WEDNESDAY, JAN. 27, 1892.

This Date in History—Jan. 27.

1692—Sir William Temple, diplomatist and statesman, died.
1792—J. C. W. Mozart born; died 1791.
1814—Johann Gottlieb Fichte, philosopher, died in Berlin; born 1762.
1840—Rossiter Johnson, author, born in Rochester, N.Y.
1851—John James Audubon, ornithologist, died in New York; born in Louisiana, 1780. The steamer John Adams sank in the Ohio river and 123 lives were lost.
1864—Battles on French Broad and Scott's Mill road, Tenn. Knoxville campaign.
1876—Frederick Lemaitre, famous actor, died, aged 77.
1878—Sir Edward Sheppard Creasy, author of "Fifteen Decisive Battles of the World," died.
1891—Dr. Sullivan Whiting, the first manufacturer of homeopathic medicines in America, died, aged 83.

The Hill-Gorman-Brice-Tammany combination is raling the Democratic party with a rod of iron, in spite of the squirming of the kickers. It owns the Democratic national committee, as fully proven last week; it owns the Speaker of the House, and it intends to dictate the Presidential ticket and the platform upon which the Democrats will make their national campaign this year.

Mr. Mills has blood in his eye and it is bad Texas blood. He is still sore over his defeat, and he does not care a continental who knows it. He intimates, and some of his hot-headed friends boldly declare that he intends to lead a revolt against the Crisp gang when the first tariff bill is reported to the House from the Ways and Means committee. Mills also swears vengeance against the Presidential aspiration of Senator Hill, and says he shall never get a single vote from Texas.

Another brilliant Democratic scheme has come to grief. It was asserted by members of that party that the Treasury was becoming so depleted of cash that it would be necessary to so amend the McKinley law as to bring in a larger income from customs duties, and to prove this assertion the Ways and Means committee adopted a resolution calling upon the Secretary of the Treasury to appear before it and declare the present and prospective condition of the Treasury. Secretary Foster being absent in search of health, Assistant Secretary Spaulding appeared before the committee, and by a short, business like statement refuted every charge that the Democrats had made so conclusively that they are probably sorry they adopted the resolution. He said that the actual receipts of the government for the first six months of the present fiscal year were $174,151,000 and the expenditures $167,074,000 and that the estimated expenditures for the entire fiscal year were $338,000,000, or just $24,000,000 less than the estimated receipts. $362,000,000. Besides, there is at present on hand in cash $139,728,000, which added to the estimated surplus which will exist on the 30th of June next will give the Treasury on that date a total surplus of $153,893,000. Nothing very depleted about that Treasury, eh?

INDIANA will have reason to be proud of her namesake, the battleship "Indiana," now being built at Philadelphia, and a delegation of Indianians ought to accompany her on her trial trip, which will take place just two years from now, in 1894. The "Indiana" and her two consorts, the Massachusetts and Oregon, will be the finest and best war vessels that the world has ever known. They will have a tonnage of 10,200, which is double that of the Chicago, our best vessel of to-day. They will have a coal endurance of 5,000 miles, a speed of 16.2 knots, and their battery will be the heaviest and most effective in battle, carried to-day by any ship afloat or projected. They consist of four great 13-inch rifles, sweeping forward and aft and on both broadsides. There are eight 8-inch rifle guns that at two miles can pierce the armor of 22 inches of steel, and will throw at a single discharge a weight of projectiles of 6,800 pounds, or over 3 tons. Their secondary batteries comprising sixteen 6-pounders and four 1-pounders, discharging 330 projectiles per minute. Each ship will have torpedo tubes so arranged as to give an all-round fire for the discharge of 18-inch torpedoes, each of which is charged with 250 pounds of a powerful explosive. Their object will be to fight and fighting machines they will be of the highest efficiency, the like of which the world has never seen. Their armor will be 18 inches and their cost will be $5,521,252.01. Indiana will doubtless watch the course of the U. S. S. "Indiana" with a great deal of interest and pride, and we bespeak an Indianian to be her commander.

Found Dead.
LOANSBORO, Ind., Jan. 27.—A horrible discovery was made at the Northern Indiana hospital here Sunday night. For the past two days an unusual odor has been noticed coming from a five, Superintendent Rogers was notified and an investigation ordered. At the bottom of the five in the cellar was found the body of B. F. Hutson, a patient from Elkhart county, who, on Thursday last, disappeared. It was supposed he had escaped, as he was allowed the privilege of the grounds. Hutson was found in a sitting position, strangled by a rope attached to a pipe above him. The body was in an advanced state of decomposition. An investigation as to the cause of his death is being made.

Killed Husband and Wife.
JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Jan. 27.—Mrs. Frank Brown, of Boston, Washington county, Tuesday morning went to the barn. In a stable stallion was standing. Without warning the vicious animal kicked Mrs. Brown on the head, fracturing her skull. Her husband, hearing her screams, went to her rescue. While he was raising his wife from the ground the stallion kicked him on the temple, also fracturing his skull. Brown, unable to move, cried for assistance. Persons in a passing wagon attracted by the noise, found Brown and his wife. They were assisted to the house and died of their injuries later.

Snow and Wheat.
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 27.—The recent fall of snow which will protect the wheat so well makes the prospect for next year's wheat very good, and farmers are foretelling a magnificent yield, even better than that of last year.

Will Become a Minister.
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 27.—William Hanlon, the theatrical manager, announces that his brother George Hanlon has decided to abandon the theatrical business for the pulpit. George Hanlon is one of the famous Hanlon brothers, acrobats, who earned fame and money in this country and Europe in "Voyage on Snakes." For a year past he has refused to accept his share of the receipts of the Sunday performances by companies in which the brothers are interested. He will enter the ministry and probably become an evangelist.

THE HOOSIER STATE.

The Latest News from Its Various Cities and Towns.

Saloonkeepers Upheld.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 27.—The supreme judges gave another decision Tuesday sustaining the state liquor license law. It was in the case of Mary E. Haggart against John Stehlin, the latter having opened a saloon in a part of the city where no liquor had ever been sold, and where the religious and prohibition element prevailed. The saloon being next door to Mrs. Haggart's residence, she charged that it was damaging her property and that the license to Stehlin by the county commissioners was illegal because the state could not issue a license for a business that injured others. Chief Justice Elliott, in the opinion in which the judges concurred, said that license laws had been held constitutional, and by no court more strongly than by the supreme court of the United States. He said the court had declared that the question of license or no license is one exclusively for the legislature and that license laws and local option laws are prohibitory in their character. They have further declared that license is a special tax and that the right to impose exists because the business of selling liquors is not one of a harmless character. They also decided that were it not for the legislative restriction anyone might engage in the selling of intoxicating liquors without limitation or restraint.

Have Not Conformed to the Law.
VIRAMONTE, Ind., Jan. 27.—State Auditor Henderson has issued a list of insurance companies not entitled to do business in the state of Indiana on account of various non-conformations of the insurance law of Indiana. Many of them had at once been admitted to do business throughout the state on their own alleged statements of their condition, but after a careful investigation by the auditor of their methods of doing business he revoked their licenses, and the law provides a maximum penalty of $1,000 fine and thirty days in jail for any one attempting to do business for any of these companies. The following is the list:

Fireman Chicago, Pioneer, Chicago; Delaware River and Marine, Camden, N.J.; Gloucester Gloucester, N.J.; Fairmount, Philadelphia, Pa.; Dauntless, Philadelphia, Pa.; Quaker City, Philadelphia, Pa.; Aurora, Harrisburg, Pa.; Capital City, Harrisburg, Pa.; People's, Harrisburg, Pa.; Susquehanna, Harrisburg, Pa.; Dauphin, Dauphin, Pa.; Farmers' and Mechanics', Millersburg, Pa.; Alliance Reading, Pa.; Merchants', Altoona, Pa.; Montgomery, Montgomery County, Pa.; Stedson, Stedson, Pa.; The Reserve, Cleveland, O.; Washington, Washington, D.C.; Columbus, Toledo, O.; Steadman, Toledo, O.; Columbia Fire and Marine, New Albany, Miss.; Delta Greenville, Miss.; Northern, Sioux City, Ia.; Wytheville, Va.; Dakota Fire Insurance, Mitchell, S.D.; Citizens' Canada, Montreal, Can.

The Snyder Divorce Case Ends.
COLUMBUS, Ind., Jan. 27.—The noted Snyder divorce case, which has attracted the attention of the court here for some time, reached an end by the granting of a divorce to Mrs. Snyder. Mr. and Mrs. Snyder were married in 1889, she having about $75,000 in cash and being about 60 years of age, while he was much younger. One day in his absence she issued her check for $30,000, payable to the trustees of Hartsville college. This very much displeased him, and he at once brought suit to have her adjudged insane and to stop the payment of the money. At the end of a hard legal fight he was defeated. Here the trouble, which ended Tuesday, began. By the ruling of the court Snyder is without a wife, homeless and penniless.
