The Human Electrical Forces.

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is an especially attractive department of science, as it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body, and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with the vitality necessary to perform their functions. The pneumogastric nerve, as shown here, may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. As will be seen by the cut the long line descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the heart is the pneumogastric, while the numerous little branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with nerve force. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by irritability or exhaustion, the nerve force which it supplies is lessened, and the organs receiving the diminished supply are consequently weakened.

Physicians generally fail to recognize the importance of this fact, but treat the organism instead of the cause of the trouble. The noted specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., L. B. H., has given the greater part of his life to the study of this subject, and the principal discoveries concerning the electrical forces of the human body are due to his efforts. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve, the unrivaled brain and nerve food, is prepared on the principle that all nervous and many other difficulties originate from disorders of the nerve centers. His wonderful success in curing these disorders is testified to by thousands in every part of the land.

Restorative Nerve cures sleeplessness, nervous prostration, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs. It is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or sent direct by Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. Sold by all druggists.

Health in Danger From Overstudy—
Great Health From Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Sarsaparilla has benefited people of all nationalities. Testimonial letters are coming to us daily by the hundreds. One of the recent contributions comes from Mr. Shiro Kuroda of Japan, a student at the Massachusetts Agricultural College at Amherst. His letter follows: "Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst, Mass."

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: 'Gentlemen,—I came to America in 1891 and entered college in the following fall. Had I the thorough attainment of my education, my object is to return to my native country. But I must not discuss my personal affairs. I wish to Recommend to the Public the wonderful healing power of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself.

"I have been suffering greatly from dyspepsia. I always felt tired and had no appetite whatever, often felt dizzy and even fainted away. My trouble was, no doubt, due to my weak constitution and strict adherence to study. Had I continued in the same condition it would have resulted in a snare to my health, or to my college course at least. Last spring I took three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is

A Wonderful Medicine. It gave me a good appetite and strength, such as I had never experienced before. Two weeks after I began to take the first bottle I actually gained ten pounds of flesh, and now I am greatly indebted to Hood's Sarsaparilla for that.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures clearness of my head which enables me to study for hours without dizziness of faintness. It is my desire to recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla most highly, as an excellent student's helper." SHIRO KURODA, M. A. C., Amherst, Mass.

WAYNETOWN WRIGGLES

Under Intense Excitement While a Confused Medley of Preacher and Butcher Paw For.

If you are fond of roast beef, of juicy steaks ranging in excellence from sole leather to chuck, of veal cutlets, pork ribs, or dog sausage you should pack up your plunder and move to Waynetown. George Runyan, the Waynetown butcher, is by instinct, a cold blooded monopolist. He does not believe in that inspired saying which informs us that competition is the life of trade. He hates the word rival and has his cleaver out for every one that enters the place. Let any man come into Waynetown and buy a couple of broken down ewes and a lame cow to oppose George in business and George at once declares war. He blasts a few chunks of meat off his beef and puts the price down to from 5 to 2½ cents a pound until Mr. Rival is forced to pawn his scales and broadsword to buy bread. When Mr. Rival is safely disposed of George pops the price up again until the inhabitants of Waynetown can taste greenbacks every time they chew the juice out of a steak preparatory to half-soling their boots with it. George has a rival now who is worth of his steel. Elder VanCleave, a minister of the Baptist persuasion, came to Waynetown last winter, and began to dispense gospel and fresh meat impartially to all who thirsted for the water of life or hungered for the manna of unrighteousness. On Sunday Elder VanCleave put on his black Prince Albert coat and preached the unsearchable riches, etc., and on Monday he pulled on his overalls and knocked some lugged old cow in the head with a stuffed club.

The beef dispensed by Brother VanCleave was pronounced par excellence alike at the table d'hôte of the American House and the less pretentious boarding house of the widow Snaggle. The tendons and muscles which the boarders picked from their teeth were far less cartilaginous and much smaller in diameter than those found in the famed Runyan meet. It was evident that there was something in combining gospel with butchering, or else that the Elder had a knack of selecting more mellow cows than his celebrated competitor, Mr. Runyan. Mr. Runyan began to feel the pressure and although he tried the experiment of feeding one of his steers with Methodist Sunday school papers and grass from the Baptist church yard it produced no appreciable tenderness in the character of his steaks and the blasting powder market was quiet but firm.

Finally, however, his opportunity came. A small boy told him that Mr. VanCleave had killed a calf that had the mumps. Mr. Runyan, accordingly, braced up to the costly chamber of State, where the Waynetown board of health sits, arrayed in purple and fine linen, fanned and perfumed by Ethiopian eunuchs. He declared that Elder VanCleave was selling lumpy-jawed beef to the inmates of Waynetown and ought to be stopped. The board of health proceeded to investigate and called at the gospel beef dispensary in a body. It was clearly proved beyond the peradventure of a doubt that the Elder was wholly guiltless. The calf was so fat that the small boy thought it had the mumps and on this ridiculous shred of circumstantial evidence Mr. Runyan has presumed to enter the generous charge of lumpy-jaw. Mr. VanCleave is in arms and has made a cut in price of half a cent a pound. He was in the city yesterday and it is rumored that he will sue Mr. Runyan for slander.

A Bad Root.

Law abiding citizens of the west end, not more than one square from College Hill, have presented a remonstrance to the authorities condemning certain real estate men for renting property in respectable localities, to be used for questionable purposes. The place in question has become one of the notorious resorts of Crawfordville, and being located, as it is, in a portion of the city where refinement has always prevailed, makes it the more disgraceful. Every citizen within a radius of two squares of this place has expressed himself in no uncertain language concerning the location in their midst of a den of iniquity, where brazen faced individuals, both men and women, lost to all sense of shame, make their rendezvous. Children whose lives have always been carefully surrounded with an atmosphere of Christian sentiment, and whose every thought has been religiously guarded by God-fearing mothers, have become acquainted with the nature of this place, and although they point toward it with a deriding finger, their minds have none the less become corrupted with the knowledge that such a place is permitted to exist. What Christian mother would wish to rear her family amid such surroundings? There is no other city in Indiana that would allow such an infamous resort to locate in the midst of refined, Christian homes. The police authorities have frequently been notified by the irate citizens of that part of the city, but they have persistently refused to do anything. If a mother's pleadings and a father's demands will not move those in authority, some more powerful means will have to be resorted to by those who have no desire to raise their children in the fight of such places.

M'LAIN-ALSTON.

A Brilliant Wedding Happily Consummated at the Christian Church Last Evening.

Last evening at the Christian church Mr. Harry C. McLain, of Wellsville, Kansas, was happily united in marriage to Miss Clara Alston, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Alston. The hour for the ceremony was 7:30 o'clock and the church was comfortably filled with invited guests when the All High orchestra, which furnished music for the occasion, began playing the wedding march to which the bridal party entered. The groom and the five ushers entered by the east door and the bride and her attendants by the west. The ushers, Messrs. Frank Hurley, Ingram Hill, Fritz Sagerholm, Cliff Voris and Ed Dennis, in single file, preceded the groom to the altar and ranged themselves opposite the bride's attendants. The bride and her attendants proceeded to the altar in the following order: Miss Sadie Hart, of Greentown, maid of honor, white silk, trimmed with ribbons and lace.

Miss Jessie Gilkey, bridesmaid, white silk trimmed in flowers.

Miss Daisy Guthrie, bridesmaid, white silk empire gown, crystal trimmings.

Miss Maude Hultett, bridesmaid, blue silk, lace trimmings.

Miss Della Dennis, bridesmaid, pink silk, pearl trimmings. All the attendants wore their hair dressed high and with lilies of the valley.

Little Miss Bessie Gilliland, flower girl, white silk.

The bride, looking beautiful in a gown of white silk with satin stripes, lace trimmings and en train. The double bridal veil was worn, being removed by the maid of honor at the conclusion of the ceremony. She carried the customary bride's roses and being met at the altar by the groom, they took their places before the officiating clergyman, Rev. W. J. Howe.

The ceremony was very brief and simple, there being no responses even, the clergyman quietly pronouncing them man and wife after consent signified by the clasp of hands alone. Immediately upon the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party was driven to the home of the bride's parents on east Pike street where a reception was tendered their young friends between the hours of 9 and 11.

The bride and groom were assisted in reception by the bride's attendants and the affair proved to be a most pleasurable one for all present. The decorations of the residence were unusually elaborate and artistic, the house presenting the appearance almost of a fairy bower with its wealth of blossoms and bright leaves. In the dining room an elegant collation was served by a caterer, and the conduct of the entire reception was such that nothing was left undone to contribute to the comfort and pleasure of the guests. The wedding presents displayed made a most beautiful exhibit, there being many pieces of exquisite and costly workmanship. The wedding is a happy consummation of a college courtship. Mr. McLain meeting the bride while a student at Wabash college several years ago. He is a most excellent young man and in his wife he has found a most worthy young lady.

This evening Mr. and Mrs. Alston will entertain in honor of Mr. and McLain and will be assisted in their hospitality by the bride's attendants of last evening.

On Monday evening the bride's attendants will also entertain at the home of Miss Della Dennis in honor of Mr. and Mrs. McLain, who leave on Tuesday for their future home in Wellsville, Kansas, where the groom is engaged in stock raising and farming.

Strong Recommendations. Herman McCluer, candidate for Surveyor before the Republican convention has received the following recommendations which we take pleasure in publishing:

St. Anthony, Minn., April 21, '94. To whom it may Concern: In the winter of 1880 I was employed on surveys between Crawfordville and the Wabash River by the Lake Erie R. R. Co. In my party was a young man by the name of Herman C. McCluer, a long, lean, strapping fellow who was always ready to do anything asked of him and showed great aptness in "catching on" to the business of R. R. surveys, on account of which I soon promoted him to the position of rodman which he filled with great credit to himself. Since that time I have employed him on many railroad surveys and always with the most accurate and faithful man, especially as a leveler and calculator of earth work. I believe he is well qualified to take any position in construction of railroad or other public works, and gladly recommend him. I believe he would fill the office of County Surveyor with credit to himself and the county in which he lives.

Geo. Marsh, Chief Eng. Minnesota Belt Line R. R. To the Editor The Journal.

NELIGH, Neb., April 27, 1894.—I presume you think I am too far away from you to take any interest in your county election, and such is a fact, with the exception that I like to know that good responsible men have been honored, and will assist them when in my power to do so, and so the object of this letter is to say a good word for one whom I know to be thoroughly competent in every respect—Herman C. McCluer. I have known him intimately as a civil engineer for a period of about eight years, and in that time have not known him to forget his manual or make a failure or mistake in his profession. This being the case in civil engineering he cannot fail as a surveyor. So consequently knowing him as I do I have no hesitation in saying that I can unqualifiedly recommend him to the voters of Montgomery county as a man who will fill the office of county surveyor with credit to himself and the approval and satisfaction of all.

EAST END NEWS.

Henry Clark, the Plum street grocer, is spending the day in Covington.

We told you the third ward could be relied upon. She came up all O. K.

Eleven families in the east end changed residences Tuesday after voting.

One of the best "generals" in the land is in the city—general house cleaner.

Mrs. Ella Bridges, of Illinois, is the guest of her niece, Mrs. Ab Gerard, on east Jefferson street.

John Rubush left yesterday for Tennessee to join C. N. Holden, who is down there in the lumber business.

The McMullens are now occupying their home on east Jefferson street which they purchased of Mr. Abraham.

Capt. Victory, of Covington, is in the city making arrangements to take treatment of Dr. Greene for head and ear trouble.

The heading factory will get through with all the stock on the yard this week. It will then close down for an indefinite time.

It is surprising to see the amount of improvement that is going on in the way of repairs and additions in this part of the city.

There are a number of young voters in the third ward who are supposed to be Democrats, but they fooled their friends by voting a straight Republican ticket.

The Uplike Meetings.

Great interest continues to attach itself to the Uplike meetings at the Christian church. There are numerous conversions and many confessions. The following is the programme for the balance of the week of the subjects of Mr. Uplike and solos of Mr. Hawes:

This evening, "Christ's Death." Solo, "That Old, Old Story is True."

May 4.—Afternoon, "The Need of Revivals." Solo, "Shall You? Shall I?" Evening, "Christ's Resurrection." Solo, "I Know That My Redeemer Lives."

May 5.—Evening, "Christ's Ascension and Coronation." Solo, "I Shall Scream With Him To-Night."

May 6.—Morning, "The Light of the World." Solo, "Always Sunrise Somewhere." Evening, "How to Read the Bible so as to Understand It." Solo, "This Way, Papa."

NOTICE OF Proposed Alley Sewer Improv't

Office of City Clerk, Crawfordville, Ind. Notice is hereby given, that the Common Council of the City of Crawfordville, pursuant to the provisions of the General Assembly, approved March 8, 1889, providing for the mode and manner of making street improvements, and for the payment of the costs thereof, and for the improvement of the sewer on the west between Main and Market streets from the sewer on Washington street to Water street in said city, by constructing in and along said alley and across Green street a twelve inch sewer to be constructed of twelve inch sewer pipe, together with all necessary openings, inlets, connections and manholes, to be constructed with a view of receiving sewerage from lateral drains as well as to furnish sewerage and drainage for the use of abutting property owners and to include surface and roof drainage. The cost to be assessed as follows: So much of said cost as shall be equivalent to the construction of an adequate local sewer, not adapted to receive sewerage from collateral drains or sewers, shall be paid for by abutting property holders in the same manner and to the same extent as local sewers are paid for by them. The excess of cost of said sewer over and above the equivalent of the cost of a local sewer, shall be assessed against each piece of property beneficially effected in proportion to the benefit received, including abutting property holders as well as holders not situated on the line of said sewer, but beneficially effected by said sewer either directly or indirectly.

All work to be done in accordance with profile and specifications on file in the office of the City Engineer. Said assessments, if deferred, to be paid in twenty annual installments. A bond, or bonds, shall be issued in satisfaction of the collection of said assessments before said bond or bonds are issued. All as provided for in all of the General Assembly of Indiana, approved March 8, 1889, and amendments thereto and the acts approved March 4, 1890.

Notice is further hereby given, to the owners of all property along the line of said proposed improvement to appear at the office of the Mayor of said city on the fourteenth day of May, 1894, at 7:30 o'clock p. m., and there make their objections, if any they have, to the necessity for said proposed improvement.

By order of the COMMON COUNCIL, ATTEST: C. M. SCOTT, City Clerk. April 18, 1894.—3w
