. During the flood in the Rhine in December, 1882, an immense number of houses collapsed in the raging waters, causing a great loss of life, and the floods in Hungary, last year, were attended with similar catastrophes.

—At a place known as Smith's Mills, about six miles west of Nashville, a man from Lawrence county established a "groggery," and furnished the comers and goers with beer and whiskey. The building in which these drinks were sold was situated on the edge of Salt Creek's bank, which is fully thirty feet high. A few nights ago the people of the surrounding neighborhood armed themselves with poles and levers, hoisted the groggery building from its foundation, and overturned it into the creek below. The whole outfit was washed by the current into Monroe county. Quite a number of barrels of liquor were lost, besides the bar fixtures, which were fine and costly. The damage amounts to several hundred dollars.
