Republican Progress

$1.50 Per Annum.
W. A. GALE, Editor and Publisher.
FOR PRESIDENT IN 1922:
THE MAN NOMINATED
BY THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.
(For the Program.)
Memories of Olden Times in Bloomington.
Hon. David H. Maxwell, Senator from the counties of Greene, Lawrence and Monroe, was an eminent and able politician of the John Quincy Adams school. He was appointed postmaster of Bloomington, and was a leader in his party. Maxwell was trained in parliamentary law, and was skilled in debate. He was a man of commanding and dignified bearing.
Col. John Ketchum of Monroe county was in the House. They were members of high standing and influence in the old school Presbyterian church, and their names with that of their wives are engraved on the inner court of their house of worship as honorable members of that body.
James M. Ray was then Governor of Indiana. He served two terms—three years being a term. I saw Governor Ray, dressed in his jeans clothes. Governor Ray was a very popular man.
Politically speaking he was a Henry Clay whig, "Bank and Tariff," and will be given a place in the history of the State among her able Governors.

Judge Woodward was the opponent of Mr. Maxwell, and that resided in Springfield in the county of Lawrence. He was teaching in the common schools.
Mr. Woodward was a member of the Methodist church, and popular all over the district. In those days Mr. Woodward's house, but not only the preacher's house, but some were turned from his door.
Judge Elm Woodward was a man beloved by all. His church was strong and popular, and the pioneer preacher was friendly to his election. Among other prominent was Rev. Daniel Anderson, the then pioneer preacher, a man of unbounded influence. Under these circumstances Judge Woodward met Hon. David H. Maxwell in a canvass of the Senatorial district, backed by a strong and popular ministry, and under circumstances of popularity that buoyed up Judge Woodward to the contest notwithstanding the ability of his adversary. He reduced Dr.
Maxwell's majority to about one dozen votes. Judge Woodward at the age of 78 years, died in the south part of the county, near the theater of his early life.

Dr. David H. Maxwell had himself been speaker of the House and was well trained in parliamentary law and Legislative usages and debates in the House as well as the Senate. Senator Maxwell, when the legislative history of Indiana's law makers is written, will be classed among the ablest of her law makers. Hon. Wm. H. English of Indianapolis is now engaged in publishing sketches of the members from the different counties, with portraits in groups of some of the most prominent ones.
This work will prove to be very interesting, and our statement will have justice done them by competent hands.

W. N. ROSEBERRY.

United Presbyterian Home

The general committee of home missions of the United Presbyterian church met, according to the appointment of the last General Assembly, in Bloomington, on Wednesday last. The meeting was called to order by Rev. W. S. Or-cas, D. D., corresponding secretary of the Home Mission Board. This committee includes one ministerial delegate from each presbytery in the church, and meets annually, one week before the General Assembly, for the purpose of distributing the missionaries and the money of the church among the missionary field of the church for the coming year. (The General Assembly will meet in Princeton this year.) Of fifty-seven presbyteries there were forty-three represented.
Rev. J. C. Taggart, of East Liverpool, O., St. Albans Presbytery, was elected chairman of the committee, and Rev. H. R. Bell of Denver, Col., was chosen recording secretary. The apical report of The Board of Home Missions was presented by Secretary Owens, which showed that during the past year the church had contributed to the work of the home board $56,442, an increase of $7,000 over last year. Amount of money asked for this year by fifty-one pres-byteries, for 250 stations, aggregated nearly $79,000.

—Chicago is growing so fast, and is taking in so much new territory that raccoons are plentiful in the suburbs, and last week one of the gallant policemen of that city was seriously bitten by one.
Hope "coons" will not inaugurate an epidemic of biting—if they do the people in this village are doomed to extermination.

—The Overland Monthly announces for June, in its series of illustrated articles on Outing and Sports on the Pacific, a yachting article, illustrated very proli-quely with sketches by Lyon and Miss Williams, and reproductions of photographs, and written by Chas. G. Yale, an enthusiastic yachtsman and writer of charming outing sketches.

—The north bound passenger train on the Monon railway met with a disastrous wreck at 2:30 o'clock, May 23d, about one mile and a half south of Lafayette.
With the exception of the engine and tender, the entire train was derailed. The express baggage and smoking cars were thrown on their sides, the latter car nearly upside down. The coach and sleeper were not turned over.
There were nearly forty passengers on board, but none of them were dangerously hurt. Conductor Brown had a piece of glass nearly three inches long driven into his thigh. Joseph Blitain of Lafayette was injured in the foot, and express messenger, Charles Cutler, was hurt in the back. Several passengers were scratched and bruised, but not seriously. Had the cars turned over on the west side of the track instead of the east, they would have rolled down a twenty foot embankment. The cars were badly broken.

—A little girl, aged two years, of Hays Acton, residing in west Bedford, about two months ago while playing with some coffee grains in her mouth, accidentally drew one into her windpipe. Dr.
Freeland, assisted by Dr. Latore, opened the windpipe hoping to remove the obstruction and thereby save her life, but the operation was not a success, and after two months suffering she died on Thursday of last week.—Democrat.

—Bedford Mail: Mayor Day has had the mud scraped off the streets, and announces his determination to enforce the ordinance prohibiting the placing of chicken-coops, empty beer kegs, barrels, boxes, etc., on the sidewalks and in the streets. A good day.

—The case of the heirs of Engineer W. H. Dillard, killed in the Woodville collision Feb. 14, 1890, against the Monon for $10,000 damages, has been compromised at $3,000. President Thomas, it is said, is determined to settle up all the damage suits now pending against the company, as soon as possible.

—The latest news from the Stanford University may serve to reassure those friends of the State institution at Berkeley who thought it was going into immediate, total and permanent eclipse as soon as the Palo Alto establishment opened its doors. Mr. Stanford expects to run things on a basis of economy, beginning with a faculty of fifteen members, and dispensing with some of the departments originally projected. The University of California has over a hundred professors and instructors, and its income of upwards of $200,000 a year is probably greater than that of the Stanford University will be for a long time to come. As its doors are open without price, while Mr.
Stanford expects to charge for the advantages he offers at Palo Alto, it is probable that students will continue to drift to Berkeley in sufficient numbers to keep the town from going entirely to decay.— vertising, such as administrators' notices, non-resident notices, or

—Bedford Mail: Ross Elrod, aged 21, son of Rev. A. N. Elrod, the M. E. minister at Bloomfield, secreted himself behind a counter in Hart & Graham's store at that place a few nights ago, and after the store was locked up stole two suits of clothes, three pair of pants, four neckties, a valise and a pair of shoes, getting out by unbolting a back door. The articles were taken home and concealed in the young man's room. As the shoes were too tight he had the "brass" to wear them to the store from which he had stolen them, and try to get them exchanged. The articles were recognized and Elrod shadowed. On the 11th inst. a party was given at the minister's house in honor of young Elrod, who was going to Ellettsville to clerk in a store, and he appeared at the gathering in one of the stolen suits. After the party he was arrested, and confessed; and on the following Thursday was sentenced to the penitentiary for one year.
Although young, and of excellent parentage, young Elrod is said to be a thoroughgoing sport and gambler.

—The following from the Lebanon Journal expresses a dead blis-some game that has been successful-worked in this city several times:
"Three seedy tramps lauded in Lebanon last Monday evening were not fit subjects for the rock-pile.
They were begging from house to house on the strength of ugly blis-ters which they carried either on their arms or side of their face.
The whole thing was a fraud.
What looked to be a painful livid mass of burned flesh was nothing, but a piece of skin from the interior of a linseed oil barrel. This scheme is practiced by thousands of their like over the country and catches many a dime from the unsuspecting public. Charity is wasted on such vagabonds.

IN MEMORIAM.
Mary A. Dillon, wife of M. B. Dillon, died at her home in Bloomington on Sunday, May 17th, 1891, at 9 o'clock a. m., after a long and painful illness of kidney disease.
The deceased was born in Dubois county, Indiana, Dec. 12th, 1831, and was married to M. B. Dillon Aug. 1st, 1849.
The husband, two sons and four daughters survive her. In 1870 the family moved to Bloomington, Indiana, where they still reside. The funeral services were held at the family residence on 34 street, conducted by Rev. Lyons of this city and Rev. D. Hadlock and Stoen of Ellettsville on Monday afternoon, and the remains were interred in the city cemetery. When sixteen years of age she united with the Cumberland Presbyterian church at Ireland, Indiana, and upon her removal to this country, she with the family united with the same denomination at Ellettsville. She loved the principles of her church and for more than forty years lived and led a faithful Christian life. Her sickness was long and her suffering was intense, yet she murmured not. The same faith that led her through a long and useful life did not fail her in the end. Surrounded by all the family she passed away so peaceful as though death was only sleep.

I, F. Hopewell, Bloomington, Indiana, do hereby certify that I have taken four of the one-
