This is a shoe that's sure to go through Eighteen Hundred and Ninety-two.

Give your feet a show. They'll have to carry you through the new year. If you give them their deserts, you'll put them in shoes that they will take kindly to. You will be doing a handsome thing by them if you encase them in a pair of our $3.00 shoes. When you are wearing them neither you or they will have anything to complain about. The day may come when a better shoe than this can be sold for less money. For time brings wonderful changes as well as new years. But it hasn't come yet and there's no sign of it.

Respectfully Yours,
J. S. KELLY,

How We Reach Perfection.
We are having a big run on our $10 Suits and Overcoats, and it doesn't astonish us in the least. They've hit the nail on the head as nothing else in that line ever did before. What is the secret of their success? There isn't any secret about it. There can't be any secret about what everybody knows, and the first thing that leaked out about them was that they are away above par in value and away below par in price. Is the run subsiding? Not a bit of it. On the contrary the tide is rising. This of all others is the time to buy. You never make any mistake when you go with the rising tide to headquarters.

PRICE OF VACANT RESIDENCE LOTS
In the City per Front Foot

Alexander Thompson recently sold 60 feet on College Hill for a fraction over $25 per front foot. Miss Hovey has been offered per front foot for vacant property in the same locality. Mr. Swan has just bought 80 feet on the corner of Washington and College streets at $30 per front foot. Dr. Detelson paid $35 per front foot for the lot on which his residence now stands.

The Wm. S. Galeys lots are located in the very best residence part of the city. They are surrounded by beautiful homes occupied by our best citizens. The title to these lots is perfect. They are to be sold on reasonable payments. The highest bidder, on and after the 25th inst., if you want to buy a home or make a safe investment of your capital, you will certainly never have a better opportunity to get hold of property that will increase in value in your hands.

The Columbia Ladies' Quartette.
The Peoria Herald speaking of one of the soloists of this musical organization says:
Mrs. Wilson, of Chicago, was cordially welcomed and heartily applauded. Her voice has lost none of its sweetness or flexibility, and she sang "With Verdure Clad" and a nosegay of three ballads with lovely effect, and was warmly encored. She is looking remarkably well, and it is pleasant to hear her again at Peoria.

WRECK ON THE MONON.

The Fast Mail Goes Over an Embankment—No Lives Lost.

A special to the Indianapolis Journal gives the following particulars of the wreck. "The southbound passenger train on the Monon was wrecked on the Salt Creek bridge, near Bedford at 4:30 p. m. Jan. 7. The cold weather caused the trucks on the forward end of the baggage car to break, and they dropped, lodging between the bridge timber in such a manner that the trucks on all the other cars were pulled from their fastenings. The momentum of the train was sufficient to slide all the coaches over the broken trucks. All the coaches except the chair car cleared the bridge and rolled down an eight-foot embankment, where they caught fire. The flames were extinguished before any great damage had been done by fire, and the work of rescuing the passengers began. Strange as it may seem only four persons were seriously injured. Miss Adams, of Nashville, was so badly hurt that life was despaired of, and another woman and her daughters were very seriously injured. James Osgood, a traveling man from Chicago, had both legs broken and was injured internally. James Jennings, conductor, was slightly injured as were a score or more of passengers. The engine also left the track, but engineer Muir and his fireman escaped by jumping. The chair car, which contained eighteen passengers, was thrown upon its side, one end projecting over the broken bridge. All the floor timbers of the bridge were displaced. The bridge is badly wrecked, and the top of the bridge will have to be entirely rebuilt." The night trains through here were not run, they were sent around by Indianapolis.

A Swell Affair.

The present Senior class of Wabash College has decided to outdo all its predecessors in a social way, and this morning issued 225 invitations for a reception to be given one week from to-night in Yandess Hall. The affair is given in honor of Dr. Joseph F. Tuttle and wife, and all the college presidents are invited, besides the social element of Crawfordsville. The hours are from 7:30 to 11:30 and the reception committee is composed of Messrs. Osborn, Christian, Abbott and Gary. The affair promises to be the swell social event of the season and everything will be done to make it so. The decorations will be elaborate and beautiful. Music will be brought from Indianapolis, and Zeigler & Reimann will furnish the refreshments. The invitations to the gentlemen contain the cards of the ladies whom they are expected to escort and the ladies invitations contain the gentlemen's cards. This arrangement is a sure prevention of any disagreeable misunderstandings which so often arise in cases of this kind. The senior class is to be congratulated on this social precedent it has set up. The class of '92 always has succeeded in looming up conspicuously in matters of originality and enterprise, and the coming reception will eclipse anything of the kind in the history of the college.

Johnnie and Ollie.

Johnnie Harris, familiarly known as "Bull," is a jolly, light hearted teamster. He is a gay Lothario, too, and some three months ago he got to trifling with the maiden affections of Miss Ollie Gleason. That was real naughty in the festive Johnnie and when he was hauled before Judge Chummaero this morning at Ollie's instigation he felt real bad and blushed like everything when asked when his case would come up.

"There ain't goin' to be no case," said he, "it will end in a splicin' match. I reckon this evenin' about eight o'clock at the big hotel on Spring street. Friends of the family cordially invited, after draped with white roses, smilax and trailing arbutus." Johnnie is ready for marriage now, but Ollie's friends are leary and want him to transfer his three race horses and carriages to make sure that he isn't playing a foxy game.

The New Club.

"Our Club," the new dancing organization, held a meeting last evening and adopted by-laws and regulations for the government of the affair. There will be another meeting held on Monday evening, at which time the date for the first dance will be determined upon. Only members of the club will be allowed to attend the dances. Harry Randolph has the list of those who belong.

An Evening Party.

At her home on Franklin street Miss Dora Henry entertained a party of friends in her usual pleasant manner last evening. The occasion was in honor of Misses Ella Michaels and Hortense Tapp, of Marion, and Miss Cora Tapp, of Madison, Kentucky. Refreshments were served and the evening spent in a way such that it will not soon be forgotten by those present.

Received a Call.

Rev. Edwin Thomson, of Denver, Col., has received a call to the Second Presbyterian church at Springfield, Ohio. This is one of the strong churches of Ohio, a great church for benevolent work. They give every year hundreds of dollars to Home and Foreign Missions. Mr. Thomson is now in Colorado.

A HORRIBLE FATE.

Little Harry Lee Crane Slowly Choked to Death Last Night.

A very sad death occurred on south Grant avenue last night which has filled one home with inexpressible sadness. George Crane, a worthy laboring man, resides several doors north of the creamery with his family. Little Harry Lee was the youngest child and a child of unusual brightness and promise. Yesterday morning while playing about the house with the other children in the absence of his mother he met with an accident which resulted in his death last night. When Mrs. Crane entered the room shortly before noon she found little Harry lying on the floor evidently choking with something he was unable to swallow. She tried to relieve him in vain and Mr. Crane arriving home opportunely was sent in haste for Dr. Keegan who arrived and made an examination. The child's brother stated that he had given little Harry a piece of ham and that in his endeavors to swallow it, he choked. Dr. Keegan gave an emetic but without result. The child continued to suffer and grow worse until nine o'clock when death came to its relief. The parents are completely prostrated by the death of their little pet, and it lies in the house upon the bed surrounded by a sorrowing group of relatives. The funeral will occur some time to-morrow, the hour not yet having been determined upon.

Linden wants a newspaper. Linden is a booming little town and can support a newspaper.

Parties wishing to go into the grocery and confectionary business would do well to see Mr. Sheets and get his prices.

Elmore, the Antioch correspondent for the Graphic, has more than exhausted his mind and will not appear till he hears the frogs sing.

Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Ray's baby died last Friday at 6 o'clock a. m. The infant was buried in the Christian cemetery at 3 p. m. on Saturday. Funeral was preached by Rev. Trotter.

Bright Trade Prospects.

He is a small man, rather dapper in appearance, with a propitiatory air in his clothes, in his face, and even in the fringe of hair which encircles his head without covering it. His wife is a large woman, of course, with a red face and an aggressive air. He went to the vegetable peddler this morning with a large tin pan to make purchases. It was the first time the peddler had seen him come to trade. There were several women, neighbors, at the wagon. He came up to the cart, and looked critically over the array of fruits and vegetables.

"How much are those cucumbers?" he asked.

"Five cents."

"He lifted one of them, said they were fine looking, and then asked:

"How much is that lettuce a head?"

"Ten cents."

"That is cheap enough. And now, let me see," he said slowly. "Ah, there's watermelons, eh? Why, they are early enough, I'm sure. How much are they?"

"Seventy-five cents apiece," said the dealer, who, seeing that his customer was no ordinary party, began to stir himself about. "They are fresh melons, just got them last night, and every one of them is fully ripe. I'll guarantee that."

"Fully ripe, eh?" said the customer, fondling the article.

"Yes, sir," said the dealer, getting up on his feet, in the flush of expectation.

"They look ripe," coincided the customer. Then he looked around and spied another attractive article.

"Peaches, eh? Well, I declare! How natural and good they look. How much for the peaches?"

"Thirty cents a quart," said the dealer, mentally figuring up the total of half a dozen cucumbers, a couple of heads of lettuce, a watermelon and a quart of peaches, while the woman at the cart opened their eyes in wonder and stood silently by, awed by the magnitude of the transaction.

"Only thirty cents," mused he. "Why, that's reasonable enough, I take it, in these times. Let me see—five cents a piece for the cucumbers, ten cents for the lettuce, seventy-five cents for a watermelon, thirty cents for—"

"Joseph Malachuk!" came a sharp, loud voice, through a spitefully opened door, "are you going to get what I sent you after, or are you going to stand out there all day?"

"Gimme ten cents' worth new potatoes," gasped the man, nervously opening the hand he had kept shut and disclosing a new dime. "Quick, please!"

The Unpardonable Sin.

A very finely dressed lady, on whose face powder and wrinkles were desperately struggling for the mastery, got on the train at Norwalk, Saturday evening.

The car being crowded, she was obliged to stand up. Seeing her, a young woman in an adjoining seat rose and offered her the place. "But you will have to stand," said the first lady, edging toward the seat. "Oh, that's nothing," replied the other. "I am young." The next instant the first lady was at the other end of the car and didn't intimate to anybody to bring the seat along. J. M. BAILEY.
