CAUTION! CAUTION!

There are base imitations of South American Nervine now in this country. The only authorized agents who sell the genuine medicine are Faris Bros. When you buy anything else you throw your money away, and are cruelly deceived. Remember.

—Stineville, July 25, '90.—
Messrs. Faris Bros.—I can testify to the good effects of South American Nervine. I was sick last winter and nothing I could get seemed to do me any good till I was induced to buy a bottle of South American Nervine while in Bloomington. I have used four bottles, and the medicine acted like a charm in my case. I can recommend it to any one.

—GEO. S. COLDEN.

—Henry Gillman, of Needmore, Brown county, writes to Faris Bros. "I had a bad case of dyspepsia, with nausea, and a feeling of fullness at times made me feel as if I was about to die. I took six bottles of South American Nervine, and am now as well as I ever was in my life. You can use this letter as you see fit."

—HENRY GILLMAN.

—Solisbury, Greene co., July 9, '90.—Messrs. Faris Bros.—My wife had been unable to sit up more than two hours each day since she had a gripple last winter, till within the past two months, when she began to improve with the use of South American Nervine, three bottles of which I bought in May, while in Bloomington. She has gained weight, and is as strong as ever, and indeed her recovery is almost miraculous. We can publish this if you wish to.

—T. V. COOK.

—NEAR MAHALASTIVILLE, Aug. 20, 1890.—To Faris Bros., Druggists.—I am full of thankfulness for the benefits derived from South American Nervine bought at your store. It seemed to reach the spot from the first dose. I have a good appetite, sleep soundly and can work with all my old vigor. I certainly a great deal to you. Send me three bottles for which I enclose the money.

—HENRY SHARP.

—JONESBORO, Greene co., Ind., Aug. 27, 1890.—Messrs. Faris Bros., Gentlemen: On the 4th of July I came to Bloomington to witness the celebration. I had been sick from the effects of a gripple since early in the winter, and was very much discouraged. While in your place I was advised by a stranger who noticed my evident bad health to try South American Nervine. I did so, and up to the present time have taken three bottles. It has been worth an untold amount to me, for it has built up my health till I am feeling like another person. I recommend it wherever any one will listen to me.

—JOHN E. SCOGGIAN.

—Bloomington, Ind., Aug. 12, 1890.—Faris & Bros. Gentlemen:—I am now on my 8th bottle of South American Nervine, and I feel well enough to quit. But I won't do it till I am certain I am cured. I feel like a new man, my liver is well, and I feel like a new man. I am all right now, thanks to this medicine.

—Yours truly, ASHER SCHLELY.

Circuit Court at Work.

The money in which business has been dispatched in court the present term has been gratifying to the many friends of Judge Duncan. There have been but few delays, and so waiting for the court. The regular panel was discharged on Wednesday evening last Tuesday morning at this week, saving to tax payers of the county the expense of a jury sitting around and waiting for something to turn up. Divorce cases (and the docket is crowded with them) have always been taken up at odd times—nearly always when a jury and witnesses in important matters were waiting—but they were all set down for Monday and worked through in one day. It has been a long time since as much business has been done in the same length of time as has been during this term of court—all of which is appreciated by litigants and the public.

A Dillman-Rhorer FAMILY REUNION.

Hoping that the Rhorers and Dillmans have many friends, and knowing that they have a host of relatives who had not the pleasure of attending the reunion of their families in the Gordon Grove, near Clear Creek, on Thursday, Sept. 4th, I enclose a short report.

To give a full report would require an extended account of music both instrumental and vocal; of members of families, a welcome or opening address by Miss Daisy Woodward, which was well received by the many stranger relatives who first met her there. It was appropriately responded to by Mr. Jacob A. Dillman, of Waynesburg, Ind., after which the ladies invited the crowd of about 150 to the proverbial grooming table, at which every arrangement seemed perfect, and the unnumbered cakes were superb.

After an extended intermission, during which old acquaintances were renewed and new ones were formed, the jolly crowd was called together by the orchestra, and were pleased to hear a sketch of the Dillman family from 1738, at which time two brothers left Prussia and came to America, down to the present time, when their descendants are scattered all over the United States, and unless they lose one distinctive characteristic will soon outnumber the Jones and Smiths combined.

The absence of Mr. Jonas Rhorer prevented his many friends and relatives from hearing a similar account of the Rhorer family. He has one prepared, and had he not disappointed his friends, might have explained what seemed to disturb the family poet, namely, why four Rhorers of the old stock married four Dillmans.

After music and a song by choir, A. G. Dillman recited an original poem prepared for the occasion, during which Jonathan May very properly explained why he married a Dillman.

Mr. Sim. Rhorer and wife of Hartsville, Ind., Mr. Jacob A. Dillman and wife of Waynesburg, Ind., Mr. Henry Rhorer and wife of St. Louis, Mr. Geo. Dillman of Pleasant, Ind., Mrs. Geo. W. Cooper and son of Columbus, Ind., Miss Phoebe Oaks of Valparaiso, Mrs. Julia Sanders and daughter of Gosport, Mr. James L. Dillman of Bedford, and A. D. Gray of Charleston, Ia., by their pleasant smiles and jolly good humor encouraged the officers and helpers to believe their reunion was a success, and about one year hence Mr. S.K. Rhorer, the new president, and H. F. Dillman, the continued secretary, will, if possible, outfit this one and insist upon the Rhorers and Dillmans coming from near and far.

—Miss Jennie Graydon will leave next week for Hastings, Neb., where she will teach Greek in the university there. She succeeds her sister, Miss Katherine Graydon, who has resigned. Miss Graydon is a young woman of varied ability. She is an alumnus of Butler University, and for a year or two past has been a teacher in the city schools. However, it was but a matter of time until promotion and recognition should come, and the transfer to a college professorship opens a new and broad field to her. Miss Graydon combines, in a rare degree, social and intellectual qualities, and will be missed by a large circle of friends.—Ind. News.

Stanley will easily recognize the difference and undoubtedly contrast the comforts and luxuries of modern railroad travel with his painful journeyings in that dark continent. It is to the latter, however, that he owes his world-wide fame. It is not recorded anywhere that any one while traveling in a palace car has ever extended the science of geography or opened up a new continent to the commerce and civilization of the rest of the world.

An Expensive Horseback Ride.

An extraordinary example of how rapidly the mills of justice can grind after they are properly set was given last week in circuit court, when a man who had taken a horse from D. S. Rawlin's stable north of town, on Monday night a week at 11 o'clock, was brought to Bloomington and tried, sentenced and taken to the penitentiary on the 4 o'clock train Tuesday afternoon. On Monday night Wm. Anderson Jr. was riding home on the road to Martinsville when he passed a stranger on a horse he knew to be the property of Dan Rawlin, and one that he understood Rawlin would not part with. The hour (about 10) also excited his suspicions, and he hurried on to Rawlin's house, awoke that gentleman and asked him if he'd sold his horse. No, he had not. A hasty examination of the stable then showed that the horse was gone, and a hurried pursuit was begun. The fugitive was soon captured and he clambered from the horse and climbed over into a field next by, only stopping when several shots had been fired at him. He was brought to town and placed in jail; the grand jury being in session he was indicted on Tuesday morning, was brought in to court after dinner, when at 9 o'clock, on a plea of guilty, he was sentenced to thirty months' imprisonment in the penitentiary. He told Sheriff Parr that he had been in Indianapolis, though formerly a resident of Louisville, and had been 60 days in confinement, and had walked from Indianapolis. He was so tired out that he thought he'd secure a horse and ride to Bloomington, intending to turn it loose there. He gave his name as Henry Carter (it might be Sprague, as all say one knows), and claimed to be a soldier, once in the 12th Ind. Vols.

—The franchise committee of the Mississippi constitutional convention have decided in favor of woman suffrage, and it seems quite certain that the convention will adopt its recommendation. All voters are required to be able to read and write. This will disfranchise eleven thousand whites and 123,000 negro voters. Then all women owning over $400 worth of property in their own right will be entitled to the ballot. This, it is thought, will add forty thousand white women voters and not over five thousand negro women voters, giving the white a majority of eighty thousand in the State. The committee's report requires the Legislature to provide separate voting places for women in every precinct. A woman to vote must comply with the same conditions required of men, must prepay her poll-tax, be a resident of the precinct one year, etc. The plan seems to meet with general favor, and will be almost certainly adopted. The women suffragists are both surprised and delighted over their victory.
