

VALEDICTORY.

It was thirty-two years ago that May that the undersigned purchased and took possession of the Republican Progress office, and without intermission the paper has been printed by him up to and including last week. Not many persons remain in business so long and very few care to. Business grows monotonous in that time; and as a rule it becomes unprofitable for one man or set of men to follow in the same rat so long. There are exceptions, however, and the printing business is one of them, as a man becomes wedded to it in time. Our experience, while full of hard work and constant care, has been a pleasant one, and our contact with the people of Monroe county has been full of pleasant experiences. We now step down and out to make way for a younger, more active and aggressive—and we trust a better man in every way for the place than ourselves. Mr. Dennis B. Haungs, our successor, we believe to be better fitted for the times than myself—he is younger, has modern notions of business and will not hesitate to put them in practice. We earnestly bespeak for him the patronage of all business men, and trust that he will be shown the consideration and given the hearty patronage he deserves. Asking everything for our successor and reserving nothing for ourselves, we subscribe ourselves the public's servant.

WM. A. GABE.

REPUBLICAN PROGRESS.

SALUTATORY.

With this issue the Republican Progress appears under new management, and for the first time in 33 years without the venerable hand of William A. Gabe to guide the way. Mr. Gabe's name made it compulsory for him to seek a change of climate, so he disposed of this property to us, and in this greeting to the people of Monroe county we hope to be extended the same courtesy and patronage given our predecessor. It is no easy matter to fill the place held in this community by such a man as Mr. Gabe. We will, however, give our best efforts to make this publication bright, new, interesting and worthy of the praise and good will of the people of this city and county. We do not mean to tear down but to build up, not to ridicule but to encourage. With an earnest endeavor to do right and with a desire to please you we enter upon this career. In politics this paper will be Republican—aggressively so—we are opposed to everything that is not Republican, and will uphold and work for everything that is Republican. We believe Republican principles better suited for national, state and municipal government than any other and will do our best to promote them. We have no quarrel with any individual contrary opinion, and personally hope to merit your friendship and regard. Our patrons will find us always on the alert for their best interests and the welfare of the community. The loss of Mr. Gabe will be seriously felt, and we trust and hope he will return to the scene of his labors much improved in health and spirits. Our thanks are publicly due him for kindness and consideration covering the trial of negotiation for this property. There may be changes made in the near future but none that will not be for the betterment of the patrons and contributors. Personally we are a stranger to you, but quite desirous of making your acquaintance. Hoping for a continuation of your esteemed patronage and trusting we may be able to serve you, we commend to your judgment the Republican Progress, remaining on every occasion and at all times, Yours to command,

DENNIS B. HAUNGS,
Editor.

MR. G. CLEVELAND, private citizen, has been offered the chair of Politics at Princeton University. If he accepts he will probably instruct his classes how to fill offices with Democrats and then make civil service laws to keep them there.

THE churchman who "lenged for an hour of Dewey" with his guns before Constantinople, so that missionaries might have a chance with the Turks, has a good field down in Kentucky. There missionaries might do some good with the Bakers, Howards and Whites.

WHEN an office is removed from the civil service list that should never have been placed there the Democrats call it "taking the rivets out of the armor which enforces civil service reform." And yet the latest Democratic national platform contains a plank proposing to dynamite the whole thing.

A MARVELOUS influence undoubtedly was Richard P. Bland's, but never a hateful one. The man's sincerity in the holdings of his self taught conclusions was so plain and the insincerity of those who traded on his influence so palpable that among those who have been put to the most trouble in controverting his peculiarity indigenous heresies the news of his death will revive sympathy for the sharpest disappointment of a generally disappointed career.

AFTER the scientists of Europe have struggled for years with the problem of divine interference in the affairs of men, it remains for the devout clergymen of Eau Claire, Wis., to settle the question for good and aye by declaring that the New Richmond cyclone was a dispensation of Providence. One rabid episcopalian brother thought that the God of the Christians ought not to be held accountable, but that the storm was the work of some unknown devil. We are being treated to an example of the influences which govern the manufacture of theology. But probably the dispensation of Providence idea would have been more plausible even to the Eau Claire brethren if the cyclone had swept down on some part of New York or Chicago, rather than a quiet Wisconsin village.

OFFER TO BUY IRELAND.

Unnamed New York Financier Inquires if Britain Would Sell.

Special Dispatch to Inter-Ocean.

The Central News says an Irish member of Parliament has received a letter from "an eminent financier in New York" offering to promote and organize a movement for the purchase of Ireland. The writer declares that many hundred millions of dollars could be raised for the purpose, but the whole question must hinge on the desire of Great Britain to dispose of the property. He adds: "All things are possible in this age, and nothing is too big for us to undertake on this side of the water."

The Central News says it is pledged not to disclose the names of the writer and receiver of the letter.

HOTEL FIRE PANIC.

Joe Leiter Throws Hand Grenades at Flames and Five-Dollar Bills at the Firemen.

Special Dispatch to Inter-Ocean.

Joe Leiter, the ex-Chicago wheat plunger, was the hero of a big fire scare at the big Brighton Beach hotel, at Coney island. The fire did little damage, but Leiter threw hand grenades at the fire and $5 bills right and left to men who aided in extinguishing the flames. The hotel is an immense affair, not far from the water's edge, and was recently furnished by the Brooklyn Heights railroad company, at a cost of $600,000.

The guests who were in their rooms had trouble in getting out of the building. Some of them tied wet towels around their heads and groped their way down the main stairway. Others climbed down the fire-escapes. Among these were eight women, who had retired for the night, and who made their escape clad only in their night clothes. Several women coolly made their children precede them on the fire escape.

At this juncture a man who wore a blue serge suit and a straw hat, and who was recognized to be Joseph Leiter, climbed up on the roof of the pantry and began shouting to attract the attention of the fire-fighters. Both hands were full of money and he waved them in the air.

"Five dollars to every man who pulls a burning plank out of this building," he shouted.

"That's the only way to put this fire out. Tear her down." The crowd made a rush, and within a few moments there was nothing left of the kitchen. The demolition was accomplished so quickly that the man who proposed it had trouble to get off the roof in time. He was as good as his word, and paid $5 to every man who brought him a burning piece of wood. The loss by water to the rich furnishings of the hotel was $2,500. The fire loss was less. It is said, however, that the great electric light plant, which cost $25,000 was seriously damaged.

The situation in the Philippines is still very serious. Late dispatches announce that General Joe Wheeler has been ordered there and Gen. Miles will most likely start for Manila shortly. By virtue of his higher rank he will be in command of the American forces on his arrival there and it is to be hoped he will soon be able to put down Mr. Aguinaldo and his cohorts. The intense heat is playing havoc in our ranks and the rebels are more dangerous than was supposed. They are speedily learning the art of the ambush.

Many lives and more dollars to restore peace and quiet in that troubled and troublesome land.

"VERY SERIOUS."

Thus Miles Refers to the Philippine Situation.

NEW YORK, June 20.—"The situation in the Philippines is very serious," said Nelson A. Miles, Monday.

"I know nothing concerning the story that the war department is suppressing the news from Manila. But everybody knows that things are very serious there. The question of issuing a call for volunteers has not, I believe, been decided. I do not care to discuss the Philippine matter. I am here on private business."

EVEN THE FOOLS DIE.
Reflections of an Editor in Passing Through the Cemetery.
The graveyard editor of an exchange has taken up his quill and wrote:
"Walk through any of our cemeteries and you will see that even the fool passeth away. Here's the last resting place of the man who blew into an empty gun; there the woman who lighted the fire with kerosene; a grass carpeted mound covers the grave of the man who took the mule by the tail. The monument to the boy who didn't know the gun was loaded is greatly overshadowed by that of the man who jumped from the train to save a ten mile walk. Side by side with the esthetic creature who kept her corset laced to a tightly and wore low necked dresses in winter is the intelligent idiot who rode a bicycle 9 or 10 miles in 10 minutes. Beneath the mound of yellow clay rests the cork-headed chappie who sucked death from luscious cigarette in a few sweet moments; while beneath the weeping willow, gathered in a tin pail, rests in peace the battered remains of the aeronaut. Here reposes the doctor who took his own medicine. Down in potter's field with his feet sticking out to the cold blast of winter and the blistering rays of the summer sun, are stretched the remains of the editor, while the broken bones of the man who refused to pay for his paper are pitted in the corner of the fence."

—If a man takes a sack of wheat and an ordinary checker board and sits down, just for want of something to do, and undertakes to put a grain of wheat on the first square, two grains on the second, four on the third, etc., how many grains would be used before all the sixty-four squares were filled? It does not seem possible, but a mathematician has figured it out at 9,533,571,603 bushels, allowing one million grains to the bushel, or as much wheat as the United States would produce in 18,446 years. If you think the statement is untrue, just take your pencil and make a few figures.

—Secretary Hurty, of the State Board of Health, returned from Corydon yesterday morning and at once left on another mission of investigation of smallpox. At Corydon he found a case of bleeding smallpox which is causing great concern, as 80 per cent. of such cases are fatal. At Rockport twenty cases were found, and the houseboat which has been used as a pest-house was burned and the pest-house was established in a tent on the bank of the river. A colored man died before the eruptions appeared, and Dr. Hurty regarded this as a bad sign for the future. A general vaccination and quarantine was ordered. It is understood that an expert will be sent to Valparaiso to investigate the disease now in the Normal School there.—Indianapolis Journal.

—A force of fifteen hundred men marching in war array represents power, discipline, stirs the imagination and gratifies the taste for display. Music and banners add their magic to rouse the emotions. But was not that a more striking exhibition of discipline, when fifteen hundred school children marched out of a burning building in New York when the "rapid dismissal" signal rang? In silent obedience, smoke showing that a deadly enemy was upon them, the miniature army moved on its appointed way. A victory of peace won by childhood.

—Some fellow has expressed the opinion that while the bicycle skirts make the woman look shorter, they also have a tendency to make men look longer.

The Difference in Cost

Between Job Printing that is "thrown together" and gotten out in a haphazard way is but little less than Job Printing gotten out in first-class style. The former does your business injury and the latter gives tone and character to your business. Herein the difference is great. We supply Fine Printing that will boom your business and of which you will be proud, for it will attract attention.

A COMPARISON

—OF THE PLANS OF THE—

Bloomington National Saving and Loan Association
WITH WAY ORDINARY LOANS ARE MADE.

Will Take a Loan of $500 for Illustration:

ASSOCIATION LOANS. $8.17 per month for 77 will pay off the loan together with the interest. So $8.17x77=$629.09. Amount paid in all. Take $500.00 from $629.09, leaves the interest paid $129.09.
OF course the Association on an average has the same money loaned to two parties at same time which makes 8 per cent. they pay the investing stockholder.
ORDINARY LOANS. $500.00 at 6 per cent.—$30.00 year interest or $2.50 per month. 2.50x77=$192.50.
The interest for the whole time 192.50 plus 500—692.50.
So the difference between $629.09 and $692.50—difference $63.41 more to be raised to pay off the Ordinary loan than the Association way.

She Spanked Him.
PORT CHESTER, N. Y.—Police Justice Wakefield, Tuesday, decided the celebrated case of Ansky vs. Ansky in favor of the wife. Ansky had Mrs. Ansky arrested for spanking him. The wife pleaded justification. After the decision Ansky said he would never return and then disappeared. The Judge told Mrs. Ansky to go home in peace and if her husband was naughty to spank him some more. Ansky was spanked because he refused to bring up coal.

—According to the plan of ex-Governor Merriam, director of twelfth census, for the appointment of 2,000 clerks for the work of the main office, says a Washington dispatch, the apportionment from each state will be as follows: United States senators will have the appointment of 16 clerks each, and democratic representatives 2, and in some cases 3 each. On this basis there can be appointed from Indiana 110 to 115 clerks, averaging in pay from $600 to $1,000 a year; Ohio from 165 to 170; Kentucky about 80, and West Virginia about 65.
