THE FUTURE OF POLITICS.

No one is wise enough to forecast with much certainty what the public judgment will finally be as regards the many questions now pending in the high court of politics. No doubt many prominent politicians are destined to coddle strange bedfellows in the near future. But if changes are made from pure motives and a sincere belief that it will be best for the country, no reasonable man can condemn the changes. It is undoubtedly true that for a long time many Republicans have been uneasy under the high tariff notions of their party, and they have retained their position in the party only because they feared dangerous legislation on other subjects if the Democratic party should control the government. On the other hand, thousands of Democrats, especially in some of the Southern States, have remained with the Democratic party because they feared the Republican party's action on the negro question. What the strength of the two parties—Protectionists and Free Traders—would be if there were no disturbing influences at work, it seems to us could be easily foretold. But the disturbing element of side issues makes prophecy an uncertain business, and destroys the reputation of many political seersayers. And then there are other elements that disturb political campaigns besides side issues. A flood of emigration a year before an election or the absence thereof may change the result of a campaign. One thing, however, may be depended on, and that is, if the Democratic party, now about to take possession of the government, should really inaugurate the policy of free trade, as announced in the Chicago platform, and suffer the country to be flooded with cheap and inferior goods from foreign mills and factories, and thereby cause a stagnation in our home industries and the loss of employment on the part of their operatives, such results would be as disastrous to the Democratic party as to the prosperity of the country. The really great men of our country have nearly all been strong advocates of protection, and believe in the notion that we should have our own mills and factories, and make our own goods and wares. The impress that has been made by the teachings of these men is not going to be easily wiped out. Hamilton's powerful and unanswerable arguments in favor of home industries, and the writings of Madison, Jefferson and Jackson, and no less powerful the speeches of Clay, Webster, and Blaine, will yet be read and pondered by the American people. Our manufacturing industries may prosper under Democratic low tariff policy; and if they should all will be well. The arguments of our greatest statesmen will have been overthrown by experience. But the wisest are not able to see how we can supply our demands for manufacturers from abroad, without ceasing to patronize our own industries, nor how our laboring people can be brought into a direct competition with the cheap labor of the old world, that will not result in lessening the wages of the latter. These things may be possible; but no one can figure out on paper just how they can be done.

And the money question! How many strange bedfellows that is destined to make. The South and the West against the East. Both Democrats and Republicans from the latter section are opposed to the single gold standard, while nearly all the eastern States favor the gold standard. The whole controversy must simmer down at last to the simple question of a mono-metallic, or a bi-metallic currency. This question could perhaps be rationally settled in a few days by adopting a new ratio of value between gold and silver dollars, so as to keep the two kinds of dollars at a parity. But neither side will consent to this. The one side is bent on the single gold standard, and the other on bi-metalism with the ratio of 15 to one, as the law now provides, and neither side seems disposed to yield an inch by way of compromise. The result is in the future; but it is evident from late occurrences that for some time there are to be no well defined party lines. The call of eyes and ears will show an unusual mixture of Democratic and Republican votes in the two lists.

DESPITE the frantic protestations of the pirates of the Clarkson class and the Chinese thunder of Bate, Harris and a few other of the representatives of the paleozoic period of statesmanship, Judge Jackson's confirmation was unanimous. This is well. A Republican President has placed a Democrat on the Supreme Bench. Now let the incoming Democratic President reciprocate by putting a Republican in that tribunal when the next vacancy occurs.

NEW YORK is to have two representatives in the Cabinet, but they are so small as to ability and influence that Cleveland probably counts them only as one.

MY SHIP.

I see it afar as it bounds o'er the deep,
Tossing the snowy foam.
Bringing me treasures of wealth untold:
Oh! when will my ship come home?
I hear the soft music of fluttering sail,
And the song of the merry crew,
And the plash of the waves on the vessel's side,
As it dies o'er the waters blue.

There are treasures rare in that vessel's hold:
There diamonds and rubies shine,
Fabrics of price and ingots of gold,
And all will one day be mine.

And still other things more precious far
My brave ship will bring to me,
Love, joy and fame my life to crown,
Across the shining sea.

Day by day I watch on the shore
For my ship that is long to come;
My heart is weary, my eyes grow dim:
Oh! when will my ship come home?

But I know it will come, one day it will come
Sailing on the whitening foam,
Then drifting out on the ebbing tide,
My ship will carry me home.

A BAD LOT.

An Old Montgomery County Citizen Scores the Anarchists of Bleeding Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kansas, Feb. 20, 1893.—Noticing in the columns of the 18th inst. of the WEEKLY JOURNAL an account of the warfare in Kansas and the cause as given, allow me as a resident of the capital city and one who has participated in the defending of the legal House of Representatives, to make a plain statement of the causes and results of the recent trouble in "bleeding" Kansas. The State canvassing board consisted of Republicans with the exception of the Attorney-general, who was a Populist. When the canvass of the vote was made of the members of the House of Representatives, the members of the board invited the chairman of the State central committee of the Populist and Democratic parties to be present, which invitation was accepted. The only case of a tie vote was between a Populist and a Republican, which was decided in the regular way of drawing by lot, in favor of the Republican members.

The certified list of the 125 members of the House of Representatives sent in by the Secretary of State consisted of one Independent, 3 Democrats, 58 Populists, and 63 Republicans, which gave the Republicans the majority of votes. At the attempted organization of the House the Independent and Democrats voted with the Republicans thus giving the Republicans 67 out of 125 Representatives. The Populists immediately set about to change this State of affairs and the chief clerk of the Populists, Ben C. Rich, proceeded to erase the names of 10 Republican members from the official record of the State canvassing board and insert thereon the names of that many Populists, some of whom had been beaten by as many as 500 votes at the election. With this revision already spoken of the Populists with the aid of the Democrats elected the State printer, the Populists then acting in turn with the Democrats the Democratic U. S. Senator John Martin was elected. The last attempt of Republicans to throw the matter of the legality of the House of Representatives into the Supreme Court was made last Tuesday. The Republican House, called the "legal" House, attempted to arrest Ben Rich of the Populist House, better known as the "rump" House for the mutilation of the record already mentioned. The Republican sergeant-at-arms when he went to arrest Rich, was frustrated by the Populists who spirited Mr. Rich away.

By an agreement between the legal House and the rump House, the former was to occupy the hall of Representatives in the forenoon and the latter in the afternoon of each day. Wednesday morning when the Republicans started to the Representatives hall they were met at the foot of the stairs leading to the hall by 15 Populists armed with Winchester rifles. The Republicans after a struggle overpowered the guards and carried them upstairs with them. Speaker Douglass of the legal House and several other members then battered down the doors leading into the hall and followed by the other Republican members proceeded to clear the hall of the adjutant general and his corps of assistants. By night the Republicans had sworn in 300 assistant sergeants-at-arms to aid in the holding of the House. At 5 o'clock the Populists placed guards at the entrance doors of the State House who would let no one but those holding passes from the Populist Governor pass in. The Governor then directed the sheriff of this county to see that the "lawless invaders" of the hall of Representatives were removed, but before the sheriff could reply the Governor ordered the militia to perform that service, he saying that the sheriff had refused to obey his orders.

The colonel of the militia refused to carry out this order and was immediately relieved of his command. The militia-men disapproving of the Governor's action gave the Republicans to understand that they need not fear an attack made by them. The Governor put a man of his own stripe in command of the troops but they refused to obey. The Republicans barricaded all the accessible approaches to the hall and placed armed men at passage ways.

Matters continued in this way until Friday morning when the Republicans brought the Governor to satisfactory terms which were that the legal House should hold its sessions in the Representative hall. On the part of the Populists the Governor asked that they be allowed to hold their meetings at another place undisturbed and that no further arrests be made by either party. It was also agreed that the deputy sheriff, who sided in with the Republicans, and the militia-men should be withdrawn. The matter of establishing the legality of the House of Representatives of which party now remains to be settled by the Supreme Court. The Governor and Populist leaders openly declare that if the decision of the Supreme Court is against the legality of the rump House that they will not abide with it as the Supreme Court has no jurisdiction over such a case. It may be said in behalf of the Governor that he is simply the instrument of three Populist leaders: Frank Doster who I am sorry to say came from Indiana, C. G. Clemens who was one of the men who entertained a visiting delegation of Anarchists in this city several years ago, and Chairman Breidenbach of Populist central committee. Many of the Populists severely censure the Populist leaders for arousing such a serious state of affairs. We might give the whole sum and substance of the recent "revolution" in these words: The people's party having gotten control of all the State offices and the Senate could see no reason why they did not have the House and proceeded to shape things to that end regardless of law and order. The tabulation of all the votes cast for the representatives over the state were as follows: Total number of votes cast were 312,861, of which the Democrats received 1,477, the Populists 152,991 and the Republicans 158,393 votes. This gives the Republicans 5,402 votes over the Populists, and as the Democrats have been with the Republicans all along with the exception of the electing of the State printer and the U. S. Senator (which was excusable, as they got to put in a U. S. Senator of their own party) with the Democratic votes the Republicans have 159,870 votes to 152,991 of the Populists.

Hoping that this difficulty existing between the two parties may be adjusted with peace, order and justice to all concerned, I will close, remaining one of your constant readers.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, it acts on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. A Fight between Giants

Both desperate, both determined! The King of medicines in contest with the King of Maladies! Dr. Pierce's Great Medical Discovery against "Consumption!" It is not the struggle of a day, but the first blow are the fatal blows! In its early stages, Consumption (which is Lung-sore) will yield to this great Remedy! This has been proven beyond a doubt by innumerable successes! Acting directly upon the blood, its scope includes all scrofulous affections, Liver and Lung diseases. As a blood-purifier and vitalizer, it stands unequalled.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

O! woman, lovely woman, why will you suffer so,
Why bear such pain and anguish, and agony of woe!
Why don't you seek the remedy—the one that's all the go!
"All the go!" because it makes the pains go. As an invigorating, restorative tonic, soothing cordial and bracing nerve, for debilitated and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has no equal. It improves digestion, invigorates the system, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, produces refreshing sleep, dispels melancholy and nervousness, and builds up both flesh and strength of those reduced by low a healthy standard. Don't be put off with some worthless compound, easily, but dishonestly, recommended to be "just as good," that the dealer may make more profit. "Favorite Prescription" is incomparable.

Neighbor, see you not the signal
In that loved one's cheek?
Heed you not that constant hacking,
While the form grows weak?
O, delay not, or this dear one
Soon death's own will be.
You can save her by the use of Pierce's G. M. D.
In other words, get the "Golden Medical Discovery," and rescue this member of your family from consumption, which threatens her. It has saved thousands. According to the doctors it has wrought miracles, for it has cured those whom they pronounced incurable, except by a miracle. It is a truly wonderful remedy. For all bronchial, throat and lung diseases, weak lungs, spitting of blood and kindred ailments, it is a sovereign remedy.
