"HENRY W. GRADY."

Dr. H. A. Tucker was greeted by a large audience last night at the Methodist church to listen to his lecture on the late Henry W. Grady, the brilliant editor of the Atlanta Constitution. The lecture was one of the Doctor's best efforts, and the address was such as to charm and electrify an audience. For an hour he dwelt on the genius, the scholarship, and the Christian manhood of the dead journalist and portrayed in glowing colors his efforts toward reconciling the two sections of our common country. He held him up before his audience as an example for young men. He referred to two speeches delivered by Mr. Grady, one in New York and the other in Boston, both of which abounded in patriotic sentiments and which found a responsive echo in every heart throughout the North. The Doctor omitted to mention the many speeches that he delivered in the South, the most notable of which was one made on the occasion of the visit of Jefferson Davis to Atlanta. On that eventful day the streets on the line of march were strewn with flowers, and the Chief Conspirator walked from his carriage to the stand on a floral pathway. Henry W. Grady was the orator chosen for the occasion. Of course his address was a most brilliant philippic, in the course of which he referred to the day as "the most glorious since the resurrection of Jesus Christ." Such was Henry W. Grady. It may be said of him that he was a brilliant, impulsive genius. As the Doctor said last night, he understood human nature. He knew the secret of swaying his audiences. The art he used to perfection. In New York and Boston his eulogiums were upon Lincoln and Grant. He made a plea for reconciliation and he held in his hand the olive branch from the "New South." This, of course, was electrical. In Atlanta it was an eulogy on Jefferson Davis, a person who refused to be "reconciled," and "a man without a country." He glorified the "Lost Cause" and magnified the principles at stake. This, too, was electrical in that section. Henry W. Grady, meteor-like, shot athwart the country from Georgia to New England, and then disappeared. Brilliant geniuses, like him, generally die young.

The New York Press says it cannot too often be repeated that the one interest which above all others suffers under free trade is that of farming. Yet the result of last fall's election was mainly due to the success which attended Democratic efforts to persuade farmers that the free trade policy would especially benefit them. The world has before its eyes to-day a striking example of how fatal that policy is to agricultural prosperity. It is furnished by the one country where free trade has had the fullest opportunity to work out its natural results. The loss to British agriculture in the past ten years, according to the Quarterly Review, aggregates $4,000,000,000. The value of farming land in this country under protection has increased in the same time more than $3,000,000,000.

The tariff smashers have already encountered snags which will probably spring numerous leaks before they can land their free trade craft. Senator Brice is interested in a number of tin plate factories both in Ohio and Indiana and has expressed his opposition to a repeal of the duty on that product. He recognizes the fact that the abolition of the duty on tin plate means their destruction. The repeal of the sugar bounty will be opposed by the Louisiana Senators and the Nebraska Populist. Democratic Senator. Free iron ore will be opposed by the Tennessee Senators, free coal by the Maryland and Virginia Senators, and free rice by the South Carolina Senators. It makes all the difference whose protection ox is gored.

A Georgia editorial poet expresses the universal sentiment of the country in these lines: "Backward, turn backward, O time, in thy flight; give us July again, just for one night; give us mosquitoes and give us the flies, but turn on some heat before everyone dies! Bring back our straw hats and good linen pants; give us a chance to live, give us a chance!"

Ex-President Harrison will begin his course of lectures on international law at the Stanford University next October. Every first class lawyer in the land will read these lectures with pleasure and profit.

The dome of the Colorado State Capitol is to be ornamented with 7,000 square inches of silver.

STATE NEWS.

Information of General Interest to Indiana.

Found the Body.
LAFAYETTE, Ind., May 8.—Lewis Wurst, a tobaccoist, left home May 2 because of a quarrel with his wife. That afternoon his hat and a memorandum book were found on the river bank north of the city. In the book was a message bidding the world good-by. The river was badly swollen and his body was not found until Saturday, disproving the theory of some that he had left the city instead of drowning himself. He was 65 years old. Domestic unhappiness led to the suicide.

Mrs. Payne Pronounced Guilty.
FOWLER, Ind., May 8.—When the court convened in the Payne case Saturday the defense announced they would not argue the case, a thus shutting Prosecutor Brown off from making his final speech to the jury. The jury retired to their room at 11:30 in the forenoon. It returned a verdict finding the defendant guilty as charged and sending her to the woman's reformatory for four years and assessing a fine of one dollar. An appeal was filed by the defense.

Indiana Travelers' Association.
FORT WAYNE, Ind., May 8.—The Indiana Travelers' Protective association met in this city Saturday in state convention. Two hundred delegates paraded the streets in the morning and later the business of the day was transacted. The officers elected are as follows:
President, C. M. Taylor, Logansport; vice president, Post A. F. Rihel, Fort Wayne; secretary, Post E. Charles S. Downing, Lafayette; vice president, Post F. W. M. Stewart, Logansport; secretary and treasurer, E. F. Keller, Logansport.

Contractors Remain Firm.
MUNCIE, Ind., May 8.—The contractors who have refused to sign the scale of the Carpenters' union Sunday prepared and signed articles of agreement not to sign the scale as presented. The contractors claim they employ two-thirds of the carpenters in the city, and in some instances pay their men at the rate of 35 cents per hour, while some get 22 1/2 cents, or what they are worth. The union demands 30 cents per hour for all.

Death for His Chivalry.
COLUMBUS, Ind., May 8.—Louis Tranks, a cigarmaker of this city, Sunday entered the restaurant of the Reim house in Seymour and attacked Mollie Sayers, a cook, and struck her. The woman's screams brought the proprietor, Henry Fielder, to her rescue. He attempted to eject Tranks, who pulled a revolver and fired. The ball passed through Fielder's heart and he fell dead. Tranks was arrested.

Killed Himself in His Cell.
TERRE HAUTE, Ind., May 8.—Henry Mesenheimer, aged 30 years, was arrested early Sunday morning for disorderly conduct, and at daybreak he was found dead in his cell. It is supposed he took morphine with suicidal intent. His home is in Columbia, Pa., but he has a wife and two children living at Milwaukee.

Thought His Life a Failure.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 8.—Louis Sahm was found dead at his father's house early Saturday morning, having taken poison some time in the night. On a fly leaf of a book in the room was written a note to relatives in which he said that his life had been one of misfortune and misery and he had determined to end it.

High Water at Vincennes.
VINCENNES, Ind., May 8.—The Washash has almost reached the highest notch of the August freshet of 1875, when it stood at feet 7 inches in the channel. The river is rising and all roads leading to the city from north, south and west are covered and can be traveled only in boat.

Schoolmate of Lincoln Dies.
VALPARAISO, Ind., May 8.—Oliver Brown, a schoolmate and intimate friend of President Lincoln, died in this city Saturday. He was born in Kentucky, but when 12 years of age moved to Spencer county, this state, where he has since lived, coming here only a few months ago. He was 81 years of age.

Injured in a Runaway.
VALPARAISO, Ind., May 8.—While Josephus Wolf, a prominent farmer and the wealthiest man in Porter county, was on his way home Saturday a runaway team crashed into his buggy and completely demolished it, throwing him out. He sustained severe internal injuries.

Fatally Burned.
VALPARAISO, Ind., May 8.—Mrs. Harriet L. Fisher, of Wanatah, while carrying a lamp through the house Friday night slipped and fell. The oil saturated her clothing and became ignited. Before help reached her she was fatally burned.

Burglar Gets Eight Year.
TERRE HAUTE, Ind., May 8.—Eddie Evans, who broke into a hardware store here recently, was given eight years in the penitentiary Saturday. He is not yet 21. Evans' accomplice, Charles Hart, made a confession at the trial.

Indiana Postmasters.
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 8.—Fourth-class postmasters were commissioned Saturday at the following points in this state:
Jordan Village, G. L. Mace; Lowell, Louis Kery; Lyons, George Davidson; Reno, W. A. Murphy.

Captured at His Home.
SPENCER, Ind., May 8.—James Hardy, charged with train robbery, who escaped from officers recently by jumping from a train, was recaptured at the home of his father near here Sunday.

Lived 103 Years.
SKYMOOR, Ind., May 8.—Mrs. Biddy McKee, aged 102 years, a native of Virginia and the mother of nineteen children, all living, died Sunday morning of general debility.

Letter From Cyrus W. Field, Jr.
New York, May 8, 1893.
Several times this winter I have suffered from severe colds on my lungs. Each time I have applied Alcock's Porous Plasters and in every instance I have been quickly relieved by applying one across my chest and one on my back. My friends, through my advice, have tried the experiment and also found it most successful. I feel that I can recommend them most highly to any one who may see fit to try them.

At Dead of Night.
I woke at dead of night. The wind was high. My white rose bush was tapping 'gainst the pane. With ghostly finger tips; a sobbing rain. Made doleful rhythm for my thoughts, and I strove vainly how to think and wondered why. My brain, ghoul-like, must dig where long had lain. The pulseless dead that time and change had slain. I fear no living thing. But, oh, to lie. And see the grewsome dark within my room. Take me eyes and turn on me with yearning gloom. To hear reproachful voices from the tomb. Of duties unfulfilled, might well nigh craze. A stronger brain! God save me from the gloom. Of sleepless hours that stretch between two days!
—Carrie Blake Morgan.

Misspent Time.
There is no remedy for time misspent—No healing for the waste of idleness. Whose very languor is a punishment. Heavier than active souls can feel or guess. Hours of idleness and discontent. Not now to be redeemed! Yet sting not less. Because I know this span of life was lent. For lofty duties, not for selfishness. Not to be whiled away in endless dreams. But to improve ourselves and serve mankind. Life and its choicest facilities were given. Man should be ever better than he seems. And shape his acts and discipline his mind. To walk adoring earth with hope of heaven.
—Sir Arthur de Vere.
