GEN. GRANT

PUTTING DOWN

REBELLION!

AND

'Bill Bowers'

PUTTING DOWN THE PRICE OF

DRY-GOODS.

Bill Bowers' Fifth Annual

ADDRESS.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

After four years of untiring energy in the Dry Goods business in our midst, during which time we have closed out during the last forty days all our high priced goods, and if you wish to make tenfold on every dollar of your purchases, do not fail to call at the Banner and examine, and be no longer faithless but see and believe. For we say to you that the BANNER WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD.— You will please bear in mind that the Banner has always been the last house to put prices up, and the first to let them down!

Our stock this spring will be full and complete, so you need not run around to small mammoths or other one-horse houses, as you can get all you want at the Banner. Women's Shoes at 75 cents per pair;
good Prints at 20 cts. per yard; good bleached muslins at 20 to 25 cents per yard; best styles spring De-laines and Chalmers at 30 cents per yard; and other goods lower than can be bought in any other house.

In conclusion we would say to all to come, for now is the time and the Banner the place.

For the great rebellion's ended,
And Davis run away;
General Lee has surrendered,
And Grant has won the day.

And the Stars and Stripes are waving
Where traitors once did dwell;
Slavery's Moloch couldn't save them
So they took a trip to Hell.

Whist! things are thus upheaving,
The Banner's still a-going,
And those who patronize it
Are the only ones that thrive.

Then come ye poor and needy,—
Then cut ye rich and poor,
We'll always greet you welcome
At the Banner Store.

Our Ladies treat you civil,
And show you goods so cheap,
You will hardly stop to grumble
At the price of wheat.

And if you are fond of passing,
Just give the Boss a call,
He will tell you what the reason
That goods took such a fall.

Now, to conclude our rhyming,
We'll say to you once more;
To call where goods are sold
At cost and a little more.

Now, to conclude our rhyming,
We'll say to you once more;
To call where goods are sold
