COMMISSIONER FULLER possesses the art to an illimitable degree of stirring up the monkeys.

BRICK streets are not as badly needed as a system of sewerage. The public health demands the latter.

THE Republicans have reduced the tariff a good deal more in the last ten years than it ever will be reduced by the Democrats.

THE county is out of money and the Commissioners have decided to borrow $12,000. Bonds will be issued and sold to the best bidders.

How would this sound: "Hon. Con Cunningham, Consul at Dublin." It is understood that the Irish Democrats intend to push their countrymen for this position. The salary is $2,000 and the fees amount to as much more.

THERE is evidently a looseness connected with the management of the school fund that needs tightening up. Perhaps nobody in particular is to be censured but a little more vigorous enforcement of law would be worth thousands to the school fund.

MR. CLEVELAND announces that he is disgusted with office seekers. He forgets that most of his own time for the last dozen years or more has been spent either in the enjoyment of office or in the pursuit thereof. As Sheriff, Mayor, Governor and President it does not become him to sneer at other Democrats who seek place but who have been less fortunate. Gratitude, however, is not one of Cleveland's characteristics.

IT is well to bear in mind the fact that the awful things that are going to happen under free trade are in progress now at the highly protected Carnegie iron and steel mill in Homestead, Pa. The workmen have been started out, and if they get work at all they take it at whatever Mr. Frick may offer.—Chicago Herald.

THE Herald should have had the candor to say that all these things happened immediately after a reduction of the tariff on products such as are manufactured at Homestead. It is a fact that workmen at Homestead "have been started out" and compelled to take such wages as Mr. Frick may choose to give them, sensible people will not fail to observe that this deplorable condition of things came as the result of a decrease, and not an increase of the tariff.

Tuck Cox a Fish.

SOME time since two representative sports of Chicago landed in Lafayette and registered at the Bramble house as Samuel Doss and John McCall, the former a typical sprinter and the latter a professional card gamester. It was not long after they arrived that they were looked upon as genuine sports by the local fraternity. They soon gained the confidence of two of our members and Doss proposed a race with a Monon sprinter, saying it was a dead easy "cinch" for a cool $300, and the match was made. The Lafayette sports backed Doss who lost. It was so evident that a genuine dunnep had taken place, that after the race a "free for all set-to" occurred, pistols and knives were drawn and advice from Monon say that one of the participants was shot through the ear, but this report is not confirmed and Tuck Cox was badly bitten by Doss on the hand. The latter's wound was dressed by Dr. Hopper this morning. These same professional beasts have been traveling over the country some time working the same hippodrome race and pocketing the proceeds, but the Lafayette sports, barring one, lost nothing except a little blood and one a cool $100.—Lafayette Courier.

Tuck Cox ought to have known better, as his crowd was worked here the same way by some tramps who wished to run at Ladoga several years ago. It's the old story.

DR. GREENE is studying in the hospitals of Chicago. He will return Dec 15 to remain.

The Fair of the Christian church will be held in the room recently vacated by Rountree's bazaar, east Main street.

You need a clock this is the week to buy it. We will give you a clock worth $4.00, $12.00 and $15.00 for $4.00.

SCHOOL TEACHERS RATTLED

THEY ARE SOLD SPURIOUS EXAMINATION QUESTIONS BY A FRAUD.

Supt. Zuck's Sympathy Spoils the State Superintendent's Game.

This story comes from the State Superintendent's office regarding the peddling of examination questions with whom Mr. Zuck dealt last Saturday.

A year ago State Superintendent, Vorles, began to hear vague rumors that the questions for teachers' examinations were being offered for sale. The information was of an indefinite nature and so thoroughly devoid of data of time and place and of who was involved, that although steps were taken immediately to investigate the reports it was not until a few weeks ago that tangible facts were discovered. Since then development have followed right along, and all indications were that the guilty man would soon be in custody, unless Saturday when, by a blunder of a county superintendent, the man who has been the object of search for twelve long months was allowed to escape from the State.

For a long time a man known as Ed. R. Keen has been traveling over Indiana, selling charts to be used in the district schools. He called himself the Superintendent of the "School Supply Exchange," which was located in Chicago. Some time ago Keen sold charts in Boone county. He sold them to the Township Trustees and promised to teach the teachers how to use them. When the charts were ready to be delivered in a certain township in Boone county, all the teachers in that township were called together to receive the promised charts. While the teachers were thus gathered together Keen had a private consultation with several of them one at a time.

One of the teachers with whom Keen talked in private at this meeting was E. E. Smith. Keen told Smith that he had arranged to secure in advance the teachers' examination questions which were to be used in the county examination all over the State last Saturday, November 25. He had a contract with a county superintendent and promised to teach the teachers how to use them. Smith declined the offer and communicated his information to State Superintendent, Vorles. Mr. Vorles at once requested Smith to enter into negotiations with Keen in order to trap him. This Smith did and carried on considerable correspondence with Keen.

Last week Keen notified Smith by letter that he could get the questions to be used on Saturday by coming to Crawfordsville on Friday. Smith went to Crawfordsville, and found there a dozen or more teachers coming to the questions. Keen had only one set of questions, and all the teachers had to gather around one place and copy them, as a consequence, Keen announced to the teachers that he had bought the questions at the Grand Hotel at Indianapolis, on the day before and that he had paid $500 for them. Smith told Keen that he Smith had been unable to raise the necessary $400 and proposed to put his watch in the hands of a Crawfordsville jeweler, to be delivered to Keen when the teacher asked him (Smith) to secure a three years' license to teach. Keen accepted the proposition and went so far as to draw up and sign a written contract embodying the proposition. Keen, in asserting the genuineness of the questions, declared that they were in the handwriting of the Superintendent. True, as was the handwriting of the Superintendent, but the handwriting of the Superintendent was in the handwriting of the Superintendent. It is said that the comparison has been carefully made and that the writing is unlike any of them.

Mr. Smith returned to Boone county with his questions and attended the county teachers' examination the next day. Upon receiving the list of questions from the Superintendent Smith produced those he purchased from Keen and found by a comparison that the $400 questions were bogus and in no ways like the genuine. Mr. Smith carefully watched two teachers who he had seen copying the bogus questions at Crawfordsville on the day before. He saw them examine the genuine questions with surprise and alarm. After awhile one of the two wrote across the head of his paper:

"I am not feeling well and will not take the examination today."

Then he handed the papers back to the superintendent and went away. The other of the two duped teachers sat awhile longer fumbling with his papers, and then too wrote upon them that he was not well and would defer his examination until some other time. Then he departed. It is known that teachers from Boone, Montgomery and Hendricks counties had purchased sets of questions from Keen in preparation for last Saturday's examination. It was the intention of State Superintendent Vorles to have an affidavit sworn out against Keen as soon as all the necessary evidence was in hand, but this plan was frustrated as follows:

J. S. Zuck, superintendent of Montgomery county, in some way discovered what Keen was doing in Crawfordsville, and just before Mr. Vorles was ready to be sworn out by Mr. Zuck reported what he had learned to W. S. Moffett, prosecutor of Montgomery county, and asked Moffett to prepare an affidavit against Keen, which he Zuck would sign in order to have Keen arrested at once. Although Zuck knew nothing of what Vorles was doing and Vorles was ignorant of Zuck's action, all might have worked out right had not Zuck met Keen once more while this was going on. The prosecutor was engaged in drawing up the affidavit for Keen's arrest.

No sooner did Zuck meet Keen than he charged him with the selling of the bogus questions. Keen drew out a receipt for $400 which Keen had given to one of his victims. Then Keen confessed his guilt and pleaded for mercy. He said he was driven to the crime by poverty and by the necessity of caring for his sick wife. He begged for mercy and said that he would return the money which he had obtained from the Montgomery county teachers. He Zuck would not prosecute him. Keen returned the money and immediately left the city. Then Zuck went back to the prosecutor and refused to sign the affidavit for Keen's arrest. When the State Superintendent sent the prosecutor of Montgomery county to have Keen arrested, he was informed of what had already taken place and in what manner his year of investigation had been lost.

Keen had sold his charts in many parts of the State and it is thought that he may have carried on his trade in bogus examination questions wherever he has been. Part of the time he has represented that he lived in Muncie and at present his wife, who is really sick, is in Crawfordsville. It is a time to be on the watch in Lebanon, in Boone county. He has always said that his place of business was Chicago, and it is believed that his name and that of the firm for which he sold supplies have been correctly given by him. He seems to have relied for safety in his illegal operations, upon the fact that teachers whom he duped, being themselves implicated in an unlawful transaction, would not dare to make complaint.

The greatest precautions are observed by the authorities to prevent any advance knowledge of the examination questions from escaping. No one but the State Superintendent himself knows where the questions are printed. The questions are sent to the county superintendents, tightly sealed, with instructions to open them only in the presence of the teachers who have assembled for examination on the morning of examination day. It is customary for the county superintendent, before opening the questions, to write upon the envelope the name of the county superintendent, the date, and the name of the county superintendent.

OVER THE STATE.

Telegraphic News from Various Towns in Indiana.

Large Flow of Salt Water Struck.
COLUMBUS, Ind., Dec. 2.—A company was organized here six months ago to sink a number of wells into trenton rock with a hope of securing gas. At the depth of 1,000 feet salt of what is called in this state sea water was struck which flowed out of the top of the well. The well was cased and the work of drilling resumed. At the depth of 1,740 feet a flow of water exactly similar to that of French lick was secured, which also flowed from a 3-inch pipe at the rate of about twenty barrels an hour. Now two kinds of water flow out of this well in sufficient quantities for a sanitarium.

Because a thing is small in size, think not 'twill pay to scorn it. Some insects have a larger waist, but are less than the hornet.

Some people may, perhaps, see in a account of their diminutiveness, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. But a trial of them convinces them that they are not so small. Each bottle is guaranteed to do all that is claimed or money refunded. Trial bottles free at Nye & Co. Large bottles 50c. and $1.00.

Not The Right Word.
"No," said Bertha sadly "nain" doesn't express what I suffer at these times—it is simply "anguish." I know I ought to consult a physician, but I dread it so! I can't bring myself to do it. Then, too, "female diseases" always seemed so indelicate to me, I can't bear to have any one know or speak of mine.

"Yes, dear," answered Edith, "but don't you know you can be cured without going to a physician? Send to any druggist for a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and take it, and I warrant you'll feel better in a very few days."

The manufacturers warrant the medicine, too. They guarantee it to do exactly what it claims, viz: to cure leucorrhea, painful irregularities, excessive flowing, prostrations, inflammation or cloration of the uterus, and the enumerable other "female weaknesses." It so strengthens and builds up the uterine system, and nerves, that worn out, run-down wives and mothers feel rejuvenated after taking it, and they are saved the painful embarrassment and expense of a surgical examination and a tedious, tiresome treatment.
