Give one day to your country, and make the eighth of September, 1855, a day long to be remembered by the National men of old Montgomery.

Don't forget the Mass Convention at Indianapolis on the 29th. Let us all go

TO THE NATIONAL DEMOCRACY OF MONTGOMERY COUNTY.

Next Wednesday, the 29th, the democracy of the sovereign state of Indiana, will assemble at Indianapolis, to consult upon the condition of political matters, and to hold free converse with one another as to the welfare of their common country. The following eminent speakers will be in attendance and address the convention: Gov. Powell, of Kentucky, Gov. Johnson, of Tennessee, Hon. J. C. Breckenridge, of Kentucky, Col. William Preston, of Kentucky, Hon. Samuel Medary, of Ohio, together with many other distinguished orators of other States, besides all the eminent speakers of our own State. The fare on all the railroads will be reduced to half price, making the trip from here to the capitol and back $3.00. "The Latch Strings" of the citizens of the capitol will be left out to afford ample accommodations to all.

Shall Montgomery county be represented by a large delegation? What say you democrats? Union township will send fifty, that number having already booked themselves for the trip. If the other townships will bestir themselves we shall stand a fair chance of carrying off one of the "Prize Banners." Let every Democrat who can possibly go, be on hand at the depot on Tuesday, at 1 o'clock, P. M. Bring your banners and music and let us show our brethren that the democracy of old Montgomery are wide awake and preparing for the grand battle in 1856.

BEWARE OF K. N. LIES AND FORGED CERTIFICATES.—We understand that the Secret Order have instructed Dr. Fry to publish a lot of certificates, taken from the Louisville Journal, (Prentice's paper) to prove that the Know Nothings were entirely blameless for the horrible atrocities committed in that city. Be not deceived by these lies—every certificate there given is from Know Nothings, the very demons that assisted in the butchery, while those purporting to come from German and Irish citizens are base forgeries. The dark lantern Order finds itself rapidly sinking under its load of guilt. Murder, treason and arson, is written upon the brow of its leaders. This last attempt to wash the blood of innocent women and children from their hands, will prove as fruitless as the efforts of lady Macbeth to efface the guilt of her own crime. The "damned spots will never out." Prentice, the author of these lying certificates, is the same wretch that justified and defended the murder of poor Butler. It was through him that the jury were corrupted and the murderer (Mat Ward) allowed to go free. These are facts known to every intelligent reader.

The mother of the infant whose brains were blown out by a Know Nothing while fleeing from the flames of her burning house has been sent to the Lunatic Asylum, a raving maniac. The inhuman devil who committed the heinous act is said to be laying around Louisville, offering as an excuse for the deed, "that the d—n Irish bitch refused to tell him where her husband was secreted." Possibly Fry may yet publish this fellows certificate. It might aid in electing McNeil.

The Cincinnati Times, which circulates so extensively among the Thugs in this vicinity, denounces in unmeasured terms the supporters of Chase, and accuses them of having broken their oaths. If we are not much mistaken there will be such a breaking of illegal oaths here in October as will astonish and amaze the leaders of the dark lantern Order. Look out for the crash.

The dark lantern Order is just now badly in want of dupes to vote for McNeil. Only ninety cents to take the oath, with the privilege of seeing Sambo. Who'll go in lemons and come out squeezed?

The Abolition Know Nothings in this vicinity finding that the fates are against them and that their candidates are doomed to defeat in October, have betaken themselves to gassing. It is amusing to hear the poor nigger-loving, oath-bound devils talk about their strength. Some six weeks ago they boasted that they had twenty-five hundred members, now they think they can count on sixteen hundred. McNeil, their candidate for Clerk, will undoubtedly use every effort in his power to inveigle young men into the Order. He is the same individual that initiated Abraham Herrington, for which feat he did Abraham out of 90 cents of his hard earnings. It was an improvement on the drop game, Mr. H. being invited to take a game of cards. We are under the impression that this Jeremiah Diddler will be badly spotted on the second Tuesday of October. We hear strange whisperings abroad.

The Union Township Democratic Club will hold their regular meeting to-night, (Saturday,) at the Court House, commencing at 7 o'clock. Let there be a general turn-out.

J. D. Masterson wishes to purchase 20,000 bushels of wheat for which he will pay the highest cash price.

THE CINCINNATI COMMERCIAL ON KNOW NOTHINGISM.

The Commercial fights hard for Chase, and equally hard against the Know Nothings. It aims to become The New York Tribune of the West, but we are charitable enough to believe that it will do less harm and more good than its prototype. It cannot elect Chase, but it can and does deal some heavy blows against the midnight order.

The political contests now going on are certainly of a complex character; but this want of harmony will ensure to the benefit of the Democracy, "one and indivisible." Unity is strength, not that miscalled unity which springs from the forced and temporary conglomeration of incompatible elements, but that real unity resulting from sameness of structure and identity of principle. This is the unity of Democracy.

But to our extract:—Sentinel.
It may be very proper indeed to knock a full grown Irish or Dutch elector on the head for the offense of not being right on the "Goose Question;" but that vivacity which sets fire to the dwelling of a citizen, and pursuing the mother of a family as she escapes from the flames of her home, batters out the brains of the baby that clings to her bosom, is, to say the least, carrying the joke quite as far as any principles, be they those of AMERICANS or DEVILS, ought to justify. We are told, upon authority not to be questioned, that on the day of the late election at Louisville, an offending man was killed in the street—that persons nearly beaten to death received the final blow, while kneeling and imploring mercy, with the arms of their distracted wives thrown around them for protection—that men who had committed no offense except that of not being born on American soil, were shot down and killed, by others whom they believed to be their friends—that men were dragged from homes and even from sick beds to be slaughtered, and that men, women and children, rushing from their burning homes, were driven—actually thrown—back to perish in the flames.

The world has really changed very much, or acts like these are wrong. Adhering to the ancient ideas upon the subject, we cannot do otherwise than hold them criminal. But there are other matters allied to these that, to the law-abiding, are almost as hideous. That justice which Know Nothingism administers through the law, is even more ominous to society than that which it administers without the law. From the hand of what tribunal is the actual truth concerning the events at Louisville to be laid before the world? With Know Nothingism at the bar and on the bench, in the jury box and upon the witness stand, as well as among the coroner's jury, how are the secret movements—how are the patent facts to be judicially authenticated? The bold murderer who brainied his victim in the street in the face of open day, is as secure from punishment as the midnight conspirator, who whispered homicide under the shadow of the lodge, or the incendiary journalist, who only hinted at the coming holocaust through the columns of his newspaper.

Let us look to our own case: Hundreds of men from Indiana and Kentucky came to this city, by arrangement, to assist in "preserving the purity of the ballot-box," at our last municipal election. They came, in many cases only—in squads—and found provisions made for their accommodation. These facts were known to hundreds, probably thousands, yet they could not be proven; and they were not proven. The oath of the lodge was stronger than the oath of the witness—stronger than the oath of the official. The life of the man who testified to the real truth, and carried the offense home to its authors, would not have been safe. There was an array of daggers, a battery of revolvers, to vindicate the reputation of the respectable gentlemen who gave their countenance to these proceedings. And who of all the mischief-makers of Cincinnati has been brought to justice? Of what avail has been our volumes of penal law, our array of sworn tribunals, the state of civilization of which we boast, the humanity, refinement, christianity, of the zenith of the nineteenth century, to inflict merited punishment upon a body of ruffians among us, who openly plotted murder, and for two days established a reign of terror in this city?

These things are no secret. Would to heaven they were! Then would men have some excuse for disregarding them. But they are notorious facts, and we neither understand how men can escape their knowledge or avoid the inferences by which that knowledge must be accompanied. They began with the advent of the Know Nothing order, have multiplied with its growth, and gone on increasing with its age. They are the natural—we may say the inevitable—fruits of a secret political organization, rendered intense by religious bigotry. Its first acts—those by which its existence was known—were acts of proscription. As it increased in power, in intolerance. Professing tenderness in its religious scruples, it has inaugurated blasphemy as the language of politics. Pretending a regard for the purity of the elective franchise, it has out-rivalled the world in the corruption and wrong it has introduced into our elections. Essayng to defend what it terms American principles, it has either perpetrated a most insulting libel upon American character, or our worst enemies have never succeeded in painting the blackness of the hideous truth concerning our vices and our crimes.

WAKE UP SNAKES!

The Jackson Artillery received their gun this (Saturday) morning. It weighs nine hundred pounds and will carry a seven pound ball. The carriage upon which it is mounted is a fine piece of mechanism, and on the whole its appearance is decidedly warlike. The boys have named the gun "Old Hickory."

THE LOUISVILLE BUTCHERY.

Everywhere throughout the length and breadth of the land there has gone up a cry of horror and indignation at the bloody acts of the Know Nothing party in Louisville. The New York Tribune, after summing up all the evidence of the case gives its verdict against the secret Order, and so has every respectable journal in the country independent of the democratic press. Look at, and ponder on the following uncontroverted testimony:

"The house of John Chieves, on Main street, near Eleventh, was fired. His wife ran into the street with her children in her arms. She was surrounded by the ruffians and told that if she did not return to the burning ruins and bring out her husband for them to kill, that they would kill both herself and her child. Frantic with despair, she permitted one of them to take the child, and she herself returned to the house and told her husband what they said. He immediately rushed out to rescue his infant from the murderous wretches, and was riddled with shot and left for dead. He was afterward carried to the Infirmary of the Sisters of Charity and has since died. He had not attempted to vote, and had offered no violence to any human being. The above particulars were detailed by his wife.

"Martin Connelly, now lying dangerously wounded at the Infirmary, says he was at supper when he discovered that the house had been fired. He and his wife ran out. As soon as they reached the street his wife began to plead for his life. A few gentlemen attempted to save him, but one of the ruffians placed a pistol to his left breast and fired. He also says that a man named Munroe, boarding with him was shot at the same time. Connelly is a peaceable and inoffensive citizen.

"Dennis Long, another of the wounded, lying at the Infirmary, says that he was reading a newspaper on the street, when Geo. Thompson, a friend of his and a Know Nothing, came to him and told him that the crowd at the polls were meditating an attack upon the row of houses occupied by the Irish, and advised him to keep in his house. He went to sleep, and was awakened by the shots. His two brothers were in the room when he awoke. They discovered that the house was on fire. They attempted to escape by getting on to the roof of the adjoining house, and from thence getting away. But no sooner had they reached the streets than his two brothers, who were in front of him, were fired at and fell. He rushed on through the crowd, but was himself shot, and remained unconscious until he was carried to the Jail. His two brothers were killed. He heard the murdered Quinn tell the mob that he would give them all the money and all the property he possessed, if they would spare his life and the lives of his tenants; but the savages shot him before the words were scarcely out of his mouth. No offense is alleged against any of these men.

"Cassidy, a nephew of Quinn's was shot as he attempted to escape from the flames. "George Hubert, an old German living on the corner of Ninth and Chesnut streets, left home about four o'clock in the evening for Portland avenue, to see a cow which he intended to buy. While passing down Main street he saw two crowds, one on the corner of Tenth street and the other near the corner of Eleventh street. He was between them; heard some shots fired, looked and saw a man lying on the pavement; saw two men, Americans, go up and fire two shots at the prostrate body, and would have fired the third, but the pistol would not go off. Hubert immediately crossed the street to get out of the way. He was followed by a man who said he wanted to kill him with a knife. The old man told him he was going on his business; that he had nothing to do with the fighting; that there was no use in killing a poor old man. The wretch's heart seemed to be touched; he went off with the crowd, however, almost immediately, returned again and surrounded the old man. One of them cried out: "Let us kill the d—d Dutch s—n of a b—h." He begged them to spare his life. Another cried out that he would shoot him for the fun of the thing, and immediately placed a pistol to his right breast and fired. Hubert is now lying in a most critical condition at his residence on the corner of Ninth and Chesnut.

"An old German, living on the Portland avenue, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth sts., who had been sick for several months, crept under the bed when he heard the mob approaching. He was dragged out, and shot through the heart.

"The facts which have been stated in this article can be relied upon by our readers. They have been gathered from the most authentic sources.

"We propose continuing the history of that day's outrages until the country shall have been put in possession of all the facts. When that shall have been done we have no fear of the judgment it will pronounce."—Louisville Times.

THE ELECTIONS.

The latest advices from Tennessee state that Johnson, Democrat, is elected Governor by about 2,000 majority; that the Congressional delegation is equally divided—five Democrats to five Know Nothings; and that the Legislature is democratic.

In Kentucky, Morehead, Know Nothing, is elected Governor. So far as heard from, the Democrats have elected three Congressmen, and the Know Nothings six.

In North Carolina, the Democrats have chosen five Congressmen, and the Know Nothings three. The democratic majority on the popular vote is about ten thousand.

In Alabama, Winston, Dem., is elected Governor by a large majority; the Congressional delegation stands five Democrats to two Know Nothings; and the Democrats have the Legislature.

In Texas, Pease, Democratic candidate for Governor, is chosen by several thousand majority. The whole State ticket is chosen, and Ward elected to Congress from the Eastern district.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

From the time of Henry the Eighth and Elizabeth the Protestant government and people of England have made strenuous efforts to exterminate the Catholic faith from the soil of Ireland. The people of that faith were subjected to the most ruthless persecution from the hands of their masters. They were not permitted to hold any description of offices. In many cases their oaths were refused. Their arms were taken from them. They were placed under the most degrading surveillance and were not allowed to leave their houses after nightfall. They were taxed to support a Protestant clergyman in each parish even though it might not contain a single communicant of that faith. This persecution and proscription continued till within the last thirty years. For centuries the people of Ireland had been trodden under foot by their conquerors, but in all these hundreds of years Protestantism had made no sensible progress. The people remained stubbornly steadfast to the ancient faith. The only adherents to the Protestant church were English Episcopalians and Scotch Presbyterians and their descendants.

At length, however, as a measure of policy as well as of justice, Catholic Emancipation was decreed by the British Parliament. O'Connell was allowed to take his seat in the House of Commons, and Catholics were permitted to aspire, and were sometimes appointed, to offices under the government. What has been the result? Ask the missionaries who have been sent into Ireland to preach the gospel and to distribute the Bible. What are their reports? Are they not within the last few years of the most encouraging character for the Protestant cause? All who are in the habit of reading missionary reports know this to be the case. The agents of the London Society report that in districts where a few years ago it was dangerous for a Protestant minister to be seen, they are now received with open arms by the peasantry, and their preaching is attended by large and attentive congregations. The Sabbath schools of the missionaries are likewise well attended. All the persuasion and all the threats of the Catholic priesthood are ineffectual to prevent their flocks from attending the preaching of the missionaries. This is the universal testimony, and some of the more sanguine of the Protestant teachers in that island predict that in less than twenty years Ireland will cease to be a Catholic country. Catholic bishops and Catholic priests themselves confess that their influence is rapidly declining, and lament in pathetic tones the progress of what they call "heresy."

Ten years of peaceful and benevolent effort by devout Christian men, more has been done toward the conversion of Ireland from Catholicism than was done in three hundred years by fire and the sword. The missionary has gone to the Irish peasantry with the bible in his hand, the love of God in his heart, and peace and good will on his lips, and he has accomplished more in one year than a whole generation of England's myrmidons, who brought persecution, proscription, death, and desolation in their train. Portions of the country which a few years ago could only be entered at the cannon's mouth are now traversed by men whose only weapons of offense and defense are bibles and tracts. Men and women who would have preferred torture and martyrdom to the abandonment of their faith at the summons of a host of Protestant warriors, are now converted by the persuasive eloquence of a warm-hearted Christian youth who has won their confidence and proved himself worthy of it.

Should not these facts—for facts they are—teach the American people a lesson? Should they not teach all who really seek the advancement of the Protestant cause that the road to success is not through fire and blood and persecution, but through love and gentleness and kindness, such as Jesus inculcated while on earth? All our sympathies are with the Protestant cause in its conflicts with Catholicism, provided it uses the weapons pointed out in the gospel. We believe it will be a happy day for Ireland when she becomes a Protestant country, as we have faith to believe she will become, under the auspices of men devoted to the cause of true religion and the salvation of souls, instead of seeking worldly advancement and earthly honors. Let the Protestant ministry use the weapons of truth and love and kindness, put away such unchristian engines as is inculcated in Know Nothing obligations, and they will disarm their enemies and obtain the sympathies of thousands whom they have alienated from them.

THE PROHIBITORY LIQUOR LAW.

The Indianapolis Republican of Saturday, says that the Supreme Court was to convene on yesterday for the final consideration of the Liquor Law. In this case we may expect the decision very soon. The Republican severely condemns the action that brought the Judges together at this time, they having once adjourned until November.

Since the foregoing was written we have received the Indianapolis Journal, which expresses its decided opinion that the law will be declared unconstitutional; but it thinks the Court will not give its decision at this session.—Laf. Amer.

DAVID ATCHISON A KNOW NOTHING.

The St. Louis Democrat says that there is not the least doubt that the notorious, if not infamous David Atchison, of Missouri, who has been at the head of the party in Missouri that would force slavery into Kansas against the wishes of her people, is a member of the Know Nothing order, and has accomplished the Kansas outrages through its instrumentality. It declares that several members of the order will soon give their certificates of Atchison's connection with them. Wonder what the Know-Nothings and Abolitionists in Indiana who have so much to say about Kansas matters, will say to this exposure!

Married—On the 23d of August, by John W. Park, Esq., Mr. Johnson Babbs to Miss Nancy Ann Tyle, all of this county.

Mr. Campbell, of the firm of Campbell, Galey & Harter, is now in the eastern cities making extensive purchases for the firm. Although all kinds of goods have advanced, we have no doubt the indefatigable industry of Mr. C. and his experienced knowledge as a buyer, will enable him to obtain goods for his firm on such terms as will enable them to sell at the usual low rates, for which they have so great reputation.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

There has nothing transpired since it was first declared that Know Nothingism had no power or influence in the Republican party, to change our views in regard to the truth of such statement. When the Philadelphia Convention assembled there was no other way but to own up to the healthy condition, power and influence of the Know Nothings in this State. We can well imagine the pompous manner in which this was done by the gentlemen who left the State "on business" between two days, and who very thickly scud away from Philadelphia without accomplishing one iota of "business." They could give a false interpretation to the vote of the "people" last fall, when they (the people) were cheated into the support of Know Nothing horrid doctors, and political blood-suckers, all on account of Douglass and Nebraska. They could demand a hearing for alleged influence they never possessed, and because their incendiary desires were rejected, run away to rant about the common sense snubbing post that beat their brains out. Impudence goes a good ways in accomplishing a dishonest purpose, but bold-faced deception will always, as it has in this case, brought contempt upon its unwily authors. The people of Indiana never have, and if they had they never would again sanction anything like the proscriptive, abolition doctrines of the bolting faction of Know Nothings. They pretend to be Americans, and swear they will in all cases, "obey the will of the majority when fairly expressed." Do they stand by their oaths? Not at all, but attempt in the most undemocratic, un-republican way, to override and crush those opposing them. This they call "liberal." They are the "liberal party," advocating "liberal principles."

The deception that was so successfully practiced last fall, is still continued. We were informed that the K. N. Convention which assembled at Indianapolis to fix things for the 13th of July affair, throwed off the secrecy, and that hereafter they were to make an open fight. This is all false, they have not done it, the secret order exists the same as ever. They acknowledge no public party in the State, that we all know.—Their doings are all hid from public inspection. Do they expect the people will believe their professions for a moment? If so, they will be mistaken. It requires no seer to foretell the fate of this abolition Know Nothing party. The voters of the State will take care of them. The very next election will show the effect of their bungling management in their complete overthrow and annihilation as a party.—Lafayette American.

We heard a little incident related a day or two since which forcibly illustrates the effect produced by the recent mobs on the rising generation. A little shaver of some five years came running into his father's house in the lower part of the city, a day or two after the riots, and exclaimed in a highly excited manner, "Get your gun quick, father; there's a big Irishman out in the alley, and you've got such a fair chance to shoot him."—*Laf.
