

ENORMOUS PROJECTILES.
We copy the following from a late number of the Liverpool Times.

Three monster shells have been landed on the arsenal wharf, at Woolwich from the Low Moor foundries, being each of the following dimensions: Diameter, 3 feet 9 inches; weight, 1 ton 6 cwt. They are the first of a number of that species which had been ordered for the purpose of being dispatched to Sebastopol for the reduction of that fortress. An experimental gun has likewise been founded at Liverpool for projecting these enormous missiles, weighing no less than 20 tons.

Some philanthropists of Boston have formed themselves into a Society and leased a building which they have called "Our House." It contains three large handsome rooms, which are appropriated for the amusement and mutual instruction of the mechanics and laborers. One is fitted up as a music and conversation room. Here the wives and daughters of the working men can assemble, and any mechanic who can pay the fee of one dollar per annum, will here have society and music, even objects of beauty about him. It is hoped eventually, to sprinkle the walls with pictures, and to place there statuary and casts, and works of art. Another room is furnished with a library and newspapers and quarterlies, where the laborer can spend his evenings in quiet reading. The lower saloon is a public coffee and ice-cream saloon, nothing being allowed in the whole building which can intoxicate.

THE WORLD OWES ME A LIVING.—It is a favorite saying among indolent people that the world owes them a living—and many honest men, blinded by sophistry, give their assent to the doctrine. The truth is, the world owes to every man a chance to earn a living; but there are as many degrees of difference between this doctrine and the other, as there are between the morality of Socrates and Epicurus. To deprive a man of the means of living, is to compel him to beg or steal—but to permit him to eat the bread others earned, is to declare labor dishonorable, and idleness a mark of distinction. The world owes a living to those who are unable to earn it for themselves; but every able bodied man owes it to the world to earn his own living.—Cl. Leader.

KENDALL ON ROYAL BEAUTY.—Kendall, of the New Orleans Picayune, writes home that the ladies in Waiting upon Victoria at Paris, were "a distressingly homely set," nor does the profane Republican treat royal any better. Listen to his description of the Princess Royal of England: "She is fat, chubby, and coarse specimen of a girl, a homely likeness of her mother, who never set up any pretensions to beauty that I am aware of!"

Gov. Adams, of South Carolina, in a late speech, said:

The Union has proved too strong for nullification, too strong for secession, and would prove too strong for Abolition. That fell spirit would be crushed whenever it was brought in collision with the federal government in Massachusetts. The people there would not not involve the country in civil war and revolution in their opposition to slavery.

A young preacher of the Methodist persuasion is said to be creating as much excitement in London now as Irving did some years ago, and as Whitfield did long before his time. His name is Spurgeon, and his age scarcely 33 years. His eloquence is described as most extraordinary—overwhelming with its force and brilliancy; and his voice has the characteristics which Whitfield's is said to have possessed—a ringing tone, and capable of being heard by an assemblage of 10,000 persons.

A beautiful thought, this, which we find in one of our exchanges:

"If there is a man who can eat his bread in peace with God and man, it is the man who has brought that bread out of the earth. It is candered by no blood."

A disappointment in marriage, Mrs. Elizabeth Sheldon hung herself on Sunday in Lisbon, N. Y., by bending down the top of a young tree, fastening her to it with a cord, and letting it spring back. Ingenious and highly poetical suicide.

The N. Y. Times says 2,000 or 3,000 tons of American gunpowder have been shipped from New York for the British in the Crimea.
