THE FARMERS' FRIEND.

Of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Is one of the best papers of its class in the State, and should be taken by every family that resides on a farm. To any of our agricultural friends who pay $1.50 cash in advance subscription to the "Progress," the Farmers' Friend will be sent free for one year. This is in advance, and full $1.50 subscription, remember.

Representative Wilson is going abroad. He will doubtless be given a very cordial welcome in England.

The Democrats are already beginning to brag about what they are going to do in the future. It is too late. The party has had its opportunity and failed to embrace it.

The Inter Ocean estimates the annual tax per family for the benefit of the sugar trust at $6.50. Probably the Democrats expect a proportionate campaign contribution from the Havemeyers.

Republicans must win fifty-two seats in order to control the next House. As the Democrats gained over eighty in the election of 1890 the Republicans will pull through all right with good nominations and a full vote.

Among the acts of the session relating to the military, none was more important than the plan fathered by Representative Curtis, of New York, which recently became a law, regulating enlistments in the regular army upon new principles, most important of which are that recruits in time of peace must be citizens of the United States, or having declared their intention of becoming citizens, must be able to read, write and speak the English language and be under thirty years of age. To promote the efficiency of the naval militia, a comparatively new branch of the volunteer service, Congress authorized the temporary loan to any State making application for it of any vessel of the navy which was not fitted for regular service.

Fred. Harter, who many years ago kept a bakery where Benckart is now located, died at Spencer last Saturday, aged 70 years. The remains were buried in Rose Hill cemetery, this place.

WEST SIDE SQUARE

Saturday night some one stole the porcelain letters from the window of William Mather's Turkish bath rooms, at Washington-st. and Capitol-ave. Yesterday a man was placed in the window and asked for the job of putting other letters on the window in the place of those which had been stolen. Mather became suspicious and asked the man where he expected to get the letters, as none could be purchased here. The man said he made a business of doing such work and had plenty of letters on hand. He was given the work and started away after the letters, followed by Mather, who traced him to a lumber yard, where he saw the man take the letters which had been stolen from his window under a pile of lumber. Mather hurried back to his place of business and after allowing the man to place the letters back on the window again called the police and had him arrested. At the police station he gave the name of John March and his home Louisville.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Some Bloomington artist in this line has been deprecating upon the store windows. Ed. Whetzel had a big "E" stolen from his name on the window twice, and then concluded to let the public guess at it. An "E" was also taken from the porcelain sign on the Bee Hive windows, and other business men complain of like vandalism. Perhaps the thief is laying in a supply of porcelain letters for the fall trade.

LAST DAYS OF POMPEII.

Citizens of Indianapolis have, at a great cost, arranged to present Pain's New Spectacle, "The Last Days of Pompeii," in Indianapolis, Sept. 3d to 10th. The production eclipses any previous open-air entertainment offered to Indianapolis. The spectacular features embrace a reproduction of the ancient city immortalized by Lord Lytton, "The Last Days of Pompeii." The magnificent temples, dwellings and bath-houses are presented in all their grandeur on a stage 300 feet in length and 10,000 yards of scenery on iron-wood and canvas is used in the spectacle.

An artificial lake, 75 by 250 feet in length, filled with Pompeian flotillas, and 500 performers, men, women and children, are engaged in the gorgeous pageant.

Upon a vast stage, on which is enacted this open-air drama, will be seen in picturesque groups the temple of Isis, the gladiator's barracks, the Greek temple of Neptune, and towering above, the fearful mountain, still the admiration but the secret terror of all Europe—sleeping Vesuvius.

One of the grandest scenes in this out-door presentation of "The Last Days of Pompeii" is the eruption of Vesuvius. The mountain pours forth flames of cloud and smoke, molten lava pours over the historic city, earthquakes shatter the temples and dwellings and the triumph of spectacular effect reached in a realistic destruction of Pompeii, realizing Lord Lytton's graphic description of the appalling catastrophe.

Succeeding this comes a feature sure to delight and instruct thousands. A gorgeous display of aerial and aquatic fireworks, produced by Messrs. Pain & Sons, leading pyrotechnists of the world, and nightly exhibitions are given under the personal supervision of Henry J. Pain.

There is seating capacity for 10,000 people. The general admission is 50 cents; reserved seats, 75 cents; box seats, $1.00; children, 25 cents. The production is given in Lincoln Park, corner of 16th street and Central Avenue.

The New Orleans Picayune argues that the demand for irrigation water in the West will eventually become so great that the whole Missouri river will be drained and the bed of the Missouri river transformed into dust.

The flow of the Mississippi water to the Gulf of Mexico will eventually be so great and the volume so large that the waters of the Gulf will rise and entirely submerge the doomed city of New Orleans.

All the inhabitants will be drowned except the individual who made the prophecy, with regard to the waters of the Missouri. He will be preserved through that inscrutable manifestation of Providence which spares drunkards and fools.
