TRADE HOLDS STRENGTH.

Dun Reports Continued Activity in Nearly All Lines of Business.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "Business is not frightened either by the great capitalization of new companies or by the wild fluctuations in Wall street. No matter how much the stock operations in New York may count, business elsewhere is large and intense and that is the thing most important to observe. In no considerable branch has production diminished, but in practically all it has been increasing during the last week. In iron and steel a little lower price for Bessemer appears to be inevitable, but with gray forge 75 cents per ton, the market at Chicago is taking many contracts for building in Boston, New York and Washington, amounting to 4,000 tons, but makers elsewhere are overcrowded with work. The minor metals are all weaker with the result that the market is not so active. The market is holding its own, but with large sales ordered from the interior by time-holders, and some concessions made to secure transactions at Philadelphia and Boston, though quotations show only moderate decline, and sales at the three chief markets are about as large as in 1892. Failures for the week have been 200 in the United States, against 231 last year, and 24 in Canada, against 21 last year."
