THE LEGISLATURE AND NEWSPAPERS.
Commenting on the course pursued by a majority of the members of the present legislature relative to the Grubb libel law, the publication of sample ballots, etc., the New Albany Tribune says: "The unjust abuse showered upon the editors by these industrious statesmen has aroused a feeling among the brethren of the press which has already borne fruit. They evince now a determination to be heard and to look out for themselves as other people do. Nearly all classes of people, scores of different kinds of associations, have moved on the legislature at each session, while the journalists and publishers alone have made no attempt to influence legislation. It may be confidently stated that there will be a change hereafter. So much has it come to be the case for the newspaper to be regarded as a pack mule to carry everybody's burdens that the State through its legislators, has fallen into the same notion. In this matter of the publication of the tickets, the law directing it to be done prescribed conditions that made it expensive to any newspaper to publish it, and then, when the work was done, the able statesman indulged in a lot of ribald abuse because the legal pay was asked for doing what the law required to be done. It is quite time the editorial fraternity should stand up and be counted. It is quite time the newspapers of Indiana should ask to be treated as well as those of Illinois and Ohio. They have been contributing to parties and committees, towns and cities and townships and counties and the State, expending a thousand dollars where an hundred is received, and their reward is abuse and contumely and slander. All official business, the acts of township trustees, allowances of county commissioners, proceedings of city councils, school, road and tax laws passed by the legislature ought to be authoritatively published in two newspapers in each county, one of each leading party. And this work ought to be paid for at fair rates. If the acts of township trustees were published in the newspapers, many a township in Indiana would have escaped robberies of many thousands of dollars. There are two sides to this publication question. Publication is more in the interest of the people than of the newspapers. If the newspapers in general looked out more for their own interests, and were a little less public spirited, less devoted to public interests, there would be fewer editors standing on the ragged edge of pauperism. If they will serve themselves as faithfully as they have served their party and the State and every public interest, they will not in their age be left so naked to their enemies."

THE TORRENS SYSTEM.
The Legislature of Illinois has under consideration the proposition of what is known as the Torrens system of land transfer. Two years ago Governor Fifer appointed a committee to examine into the subject of land transfer reform and report to the Legislature. The commission has reported in favor of the Torrens system. The Bar Association of Illinois and the Chicago Real Estate Board are both strongly in favor of the proposed reform. Under the proposed plan the history of each piece of land is to be made and kept in the books of the County Recorder. When a piece of property is sold the transaction is added on the books and the history thus kept complete. Then when the sale is completed the seller and buyer go to the county office and the former executes a certificate to the latter to the effect that his property has been transferred. The certificate is taken up by the county officer and a new one is issued. The certificate costs only a dollar or two and answers the place of an expensive abstract, running back to the time when the land was conveyed from the Government. These abstracts cost from $20 to $200, according to the number of transfers that have been made, and it is estimated that $10,000,000 might be saved the people of Illinois alone each year, much of it to poor people who can ill afford to pay for long abstracts. The system has been in successful operation in South Australia and New South Wales for over thirty years, has been adopted in nine British colonies, including British Columbia, and even in conservative England, and is said to give the best satisfaction. This is a subject for the people of Indiana to think about.

The Indianapolis Sentinel is still chewing the rag over Judge Baker's decision involving the right of a pauper to vote in the precinct where the poor house is located. The Judge holds that because he is an inmate and kept at the expense of the State he has not acquired a domicile and therefore is not entitled to vote. As the paupers generally vote the Democratic ticket the Sentinel howls at the decision. The Sentinel is not anything if it is not narrowly and meanly partisan.

FROM BLEEDING KANSAS.

Mr. Durham Gives a Clear and Concise Resume of the State of Affairs.
To the Editor The Journal.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 28, '93.—The decision of the Supreme Court in favor of the Republican House! Such was the announcement that startled the Populists over the State of Kansas. It was 9 o'clock last Saturday morning that Chief Justice Horton of the Supreme Court of Kansas gave out his decision thereby settling beyond doubt the legality of the Douglass House. The decision was sustained by Chief Justice Horton and Associate Justice Johnson, and the newly elected Populist Associate Justice Allen dissenting. The facts leading to the case being thrown into the court are these: L. C. Gunn, a Populist, was subpoenaed to appear as a witness before the committee of elections to testify in an investigation instituted by that committee. When the sergeant-at-arms of the now legal House arrested Gunn for refusing to appear before this committee Gunn said that the sergeant-at-arms of the so called legal House had no authority to carry out such an order as this was not the legal House. Gunn filed a petition in the Supreme Court asking to be relieved from this arrest on those grounds. The sergeant-at-arms then filed a return stating that he was acting under the orders of a legal House. These proceedings were simply made to throw the matter as to which was the legally organized House of Representatives, the Populist or Republican organization. Justice Horton in stating the opinion of the court said that the question in controversy was not one bearing upon the liberty of a citizen but was whether this House ordering the arrest of this man had the authority to do so. The decision settled beyond doubt that the House presided over by George L. Douglass was the legal House of Representatives. Justice Allen, the dissenting Justice, in a very able address set forth the views that the Supreme Court had no power whatever in such a case as this, that the Governor and Senate were the only ones who could determine such a question. Stormy scenes immediately followed the rendering of the decision in the Populist quarters. The State officials said they would not abide with the decision as also did the Senate. But after due consideration the Populists arrived at a point where they said they would submit to the decision under protest. So to-day at 10 o'clock the Populist members of the legal House of Representatives bearing an American flag at the head of the column marched in a body to Representative hall. There was no applause or jeering but perfect order reigned. The roll was called, the Populists answering to their names for the first time called by the Republican clerk. The Populists say they will have no place on the committees and will pass no bills but the necessary appropriation bills. The Populists all say that they will abide with this as a temporary decision, the final decision to be made by the people of the State of Kansas at the next election. It is generally conceded that John Martin's election as U. S. Senator will stand the way it now is and no one will be elected to succeed him. The Populist Adjutant General, Artz, is now busy organizing and drilling men in the necessary military discipline who will "obey the commands of the Governor of the State and who will protect the State's property." Remarkable on the work done by the deceased rump House, but 19 "important" bills were passed. Many amusing incidents occurred during the time the two Houses were trying to organize. The Populists Chaplain, W. G. Todd, one morning delivered a rousing prayer to the Creator after this fashion: "And we beseech Thee, Almighty, to guide this House in the performance of its duties, and to divide the sheep (with a motion of his hand to the left, occupied by the Populists) from the goats (motioning toward the Republican side.) The Chaplain kept up these one sided beseechings throughout the sessions of the rump House and all his prayers were delivered with an oratorical fervor. Considerable time was occupied in the rump House with the question of removing the State Capital and it was generally agreed to by the Populists that Topeka was not deserving of such an honor as to have the State Capital situated as it was in the midst of the "rebels." Kansas, who has always been before the public in her many startling reforms and strange laws and her exciting scenes, still keeps up her role and ever will, but we will all hope that the coming changes in her history will all be for the better. These facts above quoted are the statements made with as unprejudiced a view as possible, by one of THE JOURNAL's Kansas friends. FRED H. DURHAM.

Love is not free.
Love is not free to take, like sun and air, Nor give away for naught to any one. It is no common right for men to share. Like all things precious, it is sought and won. So if another is more loved than you Say not, "It is unjust," but say, "If he Has earned more love than I it is his due; When I deserve more it will come to me." But if your longing be for love indeed Tell him you love him—love him—love him— Love and be loved, for all you need. And what you wish for will be yours some day. —Susan Coolidge.

From too much love of living,
From hope and fear set free,
We thank with brief thanksgiving
Whatever goodness we see,
That no life lives forever,
That dead men rise up never,
That even the wisest die,
That even the wisest die.

New York's Next Mayor.

Hon. Thomas F. Gilroy, the newly elected mayor of New York, is a native of Ireland and was born in 1850. Brought to New York at the age of seven by his widowed mother, he gained an academic education at an early age, studied law and was admitted to the bar, but entering at once on other business has never practiced. He had learned the printer's trade and worked at it five years before completing his law studies. He has served the city in many capacities, and when nominated for mayor was commissioner of public works.

One or two of the older senators are said to favor the idea of senators wearing silk gowns while in session, like supreme court judges.
A small B is said to be discernible on the Columbian half dollar by the aid of a magnifying glass near the side of the letter B in the word "Columbian."
The police matrons of Chicago are required to wear uniforms of blue serge, with double breasted, close fitting basques, blue serge buttons and skirts underlined and entirely clear of the ground.
A new fad in Europe is for mothers to have waxen effigies made of their babies. Waxworkers make a specialty of this now. The cute little subjects are generally treated while still in their long clothes.
