SPRING GOODS are now arriving at Charley Mobley's "Golden Rule" store, on the south side of the square. No man in Monroe county knows better what the tastes of the people who buy goods demand than he, and no one more cheerfully responds to them. All the latest novelties may be found on his shelves, and at prices surprisingly low. Just how he manages to sell some goods so cheaply it is hard to understand, but he does it. People have been coming to his store from distant parts of the county for many years, and they always secure the best goods for the least money by doing so.

SPECIAL NOTICE. Persons neglecting themselves indebted to W. J. Allen, either on account or note, will please call at once and settle, as I am compelled to collect and don't wish to put cost on these parties, which I will have to do if you fail to come. I mean business.
