Printed each Wednesday Morning, by
WILLIAM A. GARE, Editor and Publisher.
IN ADVANCE, $1.50 a Year

—Of all the harangues that have been made in favor of the anarchists, scarcely one was delivered by a native American and not half of them in the English language. It is no wonder that so many of the true American citizens of foreign birth are demanding such laws as will keep out this scum that brings reproach upon the whole foreign-born population.

—The California fever seems to be raging in Richmond. On the 10th of October between thirty and forty persons left for Los Angeles. The California fever is better for Richmond than the Wichita fever. Those who go so far west can never come back, while those who go to Wichita can walk back without losing much sleep.

—The Indiana conference of the M. E. church has a fund of $29,491.98, and two bequests of $10,000 each were left them, one from the late Wm. Mangum, of Gibson county, and one from the DePaw estate. The society appointed a representative to appear for them in the suit brought by Mrs. McIntosh to set aside the DePaw will.

—Gen. Sheridan's prediction in his speech at the centennial banquet, that arbitration will take the place of war in the settlement of the international disputes, is not surprising to his intimate associates who know the bent of his mind and his opinion in regard to progress in civilized countries. He believes that a revolution must take place. To a friend the General remarked a few days ago: "The present tendency of the armaments throughout the world is towards organized murder as a substitute for military strategy and civilized warfare."

—A Philadelphia collector has adopted an ingenious device for bringing delinquent debtors to terms. He makes his visits to them in a carriage on which is painted in bold letters: "Installment collector of unpaid bills." The Press says he stopped the other day at an up-town house and rang the bell. The woman who came to the door shook her head, indicating that she was not prepared to pay her bill. "Well," said he, "I will have to drive around again." Womanlike, she looked after him as he was departing, and her eyes fell on the give-way inscription. Her face paled with indignation, and she could hardly suppress her wrath as she beckoned the collector to come back. He returned, and she evidently settled her account, for he erased something from a small book he held in his hand, and an expression of contentment played over his face as he jumped into his carriage and drove off. The house door closed with a bang.

—Robert Kingsbury, a well known school teacher of Bond township, says the Lawrenceville Republican, went to a Bird Station drug store Wednesday morning before starting to his school and purchased some capsules filled with what the clerk, Sam Pinkstaff, thought was quinine. He took one of the capsules and had not gone a great distance on his way until he began to feel rather queer sensations. He took another look at his purchase and concluded to go back and ascertain if the clerk had not made a mistake. Arriving at the drug store he produced the other capsules and demanded to know if they had given him quinine. The clerk grabbed the stuff from him and hid it away, so we have been told. Mr. Kingsbury had taken a three-grain capsule of morphine instead of quinine and soon after arriving at the store went to sleep and for hours it was impossible to awaken him.

—When President Cleveland talks about insults from Grand Army men he is forgetful that it was he who first insulted them. He went out of his way in his veto messages to brutally make light of the old soldiers who asked for pensions. If he is getting more than he bargained for, he should remember that he began the row. [Denver Republican.]

—In speaking of the Asiatic cholera in quarantine at New York, Health Commissioner DeWolf said last night: "This information is very interesting to us if read aright. But we do not need to be alarmed about any immediate danger in this country. The great danger is not from such cases. The clothing, if right and all the effects of this vessel, as well as all persons on board, will be thoroughly disinfected. There will not be the least possibility of any cases arising from it. Where I fear trouble is from the following source: The summer clothing packed in the infected districts in Europe may be sent over to this country in a ship that would have no case of cholera aboard to cause any attention to be paid to disinfecting. They are left until spring and then opened. In a short time the whole country is infested with new cases of cholera arising, apparently, without cause. In 1873, there were three cases of the kind where the clothing that had been packed in the fall in the old country was opened here. There can be no effects of this epidemic in Chicago this fall. It is too late in the season. Cholera germs cannot have any results in cold weather. Yes, I really have some fears for next spring—not particularly this city, but the whole country at large."

—Sam Small was a Georgia Democrat and newspaper man before he got religion and became a co-worker with Sam Jones. He is now making prohibition speeches in Missouri, and confesses some of his past sins in this frank language: "I was born a Democrat, raised a Democrat. I studied its principles fully. I worked for it, I have spent money for it, I have drunk whisky for it, I have lied for it, I have stolen ballots for it, I have stuffed ballot boxes for it, I did all it told me, and it took me within half a mile of hell." How many Democrats could tell a similar story if they would be equally frank? "Who stopped the town clock?" Let some Democrat answer that!

—The Board of County Commissioners have ordered suit brought against the bondsmen of ex-Treasurer John Stevenson for an alleged deficiency of $1,500 in accounts, says the Booneville Standard, setting the trial for the last week of the September term. Mr. Stevenson assigned a farm of over 200 acres to his bondsmen, and it is believed that when relieved of other sureties of his own account he will be able to settle without loss to his bondsmen.

The Coming Weddings: A Protest.

Not a "protest" against the weddings (mentioned by the Progress last week) for the more of them the merrier, if, in all respects except one, they should be like a late wedding party in our city which it was our privilege to attend. The "one respect," to which exception is taken, was not very creditable to our night police force or to our citizens' conception of decency and order. One of our good families on West Second st. had invited some friends to their home to witness the marriage of their daughter, and they had the right to a quiet, social evening with their friends, protected from annoyance and insult. Yet the host and hostess, and their guests, some of whom were strangers in the city, had to have their evening's social pleasure disturbed and marred by a set of boys giving what they call a "shivaree." These boys ranged in ages from 8 to 18, and they evidently thought that they had a right on such occasions to do such things. For two hours or more they made hideous noises about the house, coming into the yard and sometimes to the windows and the porch, blowing horns, beating kettles, scraping pot-lids, and by hootings and cat-calls making such disturbances that at times conversation had to cease at the tables and in the parlors. It was a shame and an outrage. There was no relief or protection except for the host to buy peace from the rowdies, which he very wisely refused to do. Why should such things be allowed?

I have often wondered why the outrage of the charivari should be tolerated. It is without the shadow of an excuse. Its former purpose to insult and annoy may have given way to the less harmless (?) one of extorting money or getting something to eat, but even that has long since lost its smartness or "fun," if it ever had any, and has become humiliating. It is merely a relic of an uncivilized people. Let us improve on the manners of "Way back"; let us be different from what "Rocky Creek" was forty years ago. We may not need them to blush before strangers in apology for the manners of our people.

Let the city authorities stop the charivari. J. A. W.

—Ind. News: A gentleman, who stood watching the long trains pass through the depot yesterday at noon, said: "It was formerly a source of wonder to me how St. Louis could accommodate the crowds who sometimes gather in her borders; but recently I paid a visit to a relative who lives there, and it was all made clear. This man occupies a large house and pays heavy rent, and as his visible income had always been meager, there had been more or less conjecture by the branch of his family who live here as to how he made both ends meet. At the time I visited him there had just been a great crowd in the city and I inquired how it was disposed of."

"Well, we all threw our doors open to them," was the answer. "How many do you suppose we took in here?"

"I looked about and said if they had been crowded considerably they might have taken twenty-five or thirty."

"He laughed. 'We had just 103 over night. Why, a lot right there under the stairs easily brought us $1.50.'"

"Since then several things have appeared in a new light to my mind, which had before been seen as in a glass darkly."

—An exchange says it is a well known fact among railroad men that on railroads running north and south the west rail wear the faster; that five rails will wear out on the west track while three are doing service on the east side.

CHIPS AND SPLINTERS.

A Bad Preacher.
OLATHE, Kas., Oct. 7.—Mrs. Anna J. Whitla, wife of Rev. J. L. Whitla, U. P. minister at Edgerton, near here, has begun suit for divorce and $5,000 alimony. She alleges that her husband is guilty of adultery with women members of his congregation; that he has frequently whipped and beaten her; that he has applied foul epithets to her in both public and private; that he has given her only two dollars and forty cents since their marriage in 1883; that he has used his eight children for former wives in their abuse of her, and that his favorite name for her is "fool," "dumb" and "crank." She is fifty-one years old. Whitla has always been a good reputation, heretofore.

Mrs. Whitla was best known in Bloomington as the widow of John Cherry, and she is an estimable woman of a pleasant, cheerful disposition. Whitla, it would seem, is anything but a saint, though he is engaged in preparing people to become saints.

—Travelers and persons who desire a quiet, home-like hotel, should stop at the Orchard House, situated directly east of the depot. The rooms are large, airy and comfortably furnished, the table well supplied with all that any one could require, while everything is neat, clean and inviting. The "Orchard" has become a popular resort for families desiring to take meals away from home, and those who stay any time at the Orchard feel more at home than at any other hotel in the town of Bloomington.

"THE CENTURY" has rapidly crowded to the front as a first class literary Magazine, until under its present management it has become a phenomenon and is the one thing commented upon by magazine readers. The war articles that have had so great a run in the Century have added interest to its former excellence, and in fact under the able and impetuous guidance of Gen. Grant's articles its circulation was doubled in a few months. The publishers have in no wise relaxed their efforts in this regard, and it is quite probable that war articles by prominent generals will be one of the leading features of the Century throughout the year 1887. It is sold by all news-dealers.

WIDE AWAKE is one of those publications that is a constant source of delight to the juvenile portion of the community and a real mine of interest to the elders of the family. It is one of the standard publications of its kind in the country and is endorsed by all who have had the good fortune to see it. Not only are the sketches carefully prepared but the illustrations are among the best that appear in any magazine that is published. It would be well to write to the publisher, D. Lothrop, Boston, Mass.

Elverson's GOLDEN DAYS is a publication that needs but an examination to recommend it to the public at large. It is handsomely printed on heavy paper, its illustrations are the best that money will procure, while the stories are written by authors of established reputation. Golden Days is one of those magazines that causes the reader to be impatient for the next issue, because each number is a promise of something still better to come. Every boy or girl who is a patron of "Golden Days" has a fund of information at hand that is not easily procured, as to travels and travelers in foreign lands. Jas. Elverson, Philadelphia, Penn. is the publisher.
