REMEDIES ARE MANY.

Scores of Propositions Offered as a Sure Cure for Labor Troubles.—Commissioner John B. Kernan of New York, one of those appointed by the President to investigate the Pullman strike, has been engaged in making a synopsis of the remedies that had been proposed to the commission. Mr. Kernan says there were many remedies suggested during the testimony, but the main ones were the Government ownership of railroads, the licensing of railroad employees, similar to the licensing of steamboat engineers and pilots, arbitration and the restriction of immigration. Mr. Pullman suggested no remedy, as he employed the position that an outside remedy was not needed. The commission is free to deal with the question of remedies outside of those suggested at the hearings, but the testimony brought out every conceivable plan and it is not necessary to go beyond those suggested. It will be for the public to decide whether the inquiry results in benefit. Mr. Kernan says that it will certainly be a benefit to the public to have the exhaustive information on the causes and incidents of the great strike, and intelligent information is the first step toward remedial legislation.

A member of the cabinet is estimated to say plainly that the administration will do nothing to help Hill—that it will do nothing openly to oppose him or advocate or sanction the nomination of a third ticket. The administration will have a bad effect on the Democracy of the country. The President believes that the failure of the Cleveland Democratic vote will be quite as effective in a year for a third ticket as the can't be any possibility be elected. The President does not want Hill elected.
