PETTY PARTIZANISM.

The three things denominated commissioners of this county showed their littleness of soul and narrow partizanship at their last session by making it a piece of their general littleness to cut down the bills of democrats who might have claims against the county. For instance a bill against the county from Auditor Goben, which was correct, legal and unpaid, was cut down $24; an account for an advertisement, charged at legal rates, and a small job of printing from the REVIEW office, both amounting to $20, was cut $8; the Indianapolis Sentinel had a bill for stationery against the county which had been more dangerous to the peace and welfare of the community than any secret league that countenances murder then it will have to be closely watched. If on finding persons inclined to it the organization winks at crime of this kind then indeed is it injurious to American institutions. This republic cannot tolerate such a class for an instant. If it murders one of its own class how soon may it not commence work outside if it go unpunished. The followers of Robespierre, Danton and Murat, in the French revolution of 100 years ago, could not have been more dangerous to the peace and welfare of the community than any secret league that countenances a crime such as the murder of Dr. Cronin appears to have been. A prompt, honest and thorough trial before the courts should be had of these men who have been arrested. If innocent, they and the cause they profess to be so zealous of will be uninjured; if guilty, let them suffer death the same as the sneaking, cowardly Anarchists did some 18 months since.

THE DR. CRONIN MURDER CASE.

The coroner's jury which was in session for several days in Chicago to make inquiries as to the cause of the death of Dr. Cronin, whose body was found in a sewer in that city, returned a verdict that he was murdered, and recommended that D. Coughlin, P. O. Sullivan, A. Sullivan and J. Woodruff, all Irishmen, be held to the grand jury, as from its investigations the jury considers them principals or accessories to the murder. The jury further considers that such societies as the Clan-na-Gael, a secret political organization, is injurious to American institutions.

This murder will direct more closely the attention of the American people to these secret political societies among our foreign population than anything occurring since the trial and execution of the Anarchists. If this Clan-na-Gael countenances murder then it will have to be closely watched. If on finding persons inclined to it the organization winks at crime of this kind then indeed is it injurious to American institutions. This republic cannot tolerate such a class for an instant. If it murders one of its own class how soon may it not commence work outside if it go unpunished. The followers of Robespierre, Danton and Murat, in the French revolution of 100 years ago, could not have been more dangerous to the peace and welfare of the community than any secret league that countenances a crime such as the murder of Dr. Cronin appears to have been. A prompt, honest and thorough trial before the courts should be had of these men who have been arrested. If innocent, they and the cause they profess to be so zealous of will be uninjured; if guilty, let them suffer death the same as the sneaking, cowardly Anarchists did some 18 months since.

JOHNSTOWN.

It is remarkable the energy displayed by many people under trying and soul harrowing circumstances. There is a fit instance of this in the work now going on at Johnstown, Penn. Although no city in America was ever more effectually wiped from the face of the earth, no place, in proportion to population, where more lives were lost, no place where more men were completely ruined financially, they are nevertheless going right to work to rebuild Johnstown, and in a year from now there will be little to remind the world of this great calamity of three weeks ago save in the memory of the sufferers. The merchants left, who did business there before the calamity, are to be given long credit in the purchase of goods and are opening up in temporary quarters ready to receive old customers, houses are to be erected at once and as rapidly as possible, the iron works which were completely submerged by the waters and a loss of many millions of dollars entailed upon the proprietors, have several hundred employees already at work, and a spirit of wonderful energy and determination to overcome misfortune seems to pervade the people of that locality. They exhibit in this the American characteristic—to triumph under whatever adverse circumstances may surround them. It was this kind of vim and will that rebuilt Chicago and would do so again if it should be destroyed.

THE MINERS' SITUATION.

The situation of the thousands of miners in Clay county is becoming decidedly interesting in more respects than one. There are large numbers of these hard working men who with their families are on the verge of starvation. Appeals for assistance have been made and in a small way responded to. It is really now a contest between capital and labor, with the advantages greatly in favor of capital. The mines are owned by wealthy men who reside in Chicago. These men constitute a syndicate to reduce the price of labor, but at every opportunity to increase the price of coal. The serfs of Russia, the peons of Mexico and the colored element of the South, are in but little worse condition than the miners of Clay county at this time. In this free country of schools, of a variable climate, of increasing wealth and prosperity, of many millionaires, what a spectacle this presents! Laboring men and women clamoring for bread! Surely there is something greatly out of joint in the financial machinery of this country when such things continue to exist. Is it to be marveled at that such organizations as Anarchists exist, that laboring men strike so frequently, and that we have "hard times" so often? The financial policy of this country is but the opening chorus of a program full of dangers, starvation and trouble to the people. The wealth which has been piled up in such monumental quantities will be pulled down. Those who have sown the wind will reap the whirlwind.

VETOES THE COMPULSORY EDUCATION BILL.

Gov. Hill, of New York, has vetoed the compulsory educational bill on the ground that it contains sweeping and unguarded provisions offensive in their invasion of the liberty of the citizen and interference with the control of parents over their children. There are many parents of children all over the land who upon the subject of educating their children need to be interfered with. They never would send their children to school, but allow them to grow up in dense ignorance. There are thousands of parents that act just that way. Hence crime and poverty are frequent with that class. In this day and age there is no earthly excuse for parents keeping their children from school, yet many do. It does look like some law to compel parents to send their children to school at least one-third of the year until they are fourteen years of age, is needed and is essential to the preservation of good government and well-being of the people.

A GUARANTEE oil and gas company has been organized at Terre Haute with $100,000 capital, with the object in view of handling and disposing of the oil product in that field. This movement is taken in order, if possible, to fore stall and shut out the Standard or any other outsiders. These Terre Haute fellows act like children, or more like the bull that tried to throw the engine from the track. They should remember that the Standard Oil company is the giant monopoly of this country and crushes everything before it as it has done repeatedly with all would be competitors. In its own good time it will squeeze this Terre Haute pigmy concern until its members will be very glad to quit and go out of business. The Standard is one of those institutions that by specious favors grew up during the reign of the republican party from '70 to '80 and has continued to grow ever since. It represents a capital of near $100,000,000 and is nearly as powerful as the government itself, and can well ask the people "what are you going to do about it?"

MURDER BY MURDERERS.

The usual average monthly hanging by a mob occurred near Corydon, Ind., last week. They have often done down there. This time two men who had tried to kill two persons but had failed were taken to jail for trial for a mob of about 100 men broke into jail, took the two men therefrom and executed them in a few minutes without judge, jury or any forms of a trial. These 100 men are each and every one murderer. In seeking to hang criminals and avenge the law they commit a greater crime themselves. Now if a mob of 1,000 would gather and hang each one of these 100 men they could commit no greater crime than the example before them and would be just as justifiable. The State has been disgraced enough and more than enough by self-constituted conservators of the peace. The men comprising them are murderers and should be hunted down and dealt with to the utmost extent of the law.

BECUSE President Cleveland gave but $20 for some charitable purpose, last year, republican papers had a vast amount of twaddle regarding it. If President Harrison has given a cent to the Clay county coal miners' fund or a dollar to the Johnstown sufferers his organs are keeping very quiet about it, and the fact that they have not will lead the public to think that their purse strings have not yet been paid.

Most of the towns and cities of the state are adopting the new law fixing the city license for retailing liquor at $250. It will have a tendency to reduce the number of saloons in Indiana if nothing else, and is to that extent prohibitory.

As the farmers continue to pay increased prices for sugar and coffee, and notice at the same time that there is a diminished price for wheat and corn, it immediately starts them to thinking upon the question of tariff reform and protection. They observe that manufacturers are protected and competition in many things shut out, and the question comes to them, why should we not also receive some of the government's protection. Why should the government throw its arm around one portion of its citizens? Keep up your thinking honest grandees and may be you will ascertain to your own satisfaction just where the Harrison plan of running the government will lead to. It is a good time when there is no election excitement on hand to study the protection plan as desired and practiced by the republican party.

HUMAN endurance is assuredly put to a severe test when a man like Lake, the pedestrian, can accomplish the task which he completes this afternoon. What a strain on muscle, mind and nerve it must be. He walks 500 half miles in 500 half hours. Could the best muscled and boned horse in the land accomplish this by any training? Lake cannot at any time sleep over 25 minutes at once, but must be up in daylight and darkness to plod his tiresome journey through hour after hour until the 500 have passed. Any other animal than man would fall by the wayside before the work was half completed. This exhibition exhibits very conclusively the endurance, will and nerve of a human being when put to the test. Lake has given many such evidences in other cities and bids fair to give more.

JOHNSTOWN.

What is termed "An Open Letter," from that scheming firm of school book publishers, Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co., has reached this office. We have never heard of a firm that had such undying interest in the welfare of those who buy school books in Indiana as this Cincinnati concern. They are entirely too interested not to create suspicion. If they have made so little profit as they allege in their circular it is remarkable why they do not abandon the field to others who might desire to enter. We suggest that they may best further their cause by sending out less printed letters through the State, and exhibiting less anxiety regarding the operations of the new school law of this State.

IT now seems quite probable from reports daily made that the loss of life by the floods at Johnstown and vicinity will not be near so large as originally reported. Instead of 15,000 as first believed, it is thought that 5,000 will be about the maximum number of lives lost. But these last figures are enough in all pity to rank it as the leading disaster in American history.

THE continued litigation over the appointment of officers of the benevolent institutions brought about by Hovey will, he probably considers, cause the people to regard him as a plain obstinate honest man, but the majority will regard him as an official dampfhol.

Two "trusts," one in castor oil and the other in white lead have been formed in this country in the past few weeks. These trusts will control the entire trade of this country in these two articles and force the consumer to pay whatever price they dictate.
