Making Political Capital.
The Indianapolis Sentinel talks like a child about Indiana soldiers. It says they "did not enlist to do garrison duty." Well, they did enlist "to do garrison duty" or any other duty, including that of charging to the cannon's mouth, if need be. They enlisted to do soldiers' duties, and they have done soldiers' duties. They are not whimpering boys, nor are they puppets to be handled for the benefit of political tricksters. There is nothing but politics in this growling and chewing of the Democratic papers over the soldiers and their enlistment. The fact is the Government made a brilliant success of this war from beginning to end—involving a campaign of but four months, and fearful that the Republican party will be benefitted thereby the Democrats are sowing the seeds of discontent—or trying to.

No Politics Wanted.
Violent criticisms of the military management in the recent campaign can accomplish no good result. Rather will they tend to create a revelation in public opinion, and as a consequence men will, when they find that some of the charges are false, or only partly true, refuse to believe anything that is said by the critics. Already there is discernible a disposition to drag the question into politics; the Democratic organ in this city (the Sentinel) insists that the Republicans must meet the "camp horror" issue. And there appears a tendency to make the Democratic political campaign in this State principally on this issue. This will still further arouse the suspicions of the people, and will make it easy for the Republicans if they see fit to dismiss all the charges as mere campaign lies.—Indianapolis News.

—When it became evident that the United States must intervene to stop the war in Cuba, the problem of the climate was the most important one with which the President and Cabinet had to contend. President McKinley and many of the Republicans would gladly have deferred the matter of intervention until after the sickly season was over, but the Democrats would not listen to delay. The issue was forced and the war declared in the very face of pestilence and disease. No one in authority was ignorant of the great sacrifice which must be made. On the floor of Congress the question was discussed and the organization of the so-called "Immune" was provided for. Shafter's army had hardly reached Santiago until the cry of death and despair was taken up by the newspapers in a fault-finding way. Mistakes have been made, but out of it all we have victory. That it cost many lives must be admitted, but who could have even hoped that such results could be obtained with so small a loss. No nation on earth ever obtained such conquest under like conditions.

—The wise and patriotic policy of President McKinley stands unchallenged before the world today. Grumblers may find fault with the prosecution of the war, and newsgatherers may publish doubtful accounts of what is transpiring in many of our camps; but the American people and the world at large to-day sustain and uphold President McKinley in all that he has undertaken to perform as president of the United States. Let the people sustain him in November at the polls by giving him a clear majority in both houses of Congress.

—Lydia E. Sexton, wife of Wm. Sexton, a well known farmer and citizen of Salt Creek, has filed suit for divorce and $1,000 alimony, through John R. East. These people were married from the grand stand on the southeast corner of the square, at a 4th of July celebration in 1891.

—Invitations are out for a company this evening at Capt. and Mrs. Gilbert Kirtland Perry's home, on N. College Avenue, given in honor of Mrs. Thekla Hasselock and Mrs. T. L. Terry, mother and sister of Mrs. Perry, from Nashville, Tenn.

—One of the most agreeable musical organizations in the city is the high school mandolin club, consisting of Leon Whetsell and Chauncey Dowden, guitars, and Irvin Grimes and Mike Guthrie, mandolins.

—Mose Kahn has been in Cincinnati during the past week selecting a stock of goods. He was accompanied by Mrs. Kahn.

—Richard, aged 18, son of Wm. Strain, of near Harrodsburg, was killed by a mule on Monday morning, in the upper part of his face, and it is feared his skull is fractured.

—The remains of James McBrille, a former citizen, were brought here last Sunday and taken to Hindostan for burial. He was formerly a Bloomington blacksmith.

—Harry Feltus, 1st sergeant of Co. H, looks like he'd had six meals a day, and slept ten hours in 24. The majority of the boys look equally well.

—Frank Panley has been released from military prison, and will be at home about Thursday.

—Through her attorneys, Henry & Wilson, Nancy McKee has filed suit for divorce from her husband, Hiram McKee. She alleges in her complaint that defendant would follow her with a shot-gun at times and threatened to kill her. Little thing to get worried over.

—Some one stole the front and hind wheels of Jos. N. Alexander's surrey. They had better come back and take the body of the vehicle, as it is no good without wheels.

—Harry Atkinson, driver of Wingert's delivery wagon, had both bones in his right leg broken on Saturday last. A horse had fastened its hind foot in a chain and while Atkinson was trying to assist the animal it kicked him with the above result.

—Judge Baker has passed on the sale of the Bloomington water works plant, and has ordered it turned over to the new organization. The city council has adopted the ordinance granting a franchise and providing for the issue and sale of $5,000 worth of bonds to pay for stock purchased for the city. The bonds have been taken by the First National bank.

—J. O. Burbank was thrown from his wagon, Monday morning, alighting upon his head and left shoulder. There are serious bruises over his left eye and on the shoulder, and internal injuries are feared. The wagon had started down hill toward the barn and struck a post, throwing Mr. Burbank out.

—The people who are building the branch railroad from Clear Creek to Harrodsburg begun their job somewhat late in the season. As a consequence they have to contend with bad weather.

—John W. Davis, the tailor, was 78 years of age on the 16th of last July, yet he works ten hours each day, sleeps soundly at night, he says, and is in good general health. He stops as vigorously as most men at 40, and seems to be good for many more years of active work.

—Spencer Democrat: Bert Ivey received a new and beautiful Stearns Racer and will compete for some of the prizes at the Bloomington, Bedford and Vincennes races.

—O'Harrow, the druggist, is making some very handsome and marked changes in the arrangement and decorations of his drug store. O'Harrow is a polite and accommodating gentleman, and is building up a nice drug trade.

—Dr. Mark Shrum and family started on Wednesday morning for Kirksville, Mo., where they intend to spend the winter and a part of next summer. Dr. Shrum goes to Kirksville to take a complete course in osteopathy and hopes to be able to return next July.

—Salem Journal: Wm. Waltingford of Bloomington was in town yesterday buying mules. There seems to be a demand for mules lately and farmers are selling at a good profit.

—Dr. O. F. Davis, Practitioner limited to diseases of the eye, ear, nose, throat and lungs. Her Air treatment for Catarrh and Tuberculosis. Glasses scientifically adjusted. Bloomington, Indiana, 109 1/2 South College Avenue.

—The county commissioners have made the annual tax levy for the year, which shows a good decrease in every township except Perry, and here the increase is accounted for by voting two pikes. In Bloomington city there is a decrease of 19 cents on the $100, but the city school trustees added four cents for school purposes.

—Mrs. W. S. Pedigo, who underwent a dangerous surgical operation at Dr. Joseph Eastman's sanitarium in Indianapolis recently, is out of danger and her friends will be pleased to learn that she is now on the road to recovery.

—High School has opened with the following equipment of teachers: Principal J. K. Book, Latin; W. D. Dodd, English; J. F. Organ, History; Kate M. Meek, Mathematics; Ella L. Millie, English and Science; Margaret Porch, Mathematics and English; Anton Beison, German and French; W. H. Fertil, Mental Science and Expression; Julia Weir, Music.

The Paper Gives It Fits.

The Petersburg (Ind.) News says: The public square in this place is simply a public nuisance. A town ordinance prohibits the throwing of melons and other fruit into the street, and hundreds of melons are eaten daily and the remains allowed to lie on the ground. A barrel has been placed in the square and a few attempts are made to haul rods away at night. Last Sunday morning the decayed remains of not less than a hundred melons were to be seen and were a stench that would make a buzzard and yet no steps are taken to suppress the nuisance. No wonder the public square is termed the hog pen of the town; no wonder funeral processions have averaged nearly one per day for the past two weeks; no wonder our population is decreasing and our health is suffering; no wonder typhoid fever prevails in our midst; no wonder the death rate is increasing; no wonder the city belongs to the flies. Any community that will permit such things to exist, in the present day of civilization and progress, ought to be cursed by a wise God and the death rate shows it is.

It is said that no one would dare to cut a watermelon in the public square of Martinsville, or in any of the court house parks of towns north of Bloomington. At Martinsville the authorities drove the Bloomington band off the public square a couple of years ago—our people are not required to be neat at home, and were surprised that it was required in another town only twenty miles away.

—The prospects are now for the biggest and best Fair over held in the county. The Fair has been thoroughly advertised throughout the State. Shows, amusements, attractions, swings and horses and stand men are coming in force. Secretary Worral now has a score of men at work advertising the Fair throughout Monroe and adjoining counties. It will be no fault of the management if the Fair is not a great success. $500 is being spent on special attractions and free shows for the Fair and traveling men who visit our city state that our Fair is the best advertised of any Fair in Indiana.

It deserves the support of the people in the city and county. It takes hard work and loss of much time to make a successful Fair nowadays, and no man ever made a cent out of the Bloomington Fair—they have always lost money. It deserves the support of the people.

—Co. E, Capt. W. B. Hughes' old company (Persimmon brigade) was represented at Indianapolis by the following members from here: Ren. C. Smith, Thos. Kilpatrick, Wm. Smith, Jas. Curry, A. J. Lampkins and Daniel Murry.

—Miss Flora Gourley is a teacher in one of the city schools of Anderson.

—John Carmichael of Richland, Iowa, father-in-law of Ross Davis, east 3rd street, is visiting his daughter.

—The brick wall between the two Buskirk-Hill rooms, south side of the square, is being torn out in order to make a big room for Mose Kahn.

—Wm. I. Fee, wife and baby are visiting in Kirksville, Mo. Mr. Fee's mother and sisters have been in Kirksville some time.

—I. U. will play the first game of football with Rose Polytechnic on October 8th.

—Ron. C. Smith and Thos. Kilpatrick were at Indianapolis last week in attendance upon the reunion of the persimmon brigade.

—The horticultural society met on Wednesday last at the home of Wm. McCollough, west of town. Benj. Kirby presided. Alfred Howe read a paper on "Does it Pay to Use Commercial Fertilizer?" He believes the farmer should decide what the soil lacks, and use such ingredients as are necessary to bring it up to normal. Ben. Kirby discoursed on "seed corn and seed potatoes." His idea is that seed corn should be carefully selected in September, hung up and dried thoroughly, and that only the most perfect potatoes should be used for seed. Mrs. Neel gave an interesting talk on the benefits of being a member of the horticultural society, and called forth rounds of applause.

—H. B. Gentry came in from Aurora, Ill., last Friday. Mrs. Gentry is at Vevay, Ind., visiting relations.

—Prof. and Mrs. James A. Woodburn are home from their summer vacation, most of which was spent at Ann Arbor, with the parents of Mrs. Woodburn.

—Dr. Joseph Swain occupied the pulpit of the First Baptist church on Sunday morning, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Clough.

—The contract for the stone work on the new residence of Dr. Swain has been awarded to W. T. Hinds. Work commenced on Monday.

—Spencer Democrat: Miss Ruby Sadler will leave the last of the week for Bloomington, where she will visit friends for a month.

—Dr. Crain and daughter Alda were visiting friends in Indianapolis last week.

—Don't forget the Big Bloomington Fair this year. The management has posted a $1,000 forfeit that every attraction that they are advertising will actually be at the Fair Grounds. This is no fake, and to prove that the management is in earnest, any person dissatisfied and who thinks they have not obtained their money's worth at the Fair, will gladly be refunded the price of their admission ticket. If you think they are not in earnest, come and see and try, for the management is responsible and guarantees what they say.
