REPUBLICAN Congressional Convention.

Pursuant to an appointment made at the Republican Congressional Convention of the 5th Congressional District of Indiana, at Greencastle, February 11th, 1886, I hereby give notice that the Congressional Republican Delegates of the several counties comprising said District will meet at Greencastle, Franklin, Johnson county, on Thursday, July 25th, 1886, a.m. for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Congress for said disctrict.

Said delegates are distributed to the counties as follows:

Bartholomew County,	13
Brown	3
Johnson	10
Hendricks	15
Morgan	12
Decatur	7
Franklin	13
Monroe	9
Total number of Delegates,	82

W. M. F. BROWNING,
Chairman
5th Congressional District Committee,
Bloomington, Ind., July 8th, 1886.

—W. H. Smith, the Indiana correspondent of the Commercial Gazette, says in a letter from Green-castle to his paper:

If there is a Democratic Congressional District in this State that ought to be carried by the Republicans this year it is the Fifth. Whether it will be or not will be owing entirely to the Republicans themselves. Mr. Matson has been growing more and more unpopular with his party each year he has served in Congress, but by cunningly manipulating so as to divide the strength of his opponents he has each time succeeded in having himself renominated. The opposition this year is stronger and more bitter than ever before, and permeates all classes and reaches to all parts of the district.

Capt. Levi Shields, residing a few miles east of Corydon, is engaged very extensively in the culture of German carp, and relates a very singular story, which would not be vouched as true were not the captain a strict member of the church. He states that when he wants to fish the fish, he goes to the pond and rings a small bell. Instantly the fish from all parts of the pond start for the feeding place, and gather in great numbers near the shore, and fight for the particles of food as it is thrown to them. The captain says he can call up his fish any time by simply ringing his bell.

—A Nebraska postmaster, who pleaded guilty to the charge of being "roaring drunk," excused himself on the ground of the events justifying the spree. One was the election of Grover Cleveland and another when the Republican postmaster was turned out, and he was put in. He was let off with a censure, and a gentle warning to be less demonstrative in his approval of political changes.

—Most people believe that the $50,000 a year which the president gets as his salary is the sum total. The estimate of the amount congress is to appropriate this year lies before us, open to the page relating to the president. We see that $36,084 is asked for him, in addition to his salary of $50,000, to pay the salaries of his subordinates and clerks. His private secretary is paid $2,250, his assistant private secretary, $1,250, his stenographer $1,800, 2 door-keepers who each get $1,200, 4 other clerks at good salaries, 1 telegraph operator, 2 ushers getting $1,200 and $1,400, a night usher getting $1,200, a watchman who gets $900, a man to take care of the fires who gets $864 a year. In addition to this there is $8,000 for incidental expenses, such as stationery, carpets and the care of the president's stables. And further on, under another heading, there is a demand for nearly $40,000 more. Of this $12,500 is for repairs and furnishing the white-house, $2,500 for fuel, $3,000 is for the green house, $15,000 is for gas, matches and the stables. The white house, all told, in these days of Jeffersonian simplicity, costs the country, in connection with the president, considerably over $120,000 a year.

—The political outlook in Indiana was never more favorable to the Republicans, and unless there is a very decided change before election the Republicans will "sweep the plateau clean." In every Congressional district where the Congressional conventions have been held there is a rupture. In the third district there is a bitter strife, and in the case, as before leaving here and after arriving there he had several successes. There is a great deal of severe hemming and hawing from the Indiana state among the Decrats of this district, and the right man can beat the hypocritical Matson this year. Over in the fourth (Holman's) district, there is much trouble. Holman has been renominated by the federal office holders as Matson was in this district, and a very large per cent of the Democrats say he must be defeated. They have found that it is impossible to keep him out of the nomination, and the only way to get rid of him is to beat him at the polls, and then they intend to do this year. There have been a great many smaller splits in the party, and everything goes to show that the members of the party have but one end in view, and this is to get some of his children—a son in Illinois, and a daughter in Wisconsin. All hope to see him return with health much improved—Mr. Bridges, owner of the depot restaurant, contemplates the purchase of a grist mill at Cincinnati, Greene co., which he may remove to Stanford—Mrs. Whaley and her daughter Hattie, of Stanford, have gone to Kansas to reside—Wm. A. Rogers says the electric light is strong enough to show him how to work at his barn, a mile or more northeast of town—Mr. Waldron made a business trip to Bedford last week—Geo. Stepp raised eleven acres of wheat that threshed out twenty-six bushels to the acre—Samuel Dodds and wife are at Indian Springs—Miss Mamie Taylor is visiting relatives in Bloomington—Miss Unthank of Richmond, is visiting Mrs. Carter Pering—Eph.
