

Democratic Blowing.
The State of Indiana has been indulging in a new Democratic tax law, which the State Convention endorsed as "a wise and beneficent act," and the Courier says: "When intelligent men thoroughly investigate they will find a good thing. We propose from time to time to give the names of a few 'intelligent men' and women, too, for that matter, who have investigated, and the amount it costs them."

The following is taken from tax duplicates and shows the amounts of taxes paid in 1891 and 1892. They all live in Clear Creek township:

Illinois has twenty-four electoral votes this year, surpassing Ohio and coming next after New York and Pennsylvania. That is one of the reasons why the Republicans propose to carry it by an increased majority.

The Kansas Republicans favor the free coinage of silver "as soon as it can be done without injury to the business interests of the country," which is equivalent to a motion for the indefinite postponement of the question.

Illinois was not favorable to the nomination of Harrison in 1888, but this year she instructs for him in emphatic and enthusiastic terms, because of the admirable way in which he has performed the duties of his office.

Presidents who deserve second terms usually get them. Only two Presidents—Lincoln and Grant—since Jackson, have been thus honored because only two have deserved the honor. Harrison is all right.

The assertion attributed to Hill that Cleveland as the Presidential candidate, couldn't come within 50,000 votes of carrying New York ought to be supplemented by the statement that Hill, as the nominee, would fall at least 30,000 votes short of securing that State.

GUESS THE GOAT BUTTED HIM.—John Geiger has sued Court Valley Forge, No. 109, I. O. O. F., for $25,000 damages, claiming that while being initiated the officers of the lodge compelled him to jump into a supposed lake of fire to show his courage. He says that instead of getting a plunge in the lake he was landed on the floor and broke his leg in three places.

Martinsville Republican: Jno. E. Bastin, who resided near the Morgan edge of Monroe county, but who had been in the insane asylum at Indianapolis for a year or more past, died one day last week. Mr. Bastin was well known in this locality. He was a gallant Union soldier, and a couple of years ago was seriously injured by a load of crock-tiles he was hauling to town slipping onto his horses while, causing them to run away. From the effects of this injury, coupled with army troubles, his mind became affected, and he was sent to the asylum for treatment, but did not recover.

Too Much Funeral Display.
The spectacle is said to be a funeral that the procession of curious strangers who file around the coffin to look upon the dead? They eye askance the adornments of the poor, spent body, and comment one to another as to the manifestations of grief on the part of the chief mourners, says the Chicago Herald. The neighbor who has dropped in to see the show, as she might attend the funeral, provided there is no admission fee, counts the rows of carriages on the widow's overcoat and mentally computes the cost and quality of the bundles of the easket. Little children are dragged up and made to look with wide and frightened eyes upon the mystery beneath the coffin lid, thus sowing the poison seed to every afterthought of death.

The poorer the man the more ostentatious and extravagant the funeral parade is apt to be. The chances to get a free ride and an uninterrupted opportunity to exchange gossip makes the occasion one of ghoulish interest to the majority of women in the lower ranks of life. "Shure, we'll give him a rousin' funeral," says honest Paddy, and the expense incurred keeps the ladies here and the coal bin empty for many a day to come.

The living are made to suffer the pangs of deprivation that the unheeding dead may go to the grave with as big a demonstration as the rich might choose to make. If the wealthier and more enlightened classes would simplify in this question of funeral display, the effects for good, and even for decency, would be most baneful in their results.

May we live to see the dawn of a new order of things in these particulars; to see funerals less pretentious and more honest, less of a ceremony and more of a sacrament; to see grief of parade and to see more tenderness and care bestowed upon the living while they are able to do so, and to see the majority of months of regard and affection. Fewer roses held in dead hands and more placed within the clasp of hands that are faithfully tolling from day to day in our service would be a most welcome sight. I think, both in the eyes of honest folk and holy angels.

Notice to Property Holders on Third street between College Avenue and Jackson street.

All parties owning property on Third street, between College Avenue and Jackson street, in the City of Bloomington, Indiana, interested in the improvement of said street, will take notice that the City Engineer has made final estimate of the cost of improving said street from College Avenue to Jackson street, and made assessments against property holders for said improvement, said assessments being now on file in the City Clerk's office.

All parties interested will take notice that a committee from the Common Council of said city will meet in the Mayor's office of said city, Thursday, June 2nd, 1892, at 7 o'clock, p. m. at which time and place any one aggrieved at said assessments can make known his grievances, and the same will be considered by said committee.

ROBERT C. GREEVES,
City Clerk.

A Democratic central committee meeting was held in County Superintendent Dowden's room, Saturday, and the principal object seemed to be the airing of grievances. From our position behind the wood-box the Progress could see a frown of determination upon the face of the otherwise handsome chairman, as he recognized a leading young lawyer's voice.

This gentleman read a long resolution condemning the commissioners for what he said was extravagance, nepotism, turpitude, and many other outrageous diseases. The chairman asked if any one had remarks to make, when several present suggested that this was a little personal row that would drive solid Democrats out of the party, and then denounced the resolution as unwise and very ill-timed.

After this a Democrat arose in fervid oratory and a distinct vote declared that if Democrats could be driven out of the party by such a resolution as this that now was the time for them to go.

Mr. Cal. Worrall made a gentlemanly and conciliatory speech, that ought to have satisfied any assemblage that didn't have its blood up, but the resolution was put upon its passage and went through without a dissenting vote, though some present did not open their lips.

A Benton tp. man jumped to his feet and said: "Well, now, Mr. Chairman, what about our county treasurer?"

"The motion to adjourn is carried," said Mr. Cravens, and the meeting broke up.

The county commissioners were in session Friday, and let the contract for the 3d and 5th street bridges. Stone work and excavating to W. T. Hinds, iron work to Lafayette bridge company.

Total cost of the bridges will be near $4,000. The commissioners then appointed two superintendents to have supervision of the work, viz: Calvin R. Worrall and Walter S. Bradford.

Mr. Worrall, at this session of the board, resigned his position as superintendent of the north pike.
