General Thomas J. Wood takes command in Mississippi in place of General Slocum.

The New York Times says Wirz has been sentenced to death, but the President will commute the sentence to imprisonment for life.

Some Republicans in Washington profess to be very mad because one Thomas Miller gave a dinner to Gen. Longstreet and other Southern officers. It is a pity they can't dictate to people who they shall invite to dinner.

It is said that a further order for the discharge of a large number of the volunteer generals will create some commotion in military circles.

According to the Washington National Intelligence, the President, in his interview with the Baltimore ladies, informed them that arrangements had been made for trying Mr. Davis by the laws of the land.

Between August, 1864, and July, 1865, about 1,600 Confederate prisoners died at Camp Douglas. The graves are all marked, and shortly a complete list of their names will be published.

It is reported that Gen. Longstreet asserted, while in Washington, recently, that the rebellion could not be suppressed, had it not been for the incapacity of Jeff Davis, whose intermeddling destroyed all their hopes; and that, on several occasions, he prevented the rebels from taking Washington, and making it their base for offensive operations.

John Mitchell has arrived in New York, and has taken the oath of allegiance.

The Secretary of War has ordered the suspension of the closing of the Government hospitals in Washington, so as to have them ready for use in cholera cases.

The Republican ticket has defeated the soldiers' ticket in Chicago.

There is a negro-suffrage petition in circulation in Indianapolis.

A Washington correspondent says that the result of the late elections will not have the effect to induce the President to abandon his reconstruction policy. Why should it? The Republicans did not dare to take issue upon that policy, but professed to favor it.

Circuit Court.

A special term of this Court convenes next week at the Court House for the trial of Lorenzo D. Brewer, for the murder of Luther Brewer, his own cousin, in Fountain county last summer. The trial will be apt to create a great interest, as eminent counsel have been retained, both for the prosecution and defense. Messrs. Wood, Voorhees and John P. Usher, Prosecutors; and Mallory, Delfart, Davidson and the Hon. James Wilson, defense. Judge John M. Cowan, presides. It is no small compliment to Judge Cowan that so many have confidence in his judicial ability.

Crane House.

VOLNEY Q. IRWIN, known throughout the West for his eccentricity, is now the obliging host of this establishment. Under his management the hotel has been improved and an addition added to the building, and the landlord, like a boniface of old, is always ready to pass a joke, and entertain his customers. No pains are spared in the cuisine, and the attaches of the hotel are ever willing to attend to the wants of the guests.

Another Improvement.

THOMAS H. SCOTT, the proprietor of one of our Livery Stables, we notice, is enlarging his establishment to accommodate the growing wants of our town. When finished it will be one of the finest stables in the State—as well as being one of the best in point of horse flesh and comfortable carriages.

The Mammoth.

JAMES GRAHAM, the go-ahead, irrepressible, and earnest JAMES, has just returned from the East—the abode of wise men—and is now receiving every day consignments of the immense purchases he made while absent. Graham is a live man, sparkling and full of energy, and in every way qualified to cater for the public. Look out for his big advertisement, containing a synopsis of his stock, next week.

Ladies' Goods.

Mrs. M. L. WILLIAMS, Fashionable Milliner, has received a large and very fine assortment of Millinery Goods. We call attention to her advertisement, and can recommend her establishment to the ladies as one in which the superior taste of the proprietor will be sure to give satisfaction.

'Banner' Store.

We call the attention of our readers to the Store of Mr. WILLIAM BOWERS, or as he delights to have his many customers call him, Bill Bowers. Look at his new advertisement. It speaks volumes.

Boots and Shoes.

Our young friend JOHN HOOD is determined not to be behind the times, and has on hand and is constantly receiving large supplies to augment his stock. Hood receives the largest share of the custom in the way of making boots and shoes for home wear, and has sufficient taste to fit a boot and give shape to the ugliest foot.

We return our thanks to ISAAC M. VANCE, our gentlemanly Auditor, for a fine bunch of quails. Isaac is one of the most genial men, as well as the best hunter, in the county, and we wonder that a general convention of quails has not been held to protest against this ruthless invader of their peace.

Main Street.

We notice a movement on foot to open Main Street and extend it a distance of two miles west, to the creek. This should succeed. We may look for a large increase in the population of our town next spring, and we trust that an opportunity will be given our enterprising townsman, JOHN W. BLAIR, to lay out cheap lots for the accommodation of those who wish to build and improve our town.

Madam Ferrard.

We still hear of the success of this lady in the eradication of chronic diseases that have baffled the skill of the best physicians. Patients are calling on her from all quarters, and affections, that patients have felt as if they could never be relieved of, are yielding up the ghost to her scientific treatment. We are glad to see that her merits are receiving the reward they deserve. It is so seldom that the world recognizes and appreciates genius, until it has passed away, that we take pleasure in chronicling the success of it in this instance.

We are pleased to inform the numerous friends of Theodore Potter that he takes charge of the restaurant of Chris Hartung, known as the German Saloon. The old customers, and new ones, will find Mr. Potter as obliging as ever.

Indian Summer.

The hazy days and unclouded nights of Indian Summer are upon us. A more beautiful fall, even than that much abused person, the "old inhabitant," does not remember of experiencing. The old feel young under its revivifying influences. The many and finely colored maples surrounding our beautiful city still retain possession of their leaves, as if loth to part with their gay covering which will soon be swept away by the icy breathing of old winter, and left with their naked arms tossing at the sport of his chilly winds. It is to be hoped that the poor and friendless in our midst will not have cause to regret the coming of winter, but that our citizens will see that the sick, the helpless and suffering are cared and provided for. Will our citizens, those of them who delight in that best of all virtues, charity, see if there are not some on beds of sickness, unable to help their families who have kept the miseries of war from our own doors and deserve aid from a benevolent community.

Among the new subscribers we have added to our list this week is the name of the Hon. ARCH. JOHNSON, a sound and unwavering Democrat.

Rolling Mill at Crawfordsville.

A company of gentlemen engaged in mining, in the regions of Lake Superior, are desirous, we understand, of establishing a rolling mill at this place. The great central railway advantages Crawfordsville will soon possess is beginning to attract the attention of manufacturers and capitalists.

Goods at Cost.

C. W. ELTZBOTH will sell goods at cost from next Monday, the 13th, until the 1st of January, 1866. Now is the time to purchase cheap ready-made clothing, cloths and cassimeres.

R. J. VANCE is now east purchasing a new stock of goods. He has purchased a large quantity of fashionable and elegant furs, which cannot fail to please the ladies. The stock will be open for exhibition next week.

A beautiful collection of Birds, natives of the tropical regions of Brazil, are on exhibition in the show window of Krou's drug store.

The State Journal will be received every evening at the session of the Legislature, at Foot & Thompson's Book Store.

When you come to town be sure and visit Hood's Boot and Shoe store.

A splendid variety of buck gloves can be found at McClure & Fry's.

Only three arrests have been made this week. The town has been decidedly orderly.

ROBERT F. BUCK and D. N. MORGAN have purchased the Houston warehouse.

The Mercutio of New Orleans—The Vicissitudes of Life.

[From Correspondence of Mobile Register.]
The Crescent gives an incident in this morning's issue, illustrating a feature of Southern society since the war. A relic of the past is seen in a man, bearing upon his face and body the impress of many years. This man walks the streets daily, bearing the marks of misfortune, amid the friends he had known in better years, but with an appearance so changed, one can hardly recognize in him the Mercutio of the Crescent City, the gay, witty and elegant gentleman, who was at one time the leader of fashion. Seedy habits, a bent body and wrinkled face, have nearly obliterated all in him that was familiar in the past. Inheriting a great fortune, he increased it largely by marriage, and from his profession at the bar, had an income of fifty thousand dollars a year, and received a single fee of fifty thousand dollars upon a claim on real estate in the lower part of the city. This wealth he scattered with princely generosity and royal profusion. He was a Lucullus at home, and his hospitalities aspired to all the magnificence of the ancient Roman noblemen.

In 1837 he gave a soiree that cost $25,000, and which exceeded in splendor anything ever before known here. The very floor over which the dancers moved were covered with scenic paintings, the work of the most accomplished artist then in New Orleans, and in the saloon where gaming tables were arranged stood two baskets, one filled with bank notes and the other with gold, for the use of those guests who were unfortunate with the fickle goddess. The dispenser of this gorgeous hospitality is now dependent upon his relatives. He takes his losses with Christian resignation, and does not fly from the world or rail against it, like Timon, of Athens, but moves through the world with a pleasant and urbane manner, as if he had still the princely fortune at command. Such cases as this are common since the war, and in this "Relic of the past," the Crescent writer has been happy in bringing out one of the best features of the Southern people. It is not a rare sight here to see a threadbare man passing by his own fine house in possession of the military, casting one sad glance toward it, and then moving on as cheerful and resigned as if he had come from his familiar doors. In every Southern city can be seen the same noble man, ruined by the war, yet content in the thought that the sacrifice was made for conscience sake.

A Justice of the Peace in Wayne county, Iowa, has lately decided that all contracts, whether written or verbal, must be stamped to render them valid and binding.

THERE seems to be great unanimity among the Georgia press in favor of Hon. A. H. Stephens for Governor of that State.

Time-Honored Principles of the Republican Party.

1. The Constitution—a league with hell and a covenant with death. We will not obey it.

2. The flag of our Union—a flaunting lie.

While performing the second act of the "Child of the Sun," at Astley's Theatre, London, on the 11th, Miss Menkin, riding on a dummy horse, fell through an opening in the stage, and though she received but slight injury, a scene shifter, on whom she fell, was much hurt, and may not recover for some weeks. Miss Menkin resumed her part after a short delay.

Hon. James Wilson.

Hon. James Wilson spoke at the Court House on Saturday evening to a good audience. His speech was mainly intended as an argument to prove that the seceded States were not out of the Union, and that, therefore, readmission was unnecessary—that they could not be held as Territories. His remedy against the danger of admitting secession members of Congress is the power of both branches of our national Legislature to refuse them seats. This he would do arbitrarily under the rule making each house the judge of the qualifications of its members.—We can see but little difference between this plan and that advocated by Mr. Julian. Both place the question solely under the control of Congress. When, how long, and for what cause it should be exercised, are the questions of importance.

Julian would favor keeping out all Congressmen, from late rebel States, until said States adopted what he considered a republican form of Government—one in which every loyal American should have the right to vote and stand equal with every other before the law, without regard to color. Mr. Wilson would probably not wait so long.—Lafayette Journal.

From the Indianapolis Herald. Kicking Out of the Traces.

We notice that several prominent Republican journals feel no disposition to follow the lead of the Indianapolis Journal. They are unwilling to be parties to any deception in regard to the status of the Republican party upon the issue of negro suffrage and kindred topics, and are determined they shall be stated fairly and unequivocally. We give the following items from several leading Republican papers to show they will not submit to the dictation of Gov. Morton's Court Organ. Says the Lafayette Journal:

"CRAZY HARPER."—The Indianapolis Journal thinks that Harper, of the Warren Republican, is crazy. If so, there is a most wonderful amount of method in his madness. Harper can console himself with the reflection that radical men, reformers in advance of their time, have always been considered crazy by men who in after years are glad to adopt their opinions. The Indianapolis Journal having, however, pronounced him crazy, he must be content to labor under that reputation for a generation. That paper always speaks ex cathedra, and is perfectly competent to define, and fix irrevocably the status of every man in the State that presumes to differ with it.

Says the Warren Republican: "AMEN AND AMEN."—The Warren Republican, a sprightly paper, edited by a crazy man named Harper, wants to quit wrangling about negro suffrage in the South, and make the issue a home one."—Indiana State Journal, October 23.

"Remarks: Thank you, gentlemen, for the compliment. "Because: We know a negro in this State, who, in charging a rebel fort, as a Union soldier, had a leg shot off by a cannon ball—but he survived it, and today stands a maimed soldier of the Republic denied the right of suffrage by the Indiana State Journal; while we think from considerations of patriotism, courage and honesty, he is much more entitled to a vote than is either the editor of said journal or the owner of it.

"CRAZY HARPER."

The Delaware County Free Press talks in this wise:

"Why, Mr. Journal, do you oppose the 'forcing' of the Union party into advocating this new issue, this new test, negro suffrage? Are you opposed to negro suffrage? and do you propose to array the Union party against it? If you do, we can assure you most frankly that we shall not be with you in your enterprise. As the editor of the official organ of the State, with an eye single to the loaves and fishes, you may see good reasons for catering to the popular prejudice against the enfranchisement of the negro, for the purpose of retaining public patronage, but we neither admire your style of philanthropy, nor your candor (?) as a public journalist. Why not meet this question openly and candidly? Why not advocate the right, as a party? Your answer is, 'It will defeat the party.' How do you know? Have you tried the experiment? Suppose that it would, does that make it right for loyal men to oppose a just and righteous?"

"This a candid admission of the fact that the Journal man desires to shake off the issue of negro suffrage. If the radicals will just keep cool, stifle their convictions of right, and quietly permit the new pilots of the Union party to run it around the issue of negro suffrage, the party won't be troubled with that issue 'very long.' That is just what we think, but we intend to speak our opinions upon this subject, in the Union party, if we cannot out of it if we must. We are in favor of universal suffrage, not only in the south, but in the North; not only in South Carolina, but in Indiana; and we shall oppose all parties which place themselves in opposition to that just and righteous principle, as well as criticize the conduct of parties which take neutral grounds upon the issue."

Judging from these manifestations, we think that the central organ has about all it can do to keep its own party press with in the traces—if that job is possible.

Are you Afflicted?

Go at once to the Crane House and consult Madam FERRARD, the Celebrated Female Physician. Her skill in the treatment of all old Chronic Affections is undoubted, as is already evidenced by the testimony or invasions in Crawfordsville, who are now using her remedies.

Let those who have doubted the virtues of Bull's Cedron Bitters, if any such there be, read the following certificates from gentlemen well known in this community, and doubt no more. It is general introduction into the army will save the lives of thousands of our soldiers.

We, the undersigned, have seen the good effects produced by the use of Dr. John Bull's Cedron Bitters in cases of general debility and prostration of the system, and believe its general use would prevent disease and relieve much suffering. Among our soldiers, particularly would this be the case, especially those who are exposed to miasmatic influences in the Southern climate.
