A GLORIOUS TURN OUT.

Mr. Fairbanks' Speech a Magnificent Effort and Well Received.

Last evening the Morton club rooms were crowded long before the hour of the speaking had arrived and the first shouting enthusiasm of the campaign was manifested. Everybody was in excellent spirits and after the call to order there were 31 men initiated, three of whom had heretofore been Democrats. It was a glorious meeting and when the band arrived there was a grand rush made to get in line. The McKinley club of Wabash College, 200 strong, headed by the drum corps fell in just behind the Morton club and altogether about 500 men were in the procession which escorted Mr. Fairbanks to Music Hall. The clubs were heartily cheered during the march around the square and a scene of unswerving enthusiasm everywhere displayed. The hall was quickly filled and the appearance of chairman Williams and Mr. Fairbanks was loudly applauded. The glee club rendered an excellent selection which brought down the house and when quiet had been restored Mr. Fairbanks was introduced by Mr. Williams.

After paying a splendid tribute to the Morton Club and the Wabash College Club for the zeal and earnestness which characterized the present occasion Mr. Fairbanks opened his speech on State issues. He showed from the records of history that the Democratic party was a debt making party and the Republican party a debt paying party. In 1860 when the Democratic party went out of power they left a debt of $10,000,000. This debt the Republican party assumed and besides the extraordinary expenses incurred by the war they reduced the debt, until 1872 when the Democracy again came into power down to $3,905,905. The Democracy then resumed the reins of government and the debt began again to increase and continued to increase until now it is $8,830,615. He then touched upon the tax law and read from the Democratic State platform in which the assertion is made that all the increase in taxation comes from corporations. "This he showed is not true. The farm and lot owners bear the heaviest share of the burden. The increase upon lands, lot and improvements amounts to $246,146,933, while the increase in personal property is $56,918,858, making a total increase of over $303,000,000. The corporations all combined were only $96,005,214. He thus effectually disposed of the claim of the Democracy that the corporations bear all the burden of the increase of taxation. He then compared the cost of running our State Asylums with that of Ohio's, showing that the patients in Ohio cost $150 per capita while in Indiana they cost $227 per capita. The gerrymander received a castigation at his hands in which it was shown that Indiana had the most unjust and unfair appointments of any State in the Union. From State issues he passed to National affairs and showed the advantage of a National currency over a State currency, and compared the days of wild cat money with the present system, and appealed to the people if they were in favor of a return of the former days as the Democracy had declared in their National platform. On the tariff question he confined himself to a discussion of plate glass and tin plate. He read an extract from Gov. Hendrick's message to the Legislature in 1885 in which he made a strong plea for the plate glass industry. In compliance with the Governor's suggestions the Democratic Legislature passed a joint resolution instructing the Senators and requesting the Representatives to vote for an increase in the tariff on plate glass. This action was taken upon the request of Washington DePauw who showed to the satisfaction of the Governor and the Legislature that in his efforts to establish the industry in this State he had been losing money at the rate of $300,000 a year. Then plate glass was selling at $2.50 a square foot, with no money for the American manufacturer, while now plate glass is selling with an increased tariff at 75 cents per square foot and with a fair profit for the manufacturer. He closed with a reference to the splendid statesmanship which brought about our reciprocity treaties and appealed to the people to stand by the Republican party and to its grand work.

A TRELLING ACCIDENT.

Dr. Southerlin Goes Against a Chukn of Atropia With Almost Fatal Results.
Dr. Southerlin, of the Southerlin Institute for inebriates, had an experience last night which he will have cause to remember for some time. He was returning home from a visit to town and had in his hand a bottle containing a number of pills made of atropia, a deadly drug which affects the action of the heart and brain, and of which 1-60 of a grain is a large dose. Dr. Southerlin had a curiosity to taste atropia, and for the sake of curiosity placed one of the pills on his tongue. In some way, he does not clearly understand how, he swallowed it. He knew his peril instantly and rushing home swallowed an emetic with only a fair result. He was too late and in a few minutes was out of his mind. He began to rave and tear about in a most frantic manner and Captain Layne, who was present, summoned the Doctor and held him on the bed while Dr. Jones was hastily called. The patient had to be held all night and rolled his eyes and fought in a most horrible manner. He was on the border of tetanic convulsions but was today pronounced out of danger. The whole case was a most peculiar one.

The Jolly One Again.

Our jolly old burglar is certainly industrious if not always successful. Last night he began operations again on east Wabash avenue, the first time he has been around that street since pretty Miss Kemble scared him so the night he scattered hot candle grease so recklessly. He broke into the summer kitchen of J. R. Bryant last night by cutting out a screen and then tried to get into the main part of the house. The lock, however, was covered with Bryant & Watson's creticle conductor. So after working until he heard John Griffin splitting kindling wood to make the morning fire, he gave it up as a bad job and sadly picking up his tools went away. He wasn't nearly as jolly as usual.

Attempted Kidnapping.

Mose Bowman, the well known colored man whose chief occupation seems to be hunting trouble and who is known in polite circles as "Mose the Moka," was in the city yesterday and succeeded in getting into a fight with a white man and nearly meeting his death at the hands of his divorced wife. Mose came here with the avowed intention of stealing his two children, Miss Nancy and Master "Hope," both beautiful and well behaved children as children go. Mose was hardly as foxy, however, as he had adjudged himself to be and when he came prowling about the premises of his wholom partner he met the trouble for which he had so long been hunting. He was just placing before the receptive minds of Nancy and "Hope" the advantages to be derived by their placing their feet under his table in another town when the mother of the children swooped down upon him with a burnished butcher knife which gleamed in the soft afternoon sun like the nickel plating on a prize cook stove. Mose tied as he had good need and his tracks show that he raised dust only every 15 feet. He had a narrow escape with his life and pretty little Nancy and part little "Hope" are safe for the present at least.

Happily Married.

This morning in the parlors of the Nutt hotel Rev. G. W. Switzer united in marriage Mr. Leo G. Powell and Miss Lucretia Seaman. Both bride and groom are excellent young people and THE JOURNAL takes pleasure in extending congratulations.

COLLEGE NOTES.

Major, '90, is now studying for Ph. D. at Cornell.

The drum corps will wear plug hats made of American tin, and will likewise sport long, linen dusters.

The political ratio in college is about five Republicans to one Democrat. The Prohibition, Farmers' Alliance and Women's Rights parties have not been heard from yet.

The McKinley club of Wabash College made a very presentable appearance at Hon. Fairbanks' speech last night.

They turned out 200 strong and what with the artistic veil and the drum corps it was everything but a minus quantity.

Prepdom has organized a debating club called the Investigating Society. The next question for debate is: "Resolved that the capital of the United States should be removed to St. Louis."

Just as well have said Crawfordville, we think.

At the meeting of the Stevenson club last night delegates were appointed to go to Indianapolis on Saturday for the purpose of assisting in perfecting the State organization of college clubs.

When this is done delegates from the State organization will make up the National league.

The conversation has changed from wrathful expressions to good humored chat.
