PURGING THE PENSION LIST.

The heads of pensioners are beginning to drop and they will soon fall as rapidly as the heads of fourth class postmasters. Cases like that of Andrew J. Huffman, of Hamilton county, will be of frequent occurrence. Huffman severed from the breaking out of the war until July, 1865, and while with the Eighth Indiana Cavalry, under Gen. Stoneman, he had four horses shot under him. Near Columbia, Tenn., one horse was shot from under him, and in the fall Huffman was pinned to the ground and was stepped on by the horse in the rear, one hoof striking him on the left groin and the other in the center of his abdomen. The injury resulted in double hernia, one complete. He now wears a support at all times for the complete hernia and a truss for the incomplete when he has any lifting to do. On the 15th inst. he was notified that his pension had been cut off, and on the 19th inst., at Noblesville, he was again examined, the examining board telling him that the marks left by the corks of the horse's shoes were plainly visible. The board made a report that the injury still existed. Mr. Huffman made no application for pension until 1874, when he was rated at $4 per month, dating back to 1865. And this is the way the Cleveland administration has begun to "purge the pension list."

A religious paper speaking of the Sunday opening of the World's Fair says: Sunday opening of the World's Fair is beyond doubt. The end has been reached. The white city, as it is named, will be as noisy on Sunday as on a week day. This is what might be called zeal without knowledge, to speak of it in no harsher terms. The quietest place in Chicago is on the World's Fair grounds. And when the machinery is silent in the Manufacturers' building, as it will be on Sunday, the quiet and good order that will reign there, even with 100,000 people on the grounds, will be a lesson to the most exacting churchman.

McHugh, of Tippecanoe, must be a bad bird when even the Indianapolis Sentinel hasn't the stomach to swallow him. Here are a couple of squibs from that paper which indicate its state of mind:

Oh Lafayette! Lafayette! Thou who stonest the cranks, and sendest McHugh to the legislature! Thou art a lulu bird with a long tail. We would suggest to the State printing board that the proper title for the volume containing the acts of 1893 would be "The Acts of McHugh."

The police force of Fall River, Mass., consumed a whole year, not to find out who murdered Mr. and Mrs. Borden, but to prove that Lizzie Borden was the murderer. They invented a theory and sought the discovery of facts to fit. They permitted all other clues as to the real murderer to slip through their fingers, and the result is that the tragedy will forever remain a mystery.

EX-PRESIDENT HARRISON says that every man, woman and child in the country should be encouraged to visit the World's Fair, "for there will not be in a generation to come, and perhaps never again, such a scene." Now let the railroads reduce their rates, and the people will do the rest.

If Bishop Merrill, of the Methodist church, thinks he can induce any of his flock from attending the World's Fair by withdrawing the church exhibit and issuing a boycott proclamation, he is greatly mistaken. The Methodists of Crawfordsville are not built on such a narrow foundation.

INDIANAPOLIS Journal: When Joshua Jump gets his commission as internal revenue collector, the senior Senator's attitude in regard to the Sherman silver law will be so much in harmony with that of the President that he will find eloquent words in which to denounce the measure.

In the scramble for the offices the Chicago platform seems to have been lost in the shuffle. You can scarcely get a Democrat to even mention the question of smashing the tariff.

The main lack of the present administration is lack of statesmanship.

ANCIENT EARTHQUAKES.

Convulsions of the Earth Which Have Killed Thousands.

China and Italy the Countries Most Afflicted by the Awful Upheavals—Whole Cities Completely Overturned.

At Pekin, China, three hundred thousand persons were buried in a moment in 1662, and one hundred thousand again in the same city in 1731. The earthquake at Lima on October 28, 1846, extended to Callao, and eighteen thousand persons perished. This convulsion, which spread along the coast two hundred leagues, began about 10:30 o'clock at night. The noise, the shock and the rain took place in the space of only four minutes. The day being one dedicated to St. Simon and St. Jude, the people of Lima attributed to the agency of those saints the fact that only eighteen thousand persons perished out of a population of fifty thousand. Vast quantities of gold, silver and jewels were buried among the seventy-four churches and the fourteen monasteries. The public fountains were buried, the statues of the Spanish kings crushed and the streets barricaded with fallen houses. Callao was utterly destroyed, and even its very shape was changed by huge heaps of sand and gravel. At the moment of the earthquake the sea rose mountain high and rolled on till it buried the city and destroyed everything except the two great gates. Of the five thousand inhabitants only about two hundred escaped by clinging to timbers and pieces of wreck.

The most tremendous earthquake of modern times, according to the Chicago Herald, was that of Lisbon, of November 1, 1755. The people had risen as usual that morning, and looked out upon Belem and the Tagus, the little villas among the olive groves, the orange trees, the bull ring, the hospitals, the convents and the shops. In the seventy-five convents and forty churches of Lisbon the bells had tinkled and the early prayer had been said. The birds were gayly singing their matins in the suburban gardens of Alcantara and Campo Grande. The blue sky gave no omen of evil, and the river lay for miles after mile smiling in the golden sunlight. Suddenly the city fell to pieces like a children's tower of cards. Roofs crashed in, arcades gaped in two, towers fell, steeples snapped, palaces tottered, walls were leveled. The air grew black with rising clouds of dust and was filled with the crash of ceaseless destruction. At the same time, as if by the terrors of the apocalypse had broken at last on Lisbon, the sea, agitated to its depths by the awful convulsion, rose and spread over the shore. One of the quays also opened its dark jaws and swallowed, in an instant, six hundred persons who had taken refuge on it. In a minute or two more fresh calamities fell on the unhappy city, for, the fires being hurled down among the fallen timbers, conflagrations broke out in several parts of the city. To add to the general misery, thieves and murderers, escaping from the shattered prisons, plundered and robbed indiscriminately. One of these villains confessed to setting fire to the Indian house and another to burning the ruins in seven places. The earthquake continued with gentle, intermittent tremors, felt even on the river, for eighteen days. The first great shock convulsed the earth for five thousand miles, overturned many cities and never halted in its tremendous march till it reached Scotland. The year 1755 was very wet and rainy. The summer was unusually cool, and during the forty days preceding the earthquake the weather was clear, but not remarkably so. On the day immediately preceding the earthquake a remarkable gloominess prevailed, but on the morning of the fatal day the fog was dissipated by the sun. There was no wind nor the least agitation of the sea, and the weather was remarkably warm. This great earthquake of Lisbon, which in a few minutes swallowed fifty thousand persons, had a precursor in 1551, when in the same city fifteen hundred houses and thirty thousand persons were destroyed, and several neighboring towns ingulfed with all their populations.

As long as life could be kept in it, and then took a place on the New York Herald, and in the capacity of correspondent for that paper made the tour of the world with General Grant, with whom he was on a very friendly footing. President Arthur was also a great friend of his, and to this friendship he owed his appointment as minister to China, in which post he made a good record.

Nobility.
True worth is being, not seeming.
In doing each day that goes by
Some little good, not in the dreaming
Of great things to do by and by.
For whatever men shall do or say
And spite of the fancies of youth,
There's nothing so kindly as kindness
And nothing so royal as truth.

We get back our mete as we measure—
We cannot do wrong and feel right,
Nor can we give pain and feel pleasure,
For justice avenges each slight.
The air for the wing of the sparrow,
The bush for the robin and wren,
But always the path that is narrow
And straight for the children of men.

'Tis not in the pages of story
The heart of his ills to beguile,
Though he who makes courtship to glory
Gives all that he hath for her smile,
For when from her heights he has won her,
Alas, it is only to prove
That nothing's so sacred as honor
And nothing so loyal as love!

We cannot make bargains for blisses,
Nor catch them like fishes in byes,
And sometimes the thing our life misses
Helps more than the thing which it tries.
For good lieth not in pursuing,
Nor gaining of great nor of small,
But just in the doing, and doing
As we would be done by, is all.

Through envy, through malice, through hating—
Against the world, early and late,
No jot of our courage is gained,
Our part is to work and to wait.
And slight is the sting of his trouble
Whose winnings are less than his worth,
For he who is honest is noble,
Whatever his fortunes or birth.
—Alice Carey.

A Veteran Editor.
John Russell Young, who recently resigned the position of fifth auditor of the Reading railroad, was managing editor of the New York Tribune under Horace Greeley, succeeding Charles A. Dana and preceding Whitelaw Reid in that position. He next edited The Standard, as long as life could be kept in it, and then took a place on the New York Herald, and in the capacity of correspondent for that paper made the tour of the world with General Grant, with whom he was on a very friendly footing. President Arthur was also a great friend of his, and to this friendship he owed his appointment as minister to China, in which post he made a good record.

EYE, ear and throat diseases only, Dr. Greene, Joel Block. Fitting of glasses a specialty.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared, and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers.—Wm. H. Hamilton, Leading Bass of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.

Health and Happiness.
Syrup of Figs is the queen of all cathartics—hypo-crisis or pills. One anticipates its taking with pleasure. No other remedy sells so well or gives such satisfaction. It acts gently on the inactive bowels, relieves the kidneys, cures constipation, colds, fevers, nervous aches, etc., and restores the beauty of health. Badly treated children, and feeble invalids, druggists recommend it. THE FIG SYRUP CO., of Chicago, make it. Try a bottle. Only one cent a dose. Nye & Bond, agents—d-w 6-7.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Eyes and Ears
have we that we may see and hear; brains that we may reason and understand; so there's little excuse for much of the suffering that is to be eradicated. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is fast becoming the one recognized remedy for all diseases resulting from thin, impure and impoverished blood. Indigestion and dyspepsia, scrofulous affections, liver and kidney diseases, aches and swellings, catarrh and consumption are blood affections. With purified, enriched and vitalized blood, they die as darkness before the light! Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the only guaranteed blood-purifier and fever incisor. Sold on trial! Money promptly returned, if it does not benefit or cure.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.
It Opens the Eyes
"My daughter is losing her sight," said an anxious mother, "and just as the eye of marriage, too! What shall I do?" "Get her get married, by all means," responded the doctor, "marriage is a regular eye-opener." A man's eyes open pretty widely when he finds his wife's charms disappearing. Health is the best friend of beauty, and the innumerable ills to which women are peculiarly subject, its worst enemies. Experience proves that women who possess the best health, use Dr. Pierce's Food and Blood Purifier. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case. Out of money refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.
