

207 THEY ARE HERE. THAT NEW STOCK OF CLOAKS

Call and See the NEW PLUSH CLOAKS, COME and See the NEW FALL Stock of JACKETS.

A Large Stock of Men's and Children's CLOAKS. ALL ARE INVITED. ADAMS, HALL & CO. 207

Why would people go to Rott's grocery for their Saturday supplies? Well, it is easily understood: They know that every article kept in this house is first-class, and that prompt and careful attention is given to all orders.

McPHEETERS' GROCERY is located on the southeast corner of the public square. There you can find any article in the grocery line you may call for. The stock of Queensware is very complete and any one who may desire to fill up their dining-rooms will find it economy to call on him.

James Robinson has the best stock of Groceries, Queensware and Glassware in the town. He has made so careful a study of the business that it is no trouble for him to buy such a stock as will suit the market, and he does it.

Robertson Bros., the grocers on the southeast corner of the square, desire to say to their many friends and old customers, that they are doing a strictly cash business, but that they are selling first-class goods so low that any one can afford to pay cash to get them.

A. J. HANSON, NEW FALL STOCK OF Dry Goods, Fancy Goods, and first-class Dress Trimmings, is located at Charles Mobley's "Golden Rule" store, south side of square.

Every novelty in the city market finds its way to Charles Mobley's store and will be sold at prices that are within the reach of all.

The stock of Fall Dress Goods, Hosiery, Corsets, Elastic Bands and Ribbons is not excelled anywhere.

Special attention is given to the Glove trade. In the "Golden Rule" store, there is always in the line a very satisfactory stock of Boots, Shoes and Rubbers carried by this house, to which attention is directed. Only dry goods store on the south side.

IT IS AN EVERY DAY occurrence at Joe Smith's emporium, on the south side, to sell a wagon load of the metal articles that are found on the shelves of that house.

Housekeepers find so many odd and yet handy contrivances there that when anything is needed around the house they usually go to Smith's to keep it, because it is in stock, and they are not disappointed. Watches get out of repair at all seasons of the year, and Smith's house makes this branch of business a specialty. Take your watch there to have it repaired and placed in order.

—Several years ago George Fender, who had been out west, some seventeen years, surprised his old friends and relations by arriving in Bloomington on a visit. He said he came from Colorado and was a cattle ranch man. After remaining here some time, Fender married Susan Ray of this place, and soon afterwards fitted up a restaurant in the Dunn building. He carried on this business a while finally sold out to a man named Creech, returned to the west but did not remain long. He came back to Bloomington, then went to Guthrie, finally locating at Stinesville where he has been running a stationary engine. On Tuesday of last week a woman arrived in town and took rooms at Bridges' Hotel. She inquired after Fender, and sending for an officer made an affidavit upon which he was arrested at Stinesville next day and brought to this place to answer to a charge of bigamy. Mrs. Fender No. 1 says that she was married to defendant seventeen years ago, out in Colorado, and that he gave his name as Carey. She has five children. Carey lived with her till some two years ago when he got her to mortgage her home for $300 and left. She only recently discovered the whereabouts of Carey-Fender, and promptly came to his "rescue." She has with her the photographs of the five little Careys. Fender was a member of the 145th Indiana, and was afterwards in the regular army from which he deserted, went to Colorado, took the name of Carey and was married under that name. Fender does not deny living with the woman, but says they were never married. She says they were married by a priest and afterwards at his suggestion by a justice of the peace.

On Thursday afternoon, when the preliminary examination was to be held, Fender had an interview with Mrs. Carey, and she would not testify. The Mayor was then compelled to dismiss Mr. Fender, it is understood, agreed to go back with wife No. 1.
