NEW JOB TYPE.

We have just received another large assortment of splendid Job Type, comprising the latest and most beautiful styles. We have now one of the finest Job Offices in the West, and persons wishing work done will find it to their advantage to give us a call.

Harding & Munns are now receiving their spring and summer stock. Splendid posters, containing a catalogue of their goods will appear next week.

WATSON & VANCE.—These gentlemen are now in receipt of their stock of boots, shoes, leather, findings, &c. Their unique and beautiful posters will appear next week.

HANNAH & CARR.—This firm has now on their shelves the finest assortment of Clothing ever brought to this market. Their bills will appear next week.

PARRISH & BIRT.—Our readers will notice the advertisement of this firm in another column. They have a splendid assortment of hats and caps.

Read the advertisement in another column, of Allen, Galey & Keeran. They have the finest stock of goods ever brought to Crawfordville.

Crawford & Mullikin are now receiving their spring and summer stock. Theirs is the establishment to get good bargains.

The Concord (N. H.) Patriot, states that in a dozen cases, during the recent election in New Hampshire, the opposition (anti-Democratic) candidates were elected by a single vote.

WILSON, GRIMES & Co.—This firm are now receiving their mammoth stock of dry goods, clothing, hardware, groceries, &c. We would advise our friends in the country to give them a call, as they are men who understand their business, and their stock is not surpassed by any in town.—Advertisement next week.

The Detroit Tribune of Saturday evening, says, the Lake at Toledo presents an unbroken surface of ice as far as the eye can reach. Until within a week past, there has been uninterrupted communication on the ice, between that city and Canada. Heavily loaded teams still pass over the ice on the Lake at Ontario.

The rose of Florida, the most beautiful of flowers, emit no fragrance; the birds of Paradise, the most beautiful of birds, give no song; the cypress of Greece, the finest of trees, yields no fruit.

An officer of Detroit held an execution against a citizen, who turned out a quantity of liquor as security. He cannot sell it without making himself amenable to the laws, and if he does not sell, he is liable for the debt.

CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION.

Doubtless our readers have all noticed that the time of holding the District Convention has been changed to the 20th of May. The Democracy will have a glorious rally then, and we hope as many of our brethren as can do so, will go up from Montgomery. Lafayette, a central and accessible point, has been selected by the committee with the hope of inducing a general attendance. We are about engaging in a warfare more important than any we have undertaken for years—greater principles are to be discussed—a more bitter enemy, with a hatred more implacable, and means and aims less scrupulous is to be encountered. Then in the very beginning of the contest let every Democrat strip his sword to the hilt, and upon the old altar where Jefferson and Jackson swore, there let him take the oath of eternal fidelity to the principles of his choice. Daniel W. Voorhees, Esq., without mistake will be our Captain, and with such a gallant leader, and such strong friends as his support will prove to be, we feel assured that our victory will be triumphant.

A TRADITION OF THE ARABS.—King Nimrod one day commanded his three sons to enter his presence, and he caused to be placed before them by his slaves three scaled urns. One of the urns was of gold, the second of amber, and the last of clay. The king desired his eldest son to choose among them which appeared to contain the greatest prize. The eldest chose the vase of gold on which was written "Empire." He opened it and found it full of blood. The second chose the amber vase, on which was written "Glory." He opened it and found it filled with the ashes of men who had been famous upon earth. The third took the remaining vase—that of clay. He opened it and found it empty; but in the bottom of it the potter had written one of the names of God. "Which of the vases weighs the most?" demanded the king of his court. The ambitious replied, the vase of gold; the conquerors, the vase of amber; the sages answered and said, "the empty vase, because a single letter in the name of God weighs more than the entire globe."

AN AWKWARD SCRAPE.—A man in Pittsburgh accidentally spilled some oil on a bundle of bank notes. To remove the oil he rubbed the notes with a solution of potash, which had the effect of removing the signatures of the officers of the banks.

Frightened at the probable loss of the money, he filled up the notes again, writing therein the names he had so incautiously removed. Upon presenting the notes at the bank, the writing was detected and the man was arrested. Fortunately for him, however, several gentlemen were cognizant of the facts, and he was released—the banks redeeming the notes.

An army of sixteen thousand men has entered the Kingdom of Oude. The late King is to have a pension of $120,000. The revenue to be received from the Kingdom will be $2,500,000. Oude is one of the richest countries in Asia. It is very fertile and the minerals very valuable.

THE CRADLE AND THE OLD ARM CHAIR.—No house is complete without two pieces of furniture—the cradle and the old arm chair. No house is full that hath not in it a babe and a grandfather or grandmother. Life becomes more radiant and cheerful when its two extremes keep along with it. The two loves which watch the cradle and serve the chair are one. But how different in all their openings and actions. To the child the heart turns with more tenderness of love. To the aged parent, love is borne upon a service of reverence. Through the child you look forward—through the parent you look backward. In the child you see hope, joys to come, and a brave ambition, and a life yet to be drawn forth in all its many-sided experiences. Through the silver-haired parent, you behold the past, in its scenes enacted, its history registered.

RUSSIAN GUNS.—The Russian iron seems to have qualities superior to the British for ordnance purposes, as it is said by engineers that many ineffectual attempts have been made, both in the Crimea and elsewhere, to burst a Russian gun, and it has been found impossible.

In a late session of the Circuit Court at Grand Rapids Mich., a new plea in a divorce suit was entered. The defendant, a strong minded female, proclaimed that the plaintiff was not her "spiritual husband," and so left him in disgust, to search for a more congenial spirit, commonly called "free lover."

For the Review.

Mr. Editor: The second word of the Journal's reply to my humble communication in last week's Review, being "scurrilous"—thus scurrilously spelled at that—and, therefore, an admirable index of the whole article, is altogether unworthy of notice.

When the editor of the Journal doffs his arrogance, and puts on only a little pretension as the merits of one of double his mental calibre would deem himself entitled to, he can have a discussion upon any subject he likes. I treated him with every respect, and in return for such treatment, in his very first line, by getting off two epithets of abuse, he gets off two falsehoods. I am not aware that ignorance is ever allowed as a good plea, and, therefore, I say "falsehoods." Two in one line is doing very well for so young an editor and old a Methodist, as he be of the Journal.

Respectfully,

ECCLIASTICUS.

The British Government has "sequestered" Oude, with its four millions of inhabitants. If such an act of territorial aggression had been performed by the United States there would have been an universal outcry against our filibustering. When the people of the United States want to enlarge their territory instead of filibustering, as in India, they honestly pay for it. They gave fifteen millions of dollars for Florida, about twenty millions for California and New Mexico, and ten millions for the Mesilla Valley. In addition to this they gave the inhabitants of the acquired territory a free and better government than they possessed before the exchange. This is the difference between American annexation and British sequestration.

HOME, a literary gentleman, who flourished some time ago, and whose History of England and other works are very fairly written, once remarked:
Show me the business man, who amounts to a row of pins, that ignores the glorious benefits of a judicious system of advertising, and I'll show you a man that don't know what's good for himself.

Barnum, in his investigation said:—"I do not understand the details of credit business—my business has always been in a cash business—'pay before you go in.' I never knew the meaning of the expression, 'bills payable,' until within a year."

TRUE.—Please cut this out and paste it up. A sensible man says:

"My confidence in the power of advertising is such that were I engaged in the wood trade I would advertise the superiority of my kindling wood over that of any other. If you have an article to sell, let the people know it, and you will find a customer."

From the Richmond Enquirer.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

Messrs. Editors:—Since you have predicted the possible and probable declination of Mr. Fillmore, and that, too, upon seemingly strong grounds, I beg that you will insert the following suggestion for the benefit of the Know Nothings, in the event of that deplorable contingency, namely: that if Mr. Fillmore should decline, George Washington Parke Custis shall be substituted in his stead, so that the ticket shall then read:

For President,
GEORGE WASHINGTON Parke Custis.
For Vice President,
ANDREW JACKSON donelson.

COL. BENTON AND THE REPUBLICANS.—The Albany Atlas, alluding to the slavery question says:

We may add that we have reliable information that Col. Benton, in personal intercourse, speaks freely upon these subjects, and relies upon the Democratic party of the nation, instead of any new-fangled Republican party, to guard the honor and perpetuate the prosperity of the country. We speak of this, because there have been industrious efforts to use the name and fame of Col. Benton, as authority in favor of Seward Republicanism, and in justification of secession from Democracy.

THE PAY OF MEMBERS OF CONGRESS.—A Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger says:

Notice has been given in the Senate of the introduction of a bill providing for the increase of the per diem pay of members of both Houses. Under the present system none but rich men can really afford to become members of Congress. The community generally know nothing of the immense demands made upon them, for all sorts of purposes; and the expense of living in Washington, as a member is expected to and must live, speedily eat up all that they now receive. I understand that it is proposed to fix the pay at twelve dollars per day. I learn, also, that an amendment will be proposed, giving the members a fixed annual salary.

THE MONSTER STRAMBLING.—Next week about 1,000 men will be employed on the "Great Leviathan" belonging to the Eastern Steam Navigation Co., now in course of construction at Scott & Russell's. She will be 23,000 tons register, and will carry 12,000 tons of coal in addition! She will carry 10,000 passengers, and will have eight screw steamers as her complement of large boats, four on each side. She is of most gigantic proportions, and a visit to her is a sight to be talked of. When she is completed in the water, she will assuredly draw "all London" to her, and in fact the greatest curiosity in the kingdom.—London Times.

At an election for Mayor, the other day, in Burlington, Iowa, the entire Republican vote was cast for a negro barber who resided there. The Gazette of that city says that the negro is decidedly the most respectable man among them, and as they wouldn't vote for anybody but a man of their own party, their votes couldn't have been more worthily bestowed.

A California party says that the price of champagne is "eternal vigilance" and $3.50 per gallon.

GREAT GUNS AND SHARP'S RIFLES.

When "in the name of God Almighty" the thirty-five hundred President Clergymen, demanded of Congress a repeal of the Nebraska act, we did not dream they would disgrace their heavenly calling by openly advocating civil war, butchery, and blood. Here is the evidence of their damnable intent taken from one of their own organs. A Kansas meeting has lately been held at New Haven, of which a lively report is given in the New York Times. Henry Ward Beecher who has outgrown all the old-fashioned prejudices respecting the properties of the clerical office was there, and, like a meek ambassador of the Prince of Peace, spoke eloquently in favor of Sharp's rifles and good gunpowder.—We quote the interesting report of the closing scene:

Prof. Silliman of Yale College, then arose and said that he did not hope that Sharp's rifles would be put to the fullest use of which they are capable; but self-defense, especially in the cause of Freedom, was a sacred duty. He deprecated the necessities of the time which demanded such precaution on the part of settlers of Kansas, but he believed in meeting manfully the exigencies, and as they might be. He said he desired to head the list for the procuring of a number of weapons of defense of the party setting out, and that therefore Mr. Lines might put down on the paper, "B. Silliman, one Sharp's rifle."

[The price of a rifle was $25.]
Mr. Russell and Rev. Mr. Dutton rose both at once. Mr. Russell speaks first: "put me down for one."

Rev. Mr. Dutton (pastor of the church) rose next, and said that he, too, would pledge twenty-five more from the Plymouth Church—fifty being a sufficient number for all over the house.]

Prof. Silliman now left Mr. Beecher to speak for the bid, and sat down to enjoy the occasion.

Mr. Killman—I give one.
Mr. Beecher—Killman—That's a significant name in connection with a Sharp's rifle. [Laughter.]

Prof. W. A. Norton—one for me.
Mr. Vining—one for me.

Mr. Moses Tyler—I will pledge one Sharp's rifle from the Junior Class in Yale College! [Great applause.]

Prof. Silliman (rising in his seat and sweeping the gallery with his eye.)—There are four classes in Yale College! [Immense sensation.]

Henry Trowbridge—One!
John G. North—One!

Mr. Beecher—I think Kansas will now know that there is a North! [Great applause.]

William Kingsley—One for me!
Louis L. Olmstead—One!

Mr. Dunlap—I will pledge one for the Senior class in Yale College!

It was now ascertained, that instead of twenty-five, twenty-seven rifles had been subscribed, the cost of which together with the amount received at the door for admission fees, made the collection for Kansas in the North Church, one thousand dollars.

The meeting then adjourned.

If a Catholic Clergyman should be found counselling war, eulogising gun powder and collecting Bibles for any purpose whatever, what a howl would be set up by these same Protestant Clergy against the Papist Priesthood, the Pope and the Devil! O, what pinks of piety and consistency they are.

A BEAUTIFUL INCIDENT.—A lady while passing through one of the frequented thoroughfares of New York, observed a little girl very sparsely clothed in ragged garments, shivering from the effects of cold and hunger. Interesting herself in the little sufferer, she immediately conducted her to a store, where she purchased some cake. Though she was aware that bread might be better for the child than cake, yet desiring to gratify the shining fortune one, she bought and gave her the cake she wanted. She then took her to another place, where she procured her a shawl and other articles of comfort. The grateful little creature looked the benevolent lady up full in the face, and with artless simplicity, said, "Are you God's wife?"—Did the most eloquent philologist ever employ words to better advantage?

THE DEER AND THE SNOW.—So terrible has been the effect of the cold and snow on the mountains west of us, that the deer have become so weak from starvation that they have been captured in numbers by individuals for the purpose of saving their lives.—Mr. William Giffels has nine in confinement, and so tame have they become that they will readily eat from the hand.—Cumberland (Md.) Telegraph.

FIRST GUN IN INDIANA.

At the election for city officers in Michigan City a day or two since, the democrats swept everything by storm—electing the entire ticket by over 100 majority.

This victory is no less important than signal, and the result will be felt throughout the State. Michigan City has always been regarded as hopelessly Fusion, but there, as it soon will be wherever the demoralizing trend of fanaticism has been felt, the mighty upheaving of democracy has rolled back the boiling torrent of the demon Fusion; and where once haunted the black flag of disunion now float the stars and stripes of victory and Union. Michigan City is redeemed.—Laf. American.

The water of Lake Ontario is said to be six inches higher than last year at this time.

THE LATE SPEECH OF MR. DOUGLAS IN THE SENATE.

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Times thus speaks of the late speech of Mr. Douglas, in the Senate of the United States, upon his bill organizing the Territory of Kansas into a State. As what he says comes from a political opponent, it may safely be concluded that Mr. Douglas made a speech of surprising power, and excellence. The correspondent observes:

"A buzz of conversation ran through the throng as Mr. Douglas took his seat, and almost instantaneously scores of fingers were seen among the spectators pointing him out to eager gazers. A little preliminary business being disposed of, Mr. Douglas prepared to take the floor, but yielded an instant to Mr. Hale, who in his usual good-natured style, observed that as the occasion was one of special interest, a great number of spectators were present, a large proportion of whom were of that sex which every gentleman loved to honor, and as they not only felt a great interest in the subject, but also, under the circumstances, (Mr. Douglas is a widower,) in the orator, he, therefore, moved to suspend the rules and allow the ladies to take seats in the lobby. This movement on the part of Mr. Hale created bland smiles upon the faces of the ladies, but indignation among the gentlemen, which they exhibited by sour looks and murmurs of disapprobation, very naturally wishing to preserve their seats. Senator Hunter, of Virginia, however came to the rescue, he objected to Mr. Hale's motion, and it was withdrawn."

"Mr. Douglas then rose. He was dressed in a suit of black, with his frock-coat buttoned to the chin, and his thick dark hair swept negligently back from his massive forehead. In a clear, distinct voice he first read his bill, just introduced, providing for the organization of a State government in the Territory of Kansas. This bill is precisely like others of a similar nature in his chief details. Having thus laid down a text, Mr. Douglas commenced the exordium of his speech. I shall not attempt to give an abstract of the long, powerful and logical argument which followed, for space will not allow; but I may say, without feeling of favor, that it was the strongest, the clearest and the most unanswerable vindication of the Nebraska bill—the most searching criticism upon Governor Leach—the most triumphant vindication of the State-rights doctrine—the severest condemnation of emigrant aid societies and their conduct, the most able, constitutional argument that I ever had the privilege of hearing. And the same opinion was expressed by many of Mr. Douglas' political opponents."

THE PACIFIC.—The New York Times has a statement in relation to the probable course of the Pacific, and the situation of the ice fields, which establishes the fact in the estimation of that journal, that she was lost among the fields of ice, and that the pieces of the cabin furniture seen by the Edinburgh belonged to her. It is melancholy thus to cast away all hope, but the period elapsing warrants the conclusion that we shall never hear from her again.

Whether in the stillness of the night, with a crash and a groan, she struck some ugly glacier, and went down before the bubbling gray that could be uttered, we know not. Whether she wandered for days in fields of ice, living in hope, yet finally lost without succor, we are unable to tell. Whether she perished with the flame wreathing around mast and spar, and the wild shriek ringing o'er the water, no one will ever discover; but the sad fact remains, that in one way or another the bark, precious with so many valuable lives, has been wrecked on the waters. The longing eyes will never again see the father, the husband, the son, and the future will tell no tale of the last hour.

LONG SPEECHES.—O, seldom-speaking Cromwell, whose associations was by no means talk, but who made Europe tremble, Ireland orderly, and England great—how need we wonder that a true worker should seek to get rid of clattering Parliamentary magpies, and pray the "Lord to deliver him from Sir Henry Vane!" O, silent Washington, who could conquer the mighty, and found the greatest empire in the world, but whom a D'Israeli could confound in utterance! O, taciturn Brutus! who could even make Rome more illustrious, and debate Carthage from the world's map, but who could not outstep even the rawest of reporters! Have we not "fallen on evil days and evil tongues?"—London Dispatch.

THE SCHOOLMASTER OF OUR REPUBLIC.—When our republic rose, Noah Webster became its schoolmaster. There had never been a great nation with a universal language without dialects. The Yorkshire man cannot now talk with a man from Cornwall. The peasant of the Liguarian Apennines drives his goats home at evening, over hills that look down upon six provinces, none of whose dialects he can speak. Here, five thousand miles change not the sound of a word. Around every fireside, and from every tribunal in every field of labor, and every factory of toil, is heard the same tongue. We owe it to Webster. He has done for us more than Alfred does for England, or Cadmus for Greece. His books have educated three generations. They are forever multiplying his innumerable army of thinkers who will transmit his name from age to age.—Gleaner of the Metropolis.

ATTENDED SUICIDE.—A young lady who arrived at the St. Charles Hotel in this city a few days since, and registered her name as Miss Carder, and whose extraordinary beauty has created a great sensation in the city, attempted to commit suicide in her room last night, we learn, by taking laudanum. The discovery was made and a physician called in time to save her life. There is a great mystery hanging over the affair, which we do not understand, although it is surmised that love, perhaps disappointment, perhaps wrong, is at the bottom of it.—Keokuk Times.

The young lady referred to, we presume, is Miss Amanda Carder of this city, who went out to Keokuk a short time since in company with Duff's theatrical troupe.—Lafayette Journal.

The ice continued quite firm in Lake Erie at last accounts.

Down in Arkansas, when an editor gets short of original reading matter, he makes up the deficiency by inserting a patent medicine advertisement as a leader.

Rev. Henry Bacon, a distinguished Universalist Clergyman, died at Philadelphia on the 23d, aged 44.

ARRIVAL OF THE ATLANTIC.

SANDY HOOK, April 2.
The Atlantic, with Liverpool dates to the 10th ult., has passed here. The following is a summary of her intelligence:
LIVERPOOL, March 18.—The sales of cotton for the last three days have been 19,000 bales; the market closed dull, with prices easier but not quotably lower—the depression confined to lower qualities; the sales to exporters have been 2,000 bales and to speculators 2,500.

The Manchester market is quiet and firm. Breadstuffs are generally unchanged, but the markets dull; nominally, the markets are wholly unaltered. The sugar market closed with an active demand. Coffee dull. The money market closed steady; consols rather weak at 91½-92½.
Peace is considered as virtually concluded.

The arrival at Paris of the Prussian plenipotentiary is only waited for to sign the protocol.

The Empress Eugenie has given birth to a son.

No news has been received of the missing steamer Pacific.

There is nothing in relation to American affairs.

The Atlantic left on the morning of the 19th, at 10½ o'clock, with 28 passengers. She passed on the 23d, lat. 50.59, lon. 22; a steamer supposed to be the America for Liverpool.

The Asia arrived out on the morning of the 13th.
LONDON, Tuesday evening.—The English funds were again flat to-day, in consequence of continued realization, money is easier, though nothing was done lower than 6 per cent.

The India mail has arrived, with Calcutta dates to the 9th and Bombay to the 16th of February. A proclamation, issued on the 7th of February, announced the annexation of Oude and the deposition of the King. The trade in India is inactive and prices fluctuating, except for indigo.

LONDON, Tuesday morning.—The Paris Bulletin of yesterday says the Empress' child is doing well.

Advices from Africa to Feb. 25, state that the coast is healthy. Business dull. There had been disturbances on Cape Coast, in which 30 natives were killed and 100 wounded.

Baron Manteuffel, at the latest dates, had arrived at Paris and it was expected the protocol would be signed in a few days.

Secrecy as to the proceedings of the conference is still observed.

The telegraphic advices from Constantinople are to the 6th inst. Divan, owing to the remonstrances of the merchants, had renounced the projected issue of one hundred millions in paper money.

Russian Pacha, convicted of malversation has been sentenced to imprisonment and reformed several hundred thousand troops.

A new detachment of Russian troops arrived at Bessarabia.

ENGLAND.—Parliament has adjourned.

Mr. Dallas had gone to London.

Mr. Buchanan had taken formal leave of the Queen.

Lord Palmerston accompanied Buchanan, and in this act the English papers see an indication that the premier desires to stand well with the Princess Royal of England.

The young Prince of Prussia is about to revisit England, to be betrothed to the Princess Royal.

A deputation of the friends of Poland waited on Lord Palmerston, begging him to give instructions to the British plenipotentiaries at Paris to insist on the restoration of Poland.

Lord Palmerston replied that the subject should have the consideration of government.

The general news is that peace is considered virtually concluded. The arrival of Baron Manteuffel at Paris alone was wanting before the signing of the protocol.

The birth of the prince caused much outward rejoicing in France and England. Addresses and congratulations are continually pouring into the Tuilleries. Paris was illuminated. Pope Pius is to be the prince's godfather and the Queen of Sweden is to be the godmother.

Flags are hung out and salutes fired in the principal cities of Great Britain in honor of the young Bonaparte.

At Paris during Sunday night a throng of people waited outside the Palace to learn the result of the Empress' travail, and before morning they were apprised of the birth of a prince by two lights being placed in a window. Had the infant been a princess only one light would have made its appearance.

At six o'clock in the morning a salute of 100 guns announced the birth of the King of Ageria to the whole population.

The excitement was great and the congratulations general among all classes.

The Imperial Prince was privately christened at noon in the presence of the Emperor after mass in the chapel of the Tuilleries.

The ceremony was performed by Bishop Nancy, the Emperor's first almoner. His Holiness, the Pope, being godfather to the Imperial Prince, and her majesty the Queen of Sweden godmother. The Imperial Prince has received the names of Napoleon Eugene Louis Jean Joseph.

The Emperor has decided that he will be godfather and the Empress godmother to all legitimate children born in France on the 16th of March.

On Monday the Empress is to receive the congratulations of the Senate and Legislative bodies, the council of State, the magistracy of the institute, the clergy of the different persuasions, the municipal corps and deputations from the national guard and army by order of the Emperor. Gratuitous representations were given on Monday in all the theatres of Paris in honor of the birth of the Imperial Prince.

The municipal council of Paris voted the sum of 200,000 francs, for the poor, of which 100,000 francs will be employed in redeeming bedding pledged in the Monte de Piete, and the other 100,000 in paying the nurses of poor mothers in arrears.

The Liverpool cotton market had been even duller than during the preceding week, although the business was to a fair extent during the three days. Sales Saturday were 7,000 bales, Monday 8,000, and Tuesday 4,000. Moderate business in wheat. Flour had been in considerable demand; but had again become quiet. Corn much pressed for sales. Quotations all cereals nominally unchanged. Sugar continued active at extreme rates. Considerable business had also taken place in molasses.—Coffee dull.

Money market rather easier, but full rates still exacted.

At the last accounts, Gen. Walker's army in Central America numbered 4,368 men.

MR. TRUMBULL ON THE RACK AT HOME.

Our readers retain a lively recollection of the late exciting encounter in the Senate between the two Illinois Senators, in which Mr. Douglas subjected his colleague to one of those excruciating tortures which renegades from their party entail upon themselves, and which Mr. Douglas is so eminently qualified to administer. Mr. Trumbull is now in hands of the Democrats of Illinois, and the following article from the Springfield Daily Register of the 22d inst. shows that he is not likely to fare better at home than in the Senate.

TRUMBULL ON THE RACK.—In the recent sharp colloquy between Messrs. Douglas and Trumbull, the following passage occurs:

"Mr. Douglas. Was not the gentleman voted for by Abolitionists and Know-Nothings from all parts of the State?"

"Mr. Trumbull. Let him no, to his teeth; I never was a candidate of the Abolition or Know Nothing party. I have been voted for by members of the American party, and it was so with the gentleman—but that I was their candidate is not true."

"This reply of Trumbull is a most singular one in the face of the facts shown by the record. Mr
