QUE ALLEN TO THE FRONT.
A Crawfordville Horse to That is Fast Becoming Famous in Trotting Circles.

Que Allen, Dr. Gott's now famous horse, at present holds the record of this county for trotters of any age or class, he having won four races in ten days, the four in twelve straight heats, without a skip or break. His last race was at Frankfort yesterday, when he broke their track record for trotters of 2:23 1/4, setting the mark at 2:20 flat. This performance is considered by good judges to equal 2:16 over the Terre Haute or Indianapolis mile track.

Que Allen is now four years old but not until within the last three months has he been in working trim. The animal is a colt of Champion Medium out of Howard O'Neal's standard bred mare. He was bought by Dr. Gott when a more colt and has had him since. The colt was broken by John Blackford but never amounted to much until taken in charge by Hinton Gott, of New Ross, who has developed him wonderfully. The horse's record is phenomenal and he raises his value every time he steps out on the track.

Hicks Hits the Fair.
September promises to open cooler and fair in all sections, except possibly in the extreme east. It must be remembered that storm areas develop in the west, occupying 3 to 5 days in passing to the east. By the 3d storm conditions will appear in western parts, and by the 6th will have moved to the east. Rain will fall in most parts during this period, with cool following. The 9th and 10th are storm days liable to be intensified and prolonged by Mercury and the annual autumnal crisis centering about the 11th. The 13th to 17th will also feel the autumnal equinox, added to the force of Mercury's equinox from the 15th, and a regular storm period at full moon. Gales and tornadoes probable. Quite cool following. Frost northward. The 20th and 21st are at the equinox. Watch the result on and touching these dates. Storm period 25th to 29th embraces new moon on 25th. Hard storms thereabout. Month ends quite cool, with frosts northward.

ENTERTAINED.

Mrs. Robert Larsh Receives a Large Party of Lady Friends.

Last evening at her home on south Washington street Mrs. Robert Larsh gave a reception to about one hundred and fifty of her lady friends. The affair was, indeed, a most enjoyable one and coming as it did in a season devoid of social entertainments was all the more appreciated by the guests. The residence was tastefully adorned and in the dining room especially the floral decorations appeared to advantage. A delicious collation was served in courses and the comfort of the guests amply provided for. There were three hours of entertainment, five, six and seven, so that there was never a crowd in the rooms. The affair was an unqualified success and proved most enjoyable to the entertained.

THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.
Report of the Committee on Resolutions—Everybody Thanked.

The committee on resolutions submitted the following report yesterday at the close of the teachers' institute: Your committee begs leave to offer the following as an expression of the feeling of the members of the institute:

1. Resolved, That we take this opportunity to express our appreciation of the efforts made by the instructors who have been present with us and of the message each has had, for us, to extend thanks to each: To Prof. Stalker for his clear and connected talks on physical phenomena, which have been an intellectual pleasure and an inspiration to every true teacher toward a greater intellectual activity along every line; to Prof. Org, whom we have known before, and whom it is good to know, for his earnestness, which certainly cannot fail to cause every true disciple to feel the spirit growing more alive within him as he listens to the words of this devoted teacher; to Prof. McBeth for his bringing clearly to our minds the necessity of unity of purpose in teaching a thought that needs to be emphasized constantly; to Miss Wells, whose clear cut, practical work in the primary grades has called forth expressions of hearty appreciation from teachers on every hand, and the value of which to this body cannot be expressed in words.
2. That the thanks of the institute be extended to the committee of entertainment for the excellent programme furnished for the evening.
3. That we, as a body of teachers, extend our sincerest thanks to each of the ladies and gentlemen who took part in the artistic literary and musical programme furnished without cost, for our entertainment, and that we will remember them in substantial ways whenever possible.
4. That we thoroughly appreciate the earnestness of our superintendent and extend to him our sincere thanks for making the institute so instructive and successful.
5. That it is the sense of the teachers of Montgomery county that the Legislature at its next session should increase the amount furnished by each county for institute purposes to $1000.
6. That we recognize the value of the Children's Reading Circle, and that we will use our best efforts to introduce and extend this valuable aid to our pupils in their work.

Count O'Neil Acquitted.
There was a decidedly entertaining little affair in the Mayor's office last evening. Goose Nibble had gathered there her beauty and her chivalry and those brand new electric lights shone o'er fair women and Jimmie Donovan. Also a few others. The case at issue was one against the venerable "Count" O'Neil who was up on the swell charge of having choked Mrs. Fluer O'Neil as she "flew the duck" in a large glass pitcher. The Count had been battered over the head with the aforesaid receptacle of the cool foaming beverage, and his head presented the appearance of that of the young man who poked his head in a clover hull to see what made the noise. The Count indignantly denied the charge and brought up a cloud of witnesses to prove that he didn't do a thing to her. When this select coterie stood up to be sworn the prosecuting witness held up both hands and broke the solemnity of the occasion by shouting:
"Ah now, git away wid ye! The ould Count has presinted them, ivery mon, wid a quart of beer to lie for him."

This unseemly lavishing of the precious fluid appeared to distress the fair lady exceedingly, for every time one of the Count's witnesses took the stand she rocked violently to and fro moaning most dismally.
"Bad cess to it all, there goes another quart, another quart of illegant fresh beer."

At the conclusion of the testimony the excellent Count was declared as innocent as a Shropshire lamb and departed with his retainers presumably to bl. w. loam.

BURGLAR WITH A BUTCHER KNIFE.

He Ransacks the Residence of Dr. Keegan and Flies Loaded With Plunder.

Last evening Dr. Keegan, wife and Miss Lulu locked their residence and went a few blocks distance to spend a couple of hours with Louis Otto and wife. They returned about 9 o'clock and entered by the front door. Mrs. Keegan and Miss Lulu went in first, the doctor following them dragging a large chair which had been left on the porch. As Mrs. Keegan crossed the room she found that the contents of the drawers were scattered promiscuously over the room. She cried out that some one had been in the house and the doctor leaving the chair he was dragging hurried into the next room followed by his wife and daughter and then struck a light. In that room similar confusion was evidenced and they stepped back into the parlor. There a surprise awaited them. On the seat of the big chair the doctor had just brought in was lying a huge butcher knife, which belonged in the dining room. It was evident that the thief had been surprised and had stepped behind the door as the family entered, taking advantage of them going into the adjoining room to lay down the knife and decamp unnoticed. In every room in the house, except Miss Lulu's room, things were turned topsy turvy. The thief had evidently not come to that yet and there is where he missed. On her bureau lay a $250 watch, some jewelry and money. A number of articles were immediately missed and the police were notified. A silver pitcher was found in Dr. Keegan's back yard by the flying rascal and this morning, in a pillow slip by Hence Coleman's barn were found all the bulky silverware which had been stolen. A number of silver forks and spoons and nine pieces of jewelry were carried off. One piece was especially valued by Mrs. Keegan because of its associations. It was an old-fashioned gold ring containing a lock of her mother's hair, and was highly treasured by her. The burglar had effected an entrance by forcing the dining room window.

Burglars also attempted to enter the residence of M. B. Richmond, west of the college, last night but were repelled away before accomplishing anything.

Wonderful Feast of Mr. Smith.
Says the Indianapolis News: "Samuel Preserved Smith, awaiting trial at Crawfordville for larceny, escaped from jail through a sewer connection." The Journal had not heard of Mr. Smith's remarkable deliverance or even of the gentleman himself until the appearance of the above. He should certainly be captured, however, and forced to disclose that sewer connection. If Crawfordville has a system of sewerage she ought to know it. Isn't it possible, however, that the News has confused Smith with Jones, the cow thief, who escaped through a connection, but not a sewer connection.

Vory's Record.
The Washington correspondent of the Indianapolis News writes up the records of the Indiana Congressmen giving very the following notice: Congressman Brookshire was appointed a member of the appropriations committee. Speaker Crisp recognized the young blood of Hoosier Democracy by removing the oldest member of the committee, Mr. Holman, and appointing Mr. Brookshire, who is the youngest man in the Indiana delegation, and the youngest ever selected for a place on the appropriations committee.

MISTAKES ON THE WIRE.

Errors Made by Telegraph Operators in Transmitting Dispatches.
The funny mistakes of telegraphers are as numerous as those charged up to proof-readers. Two on the former have just come in. A gentleman who has been an extensive traveler, and is usually not supposed to overlook any details, saw his wife off on a train for the slope the other day. It was supposed that everything had been arranged. The good-by and its accompaniment had been passed and the gentleman returned to his home. That night his wife suddenly remembered that she had left a valuable adjunct to her wardrobe at home and wrote a message to her husband, which he received the following morning at his office. It read: "Forgot. Think conductor has telegraphed for it."

He read it again, and it read as at first. "Forgot what?" he murmured, and he read it again and kept on reading it until the words ran together and his temples throbbled. He sent a message to his house asking the servants if Mrs. had left anything. They made no discoveries of course. Then he sent a message to the operator at the office from which his wife's message was sent asking him to repeat it. He waited for an answer. He lost his luncheon and his dinner waiting. He remained in his office until late at night, and as he was about to leave in despair he received an answer to his. It read: "Forgot trunk. Conductor has telegraphed for it."

Sure enough. The word "trunk" had been made to read "think." But wasn't it strange that a man who had traveled all over the world should come to his own home to forget to check his wife's trunk? He laughed to himself, after it was all over. But it cost him lots of worry.
Equally funny is this one:
A lady in this city had received a letter from her old home in Connecticut which caused her a good deal of trouble. Her answer to it was by wire. When it was delivered in the Connecticut home it read:
"How's the weather?"
What an exasperating query at such a time! The letter referred to the lady's mother's health. "The dispatch should have read: 'How's mother?'"
A little different is this one: A gentleman of this city sent his wife a message by Washington March 4, 1893, prepaid, and it has not been delivered up to the present writing. The correspondence between the Chicago office and the Washington and New York offices about the transaction has accumulated until the batch looks like the papers in a long continued lawsuit.—Chicago Herald.

Joseph Is All Right

Since he took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the Greatest Medicine on Earth. My boy had Catarrh in the Head so badly he lost his hearing, and medical treatment failed to help him. Then I was advised to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before he had taken all of one bottle, he began to break out with boils all over his back and neck. They were not very large, but they discharged freely. Slowly his hearing began to come back and by the time the third bottle had been taken, the boils had all disappeared and his skin was as clear as a baby's where before it was dull and yellow and dark under the eyes. He can now hear well and is taking his fifth bottle. Mrs. M. J. ZUBER, Red Oak, Iowa.

Hood's Pills cure Constipation by restoring normal action of the alimentary canal.
Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surface. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.
Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

A Good Appetite.
Always accompanies good health, and an absence of appetite is an indication of something wrong. The universal testimony given by those who have used Hood's Sarsaparilla as to its merits in restoring the appetite, and as a purifier of the blood, constitutes the strongest recommendation that can be urged for any medicine.

Of Interest to Mothers.
The success of Mrs. Annie M. Beam of McKeesport, Penn., in the treatment of diarrhoea in her children, will undoubtedly be of interest to many mothers. She says: "I spent several weeks in Johnstown, Pa., after the great flood, on account of my husband being employed there. We had several children with us, two of whom took diarrhoea very bad. I got some of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy from Rev. Mr. Chapman. It cured both of them. I knew of several other cases where it was equally successful. I think it cannot be excelled and cheerfully recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Nye & Booe, 111 N. Washington st., opposite court house.

Well Known in Texas.
Mr. J. C. Boswell, one of the best known and most respected citizens of Brownwood, Texas, suffered with diarrhoea for a long time and tried many different remedies without benefit, until Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was used; that relieved him at once. For sale by Nye & Booe, 111 N. Washington st., opposite court house.
