

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND.

Saturday, April 13, 1867.

THE NEWS.

Mrs. Major Green, supposed to be a Southern lady, was killed at Columbus, Ohio while endeavoring to get upon a railroad car.

Heavy floods have occurred in England and Ireland.

It is said that the King of Prussia, will visit the Paris exposition in May.

Six British gunboats are now ready for service on the lakes.

Our Legislature has passed a law making it an offense punishable by a fine to trap, net, shoot, or seine fish, in any of the lakes, rivers, or small streams of the State, for a period of two years, or between the months of May or September thereafter. The Ohio and St. Joseph Rivers are excepted.

Senator Wilson and Henry A. Wise had an interview during the former's visit to Richmond. The Senator said that the chance of obtaining the negro vote for the Radicals was not so favorable as he anticipated, and that if such a negro delegation as occurred on the 2d inst., were to take place in New York, there would be a riot.

The minutes of the Philadelphia Annual Conference show that in that conference there are now 651 preachers, 57,887 members, 562 churches, a value of $2,283,290. There are also 88 parsonages, worth $18,900; 624 Sunday-schools, and 65,539 scholars. The contributions during the last year amount to $737,516 from Sunday-schools and church contributions.

Negro suffrage was yesterday voted down by a decided majority in the New Jersey Legislature.

There is a speck of trouble brewing between England and Spain. The latter power refuses satisfaction in the case of the Tornado, and England has dispatched a fleet to enforce it.

The prospect of war between France and Prussia has caused a large number of United States bonds to be forwarded to the London market, and a depreciation in consequence.

It is said by the knowing ones that our acquisition of the Russian-American possessions is like getting the shell of the orange after it has been sucked. The beavers and animals of "that ill" which once made the icy regions valuable have been hunted out.

The citizens of San Francisco have contributed $23,000 toward the Southern Relief Fund.

At the meeting of the Methodist Conference Tuesday, in New York, the Secretary stated that there will be a deficiency of $150,000 at the close of the present year.

A fearful accident occurred at Petrolia, G. W., on Sunday night. A baker's shop and residence took fire, and two of his daughters, aged twenty-one and eight years, perished in the flames.

The Legislature of North Carolina has passed a law punishing horse stealing with death.

Sterling Price & Co. are commission merchants in St. Louis.

The Pennsylvania Legislature has passed an act abolishing the State tax on personal property, and substituting therefor a levy of $300,000 apportioned upon the different counties of the State, according to population.

The ball is rolling. The municipal election in Hartford, Conn., was carried by the Democrats Tuesday by 600 majority, a gain of 120 upon the vote of last week.

A distinguished Methodist announced in the Conference held in New York, that the Drew Theological Institute at Carmel, New Jersey, would hereafter be open to negroes as well as to whites.

The nine hundred and fifty-acre Daniel Webster farm at Hanover, New Hampshire, is for sale—the furniture used by the Great Exponent included.

A fever has broken out in the Philadelphia County Prison which has attacked not only a number of the inmates, but also one of the Inspectors of that institution, Hon. Joseph R. Chandler, and some of the officers.

The Zanesville Courier complains of the scarcity of dwelling houses in that city, and says that not less than fifty families there have been compelled to give up house-keeping.

Victor Emanuel has sent the cross and title of a "Chevalier" of the Order of St. Maurice and St. Lawrence to Mr. James Geddes Day, of New York, in acknowledgment of his intentions to Italian officers and sympathy with Italian liberty.

A distinguished London surgeon has taken the lecture room to restore the ladies in regard to the "cystitis fallacy." He says the "organisms" are neither entozoa, nor epizoia, but only entozoa, which are comparatively harmless.

The Democrats of Brooklyn inform their friends in other sections that they shall ask no places on the State ticket for the Constitutional Convention, because they can elect their best men on the local or Senate District ticket.

Deak, the Hungarian statesman, has an income of not more than $1,250 a year, and yet he has invariably refused to accept any office or emolument or any material testimonial of the gratitude of his countrymen. During the Parliamentary session he lodges economically at one of the hotels of Pesth, and during the recess he lives with a relative in the country. He devoted a large share of his income to charity.

Maximilian is said to be in a bad fix. He is surrounded by the Republican troops, and is anxious to make his escape, and get back to Europe.

The threatening aspect between France and Russia sent golden Tuesday nearly three per cent. A war in Europe would send our bonds back with a rush.

Mr. Pullman, of Chicago, has fixed up a hotel on wheels, which is one of six cars, intended to run between Chicago and New York without change.

The progress of the registry in Washington City, shows distinctly the purpose of the great mass of the whites to abstain from voting, and leave the municipal government to the management of the negroes.

A Mississippi paper says that emigration passes through that State to Texas mainly on account of the lack of freights.

More of the Reaction.

The Democracy, last fall, carried the city of Albany, N. Y., by a majority only of two hundred and fifty. This spring, at a hotly contested municipal election, they have succeeded by a majority of seventeen hundred, being a Democratic gain of fifteen hundred. This large increase in the Democratic strength in the Capitol of the Empire State, happening so soon after the Democratic victory in Connecticut, is significant that the tide of revolution is now running steadily in the Democratic direction.

Connected with it are large Democratic gains generally, in the township elections throughout the West.

Radicism has reached the height of its power and influence, and from this time, it may certainly be predicted, will go into a rapid decline. The emigration into the Democratic party has commenced.

Out of Work.

The Indianapolis Herald says: We find the following item in one of our exchanges:

"Five thousand men are out of work in Pittsburgh."

How is this? Pittsburg is a manufacturing city and her manufacturers are protected by an almost prohibitory tariff—yet five thousand of her artisans and operatives, as we are informed, are out of work. In New England, also, after an increase of tariff, the wages of the laborers are reduced not only, but thousands who have no other means of subsistence are thrown out of employ. The object of a high tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country, but the practical workings of the system demonstrate that it is only the capitalist, the owners of manufacturing establishments, who are benefited by it. The profits which a tariff is to protect American labor, or rather that is the argument which the so-called protectionists use to fasten such a policy upon the country,