—It turns out that Mr. Blaine's wealth, as is usually the case, was very much overestimated. He was generally supposed to be worth more than $1,000,000, and in campaign times was accused of several millions. But his estate will not amount to much more than $400,000, mostly in real estate.

—What effect will the Wilson bill have on the business interests of the country? This is a question which is uppermost in the public mind at present. The Presidents of the Chambers of Commerce at New York, Boston, San Francisco and New Orleans have set forth their views on the subject in a timely and important symposium entitled "Home Industries and the Wilson Bill" that will appear in the March number of the North American Review.

—A Kansas paper has a long article on George Washington's life and achievements and then in obsolete dictionary words plots his death as follows:

"We now come to the closing and the saddest part of this sketch—Washington's death, which occurred when he should have been considered but little past the prime of life. He loved to be without forth at all seasons, and rode over his plantation on a speedy day, when the ground was woody, which caused him to enurem and febricitate, and then growse. It was something like squinty, or some acute affection of the base. Instead of administering treatment to make him excrete, the physicians phlebotomized him, which was noxious. He became rapidly warve, over his intended to grow weak, until he ceased to inspire, and all hope of resuscitation was abandoned."

No man with a bit of self-respect could afford to live after that, so George, in a very orderly and quiet manner, went off and died.

—Ind. Sun: Ten days ago the young women who study the fashions in advance of the seasons, and afterward become trimmers in the retail stores, came to the city in considerable number for their schooling. There are about one hundred of them now at Fahney & McCrea's, and those at Griffith Bros. and the Indianapolis Millinery Company will make the total about two hundred.

The Application Denied.

(Indianapolis Sentinel.)

Judge Baker, on Feb. 26th, heard arguments in the application for the appointment of a receiver for the Bloomington water works. The application was made by Charles E. Coon of New York, who holds the promissory note of the water works company people for $3,500. It appears that the water works company and the city of Bloomington are made defendants in the suit, while the property for which it is asked that a receiver be appointed is in the possession of the contractors who constructed it. Judge Claypool of this city and Attorney Duncan of Bloomington appeared for the plaintiff and W. H. H. Miller and Ferd Winter for the defendants. Judge Baker refused to issue the order appointing the receiver and gave the plaintiff leave to file an amended complaint within fifteen days, and the defendants leave to respond within fifteen days thereafter.

The Judge announced that he regarded the water works property ample to satisfy all the liens on it, and where such a condition existed he did not believe a receiver should be appointed.

—Who are the most famous writers and artists of both continents? The Cosmopolitan Magazine is endeavoring to answer this inquiry by printing a list from month to month—in its contents pages. This magazine claims that notwithstanding its extraordinary reduction in price, it is bringing the most famous writers of Europe and America to interest its readers, and in proof of this claim, submits the following partial list of contributors, for the first month ending with February: Valdes, Howells, Paul Heyse, Francisco Sorey, Robert Grant, John J. Lagalle, Lyman Abbott, Frederick MacAgnes Reppel, J. G. Whitner, (posthumous), Walter Besant, Mark Twain, St. George Mivart, Paul Bourget. How this is done for $1.50 a year the editors of The Cosmopolitan only know.

—The pork packing firm of Coffin, Fletcher & Co. of Indianapolis received an order last week for ten car loads of pure lard for export to Hamburg, Germany. It was shipped via Big Four and Kankakee despatch to New Port News then via Barber steamship line across the Atlantic.

Down on HERESY.—"I wish these missionaries didn't vary so much," said King Kannable, as he swallowed his portion of the roast. "I wish so, too," said Queen Kannable, "but there are so many kinds of Presbyterians these days it's hard to tell what to order."

—The latest novelty is Etchene. It is a harmless liquid. Paint it over a picture in a paper or magazine, put paper over the picture, rub with the finger or a spoon and lo, you have a reproduction of the cut. It's great fun for children and it's useful, too. If good ink is used on the original picture as many as three reproductions can be taken from it.

—In thirty counties of this State, by no means the largest, there have been reported, in answer to a circular sent out by the G. A. R. committee on State Soldiers' Asylum, 180 soldiers in work houses, poor houses, etc. Besides, the Posts are keeping members from applying for public charity by their assistance. And yet Hoke Smith wants to take away the pensions!

—Mrs. Ernest Bicknell and two daughters, of Gas City, are the guests of E. E. Sluss, west 6th st.

—Wm. Cowden was the lucky bidder for the big ditch in Bean Blossom tp., at nine cents per foot.

—Walter Lindley, the boss druggist and pharmacist, was at Indianapolis over Sunday, on a visit to his family.

—Ed. T. Barnhill and Miss Viola Gehard, both of Unionville, were married on Sunday, at the bride's residence.

—David Sheeks, at one time clerk of Monroe county and for a number of years a citizen of Dallas, Texas, died in his new home last week.

—Billy Campbell of Bedford has taken charge of the horses of Messrs. Myers and East. Monroe county is going to train some fast steppers this season.

—The new "Sig" hall, over the Monroe Co. Bank, was dedicated on Friday night by a grand banquet, to which the members of the fraternity and a number of invited guests did full justice.

—Dealers in perfumery are petitioning against the men who sell "odener de skunk" in the court house yard. A little skunk goes a great way, and it is cheap, so no Wilson billist should object.

—Born to H. S. Headley and wife, north of town, a son; to Wesley Barrow and wife, north of town, a daughter; to Mr. Larkins and wife, of Victor, a daughter; to W. P. Puett and wife, west of town, a daughter.

—A house on west 2d street was burned last Sunday morning at 1:30 o'clock. It belonged to John Taylor, and was unoccupied, the tenant having vacated it on Saturday morning. Some persons had been dancing and cavorting around in the house during the early hours of the night, and the fire is attributed to some of the "hot" people who participated. Insured for $400. Loss total.

—Camillus Clay of Richland tp., an old and well known citizen of the county, died on Friday last. He was about 80 years of age.

—J. M. Calahan is the lucky competitor on an essayist on the "Coming Nation," the decision having been rendered by Edward Bellamy.

—Next meeting of the Republican central committee, on March 31, 17th. The meeting last Saturday was one of the largest ever held—the room was crowded with men from all parts of the county, all wide-awake and determined.

The next meeting will be held in the grand jury room.

—Henry Gentry will begin early this spring to remodel the west end of his building, corner of 5th street and the Avenue. The part occupied by the Bass and May barber shop will be built up two or three stories, and the hall occupied by the Red Men will be cut up into office rooms.

—The K. D. social at the M. E. church Friday night was a success in every way. Wall. Pauley rendered a solo, a "variety" number was given by Mr. Willhite, the guitar and mandolin were handled artistically by Messrs. Spencer and Mumford, two solos were sung by Miss Elsie Mason, while Miss Perry pleased the audience with a recitation that evinced decided talent as an elocutionist. The receipts were $25 for charity.

—Miss Margaret King and W. B. Adamson were married at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. C. R. Perdue in Bedford, Thursday, in the presence of a few special friends of the family. Eld. Short, of Springville, officiating. Miss King was born and raised in Monroe county, and has a large circle of acquaintances and friends who wish that great joy may come to her. Mr. Adamson is a well known farmer of Lawrence county, and having the confidence and esteem of all who know him, he will not want for those who wish that every future day of his life may be happier than even March 1st, 1894. The bride and groom were recipients of many useful and beautiful presents, and after partaking of an excellent dinner, took the train for their home near Springville.

The City Dust. The streets of the public square have been well coated with broken stone, and business men were congratulating themselves that this summer they would be free from the annoyance usually endured because of the all-pervading clouds of dust that rise and pour into their store rooms, covering the goods with a gritty coating and inflaming the eyes of customers and clerks. But some inventive genius has discovered that a thin layer of ashes will hold the chunks of oolitic limestone in place, and now they are dumping loads of it over the streets, to be dried up and blown back and forth on the first stormy day. Going over to our poetry machine and tossing a handful of nails and a chunk of lumberger cheese into it, we ground out the following:

When the wind goes roaring round the square,
And ashes rise up as a cloud,
You'll hear the gentle m. robanut swear
In a voice both shrill and loud;
While our lovely girls, with dust-filled eyes,
Will utter as the clouds roll by,
And cu—bless the men whose enterprise
Has changed their bring tears to lye.

—A chemist at Indianapolis has patented a process for manufacturing chloroform and says that he can make it to sell at 10c. per pound. Sells now for 50c.

—Mrs. Walter Bradford and daughter are visiting at Sheridan, Ind., where Samuel Wallingford resides.

—Rev. Givler, an eloquent former pastor of the M. E. church will lecture on Thursday night in the church, by invitation. He is accompanied by his wife. He is located in New York at present. Mrs. J. O. Howe of west 6th st. will entertain them while here.

—Jennie—"Papa, our cook must be very good."

Papa—"Why, my dear?"

Jennie—"Because, in my lesson, last Sunday, it said that the 'wicked shall not live out half their days, and our cook says she has lived out all her life.'"

There is a better chance to live the full limit of three-score and ten if you will take South American Nerve after the grip. It is a great tonic, and is sold by Faris Bros., importers' agents.

—Carnegie, the iron king, is married, but has no children. Mrs. Carnegie is quiet and domestic in her tastes, not caring to roam about the world as he does. She abides satisfied most of the year at their gray stone house in New York City. Carnegie's greatest fad is said to be the desire to give away books. He has spent more than a million dollars in this way, and the gifts include some very large and expensive libraries. He is 60 years of age and his wealth is estimated at about $30,000,000.

—There will be a grand mass Republican meeting on March 31, at which a speech will be delivered by Hon. Wm. D. Owen, one of the most eloquent orators in the State. There will be fuller announcement of this meeting next week.

—Bloomington is taking on city airs. The hucksters drive through the back streets singing "ah-pah-pah," "tatoos," "hoo-na-noos," while Sunday parades are beginning to be indulged in with great frequency. Go away, you Bedford fellows—yours is no city.

Bad Laundry Work. Ed. Progress—Since the city has two steam laundries I believe it would be well to call the attention of the managers to one great fault with such establishments, viz: breaking goods while ironing. Collars have been received here from some of these clothes dealers, the threads broken into a raw edge, while the button holes were torn, and cuffs are treated in the same way. It seems to the outsider that too much pressure is put on the ironing machines. I noticed some work last week that had been done in this way. The best work is done at Troy, N. Y., where the roll of the collar is as even as if made over a wire—you never see the goods broken and the collars ruined there as you can see illustrations of it here. Examine your work carefully and insist that it be done right.

—Persons who wish the St. Nicholas or Century magazines, should call on J. G. McPheeters and go into his club arrangement. New subscribers will be given the December number of either magazine free.

—There is no good reason why you should pay $1 per pound for Imperial green tea, when you can get the same article at Hemp Wilson's for 25c.

NEXT TO THE BIBLE. The sermons delivered at the Parliament of Religions at the Columbian Exposition can be purchased at the office of the BLOOMINGTON WORLD. The book is handsomely bound, contains over 1000 pages, and was edited by a former U. S. Instructor, Prof. Walter R. Houghton, and published by R. C. McNeely, who is a native of this city. The publishers of the WORLD offer the book, in connection with six months' subscription for $2.50, which is certainly a very reasonable offer, as the price of the book alone is $2.50.

They also offer a handsome portfolio of twenty-two World's Fair views in water colors, for $2.00, including a year's subscription to THE WORLD. The retail price of the portfolio is $1.50, and a more acceptable gift or keepsake could not be found. Address or call on CRAVENS BROS., Pubs. WORLD.

Notice to Non-Residents. The State of Indiana, Monroe County. In the Monroe Circuit Court, December Term, 1893.

The Workingmen's Building Loan Fund and Savings Association vs. Daniel A. Butcher, Kate C. Butcher, John W. Barnett, et al.

Coupling No. 3094. Now comes the plaintiff by Duncan & Batman, its attorneys, and files its complaint herein together with an affidavit of Ira C. Bateman, that said defendants Daniel A. Butcher, Kate C. Butcher and John W. Barnett are not residents of the State of Indiana; that said association is for the purpose of enforcing a lien against real estate and that said non-resident defendants are necessary parties thereto.

Notice is therefore hereby given said defendants, that unless they answer, they be and appear on the first day of the next term of the Monroe circuit court, to be held on the first Monday of March, A. D. 1894, at the court house in Bloomington, in said county of Monroe and State of Indiana, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in their absence.

Witness my name and the seal of said court affixed at Bloomington this
