After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES—take notice—not simply helps but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Biliousness and Dyspepsia. Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles. Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky., says: "Have practiced medicine 15 years, and find no equal to Herbine as a Liver Regulator." Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Fla., says: "A bottle of Herbine is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine in any family." Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine; it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation and is cheaper than Pills. Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Bilious Fever with one bottle. It costs but 7c per bottle and each bottle contains over 40 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Bilious or Malarial Complaint. Manufactured by The Herbine Co., (Successors to Wm. Connel), St. Louis, Mo.

The Purchase of Toll Roads.

The Board of Commissioners have ordered an election to vote upon the question of purchasing the toll gravel roads of the county, nearly all of which are situated in Union township—that is out of a total of fifty-two and one-half miles of toll gravel roads in the county, forty-one and seven-tenths miles of that is in Union township. The average amount of appraisement is $644 per mile, making a total to be paid by Union township (in case of purchase) of $26,875, which would be about one-half of one per cent. on the taxables of Union township for one year, or about fifty-five cents on the $100 for one year, or if distributed over a period of five years it would be about 11 cents on the $100 each year of the five years.

But the question is sometimes asked how about these free gravel roads that have been built by local assessment on the property benefited? Sect. 5 of the act of March 8, 1889, (the act under which the election been ordered) provides "that all the lands which shall have been assessed for the purpose of constructing free gravel roads under the laws of this State shall be exempt from taxation under this act until all the other land in the township shall have been assessed under this act an amount equal to such assessment for the construction of free gravel roads."

Which means that the lands assessed for the construction of the Crawfordville & Whitesville, the Whitesville & Ladoga, the N. G. Kessler, the John Line, the Curtis Edwards, the G. W. Paul and Geo. W. Hutton free gravel roads shall not be reassessed under this act until all the other lands in the township shall have been assessed a sum equal to the several assessments made for the construction of said gravel roads above named.

Under this act none of the lands that have been assessed for the construction of free gravel roads in this township will be reassessed to pay for the purchase of the toll roads, for the reason that the amount to be paid for the purchase of the said roads will amount to a sum less pro rata on the property that has not been assessed than what has already been paid by the benefited lands along the line of the heretofore constructed free gravel roads. Reducing (2) City Taxes.

Did you ever think of the brilliant financing done by the city government lately? It was reported with a great flourish of trumpets and tenor drum accompaniments some time ago that taxation in the city had been reduced. It was. Now see where the reduction comes in. The Board of Equalization has raised the assessment of a large number of business men in the city this week, and in consequence their taxes will be greater than last year. The city must have secured the valuable services of that eminent patriot and late city councilman, Hon. Michael Price, to instruct them how to accomplish this great plan of reducing the taxes of the people. The brilliant men who suggested this plan of reducing the taxes should be called to the aid of the U. S. Government, and their great services recognized and rewarded.

What We Can Do.

The movement to organize a business men's association is a wise one, but it takes enterprise and snap to make it a financial success. All men cannot be leaders neither can any be drones. No one should imagine their views the only and positive success, and to work with harmony with a few who must always bear the burden is the only way that much good can be accomplished. An excursion from any given point seventy miles away will bring many people into the city. They are sure to leave some money and that with all classes of business. Then there are many more chances to bring people to the city to get them here is what makes the trade. Let no one stand back and the good result by a union of workers. Money and enterprise will show what we can do.

SEVEN ACCUSED.

The Cronin Grand Jury Makes Its Report.

SULLIVAN ESCAPES INDICTMENT.

True Bills Found Against Beggs, Burke, Coughlin, O'Sullivan, Cooney, Woodruff and Kunze—The Latter's Connection with the Case.

CHARGED WITH CRONIN'S MURDER.

CHICAGO, July 1.—After sixteen days of inquest, the special grand jury on Saturday found indictments against seven men, four of whom are now locked up in the county jail to await trial for the murder of Dr. P. H. Cronin. The men indicted are:

John F. Beggs, senior guardian of the famous Camp 20 of the Clan-na-Gael, who is believed to have known something of the organizing of the mock tribunal which condemned Cronin to death.

Dan Coughlin, the ex-city detective, who is supposed to have found the active men for the work and to have been general director of the conspiracy.

Martin Burke, the Winnipeg prisoner, who is believed to be one of the men in the town at the time of the murder.

Patrick Cooney, the "Fox," who was Burke's "pal." He is now a fugitive.

P. O'Sullivan, the Lake View ice-man, whose contract with Cronin made it easy for the other conspirators to lure the doctor to death.

Frank Woodruff, alias Black, who confessed that he had carried the butchered body to its catch-basin tomb.

John Kunze, a young German. His name had not been mentioned in connection with the case until the indictment against him was returned before Judge Shepard.

Kunze was a henchman of Dan Coughlin's and accompanied the detective to Peoria when the visit was made to Ed Spellman. He is brought into criminal connection with the murder through his relation with Coughlin, against whom some new and startling evidence was adduced just previous to the adjournment of the grand jury, when it was gleaned that Coughlin had entered the Carlson cottage on the night of May 4 at just about the time the murder was done. He was driven to the place by Kunze, whose picture has been identified fully by Milkman Morten. The same picture was also identified as that of a man who had been seen around the rooms at 117 Clark street when the flat at that number had been occupied by the furniture afterward found in the Carlson cottage. Kunze had been in trouble before he became acquainted with Coughlin, and the detective protected him and made him a ready tool in his murderous schemes.

The "omnibus" indictment under which the charges were rendered against the seven men was a lengthy document in nine counts, each eclipsing the other in redundant abundance of "wherefore," "afore-said" and other similar terms with which the drawers of indictments are so prodigal.

The first count charges that the seven men conspired, fraudulently, deceitfully, maliciously, feloniously to murder Patrick Henry Cronin; the second, that they did assault and kill, with weapons unknown, the said Cronin, and inflicted bruises, wounds, lacerations and contusions, of which Cronin died; the third, that they did in such above-described manner kill Cronin. In the other counts the weapons are described as both blunt and sharp instruments; the wounds are minutely described, and with much legal verbiage the charge is reiterated against the seven men named in the indictment, and loopholes of every kind are carefully closed with adjectives and adverbs in great number. The form of the indictment is such that the State's Attorney claims all the men mentioned in it will have to stand trial together, as in the cases against the Anarchists and the "boodlers."

The most startling evidence against Dan Coughlin was reserved for the last. He was shown to be the head of the active work done in the murder. For him was left the arrangement of the details, and by him it is believed, the murderous blows were struck. It was shown before the jury that he was at the Carlson cottage the night Cronin was murdered, and the man who drove him there was the mysterious Kunze, who was indicted with him. Kunze has since disappeared, but before he left he was unguarded in his conversation, and from his own lips was obtained the most important evidence so far adduced against the conspirator in Dr. Cronin's murder. It is the belief of the grand jury, after the hearing of the evidence, that Cronin was killed by Coughlin, Cooney and Burke, and that P. O'Sullivan was present in the cottage when the blows were dealt, if not actually engaged in the bloody work.

There was considerable surprise expressed over the failure of the grand jury to include the name of Alexander Sullivan in the list of indictments, but despite the most earnest efforts the jurors were unable to secure any evidence of a nature that would justify the return of a true bill. What was heard was damning implication, and some of the jurors were anxious to include Sullivan in the indictment, but it was the attorney Longenecker claimed not to feel disconcerted over the escape of Sullivan. There was time to take up his case yet, he said. At the same time, he admitted that it would hardly be possible to show that the lawyer was a party to the conspiracy unless there should come a healthy "sneak." Sullivan's case will be taken up by the next grand jury.

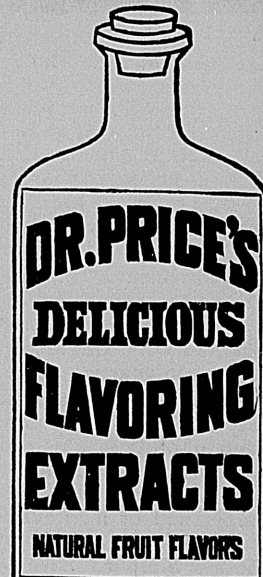

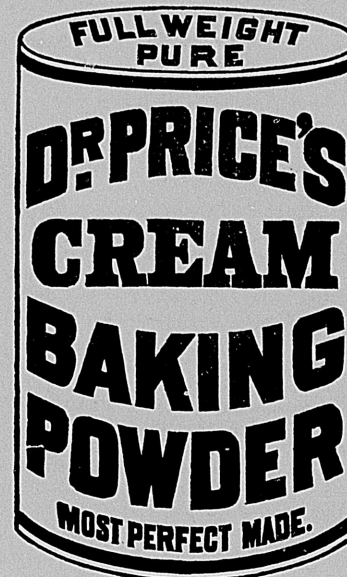

A few hours after the indictments were returned into court Lawyer John F. Beggs was seen. "I am surprised over my indictment," he said, "and there must have been wholesale perjury practiced to bring it about. I have told all I know in the case and have nothing to repeat now, save that there was never a trial in Camp 20, so far as I know, and I believe such a trial would have been impossible." Beggs is now in the county jail.

The indicted men will be called to trial some time during the July term, and it is not likely that there will be any postponement unless the police fail to get Burke back from Manitoba. There is a possibility of the prisoner making such a fight as will secure several months' delay in his extradition, but Chief Hubbard feels certain that he will eventually have the man back.

In the meantime search is being made high and low for Cooney, but so far the "Fox" has not even allowed the police to get a clew as to his whereabouts. He is wanted badly, and aid has been asked from the police all over America and Europe. If the "Fox" succeeds in escaping in spite of the present hue and cry he will certainly deserve the appellation he has been given.

The Anderson Democrat is responsible for the story that Adrian Hitt, who is building a sash and door factory in that city, has hit upon a process by which he can condense natural gas, place it in tanks and ship it to different points for use. Hitt claims that he recently reduced 800 quarts of natural gas to one quart, bottled it, and, running a line to an ordinary burner, furnished a blaze for 12 hours. When solidified the gas is of a dark gray color and of the consistency of butter.

Crawfordsville did not celebrate the Fourth. We blowed ourselves elsewhere. Six hundred and sixty-two people vacated the city to go beyond the limits where the conditions were more favorable to a proper consideration of the glorious day, when our country gave the monarchs of the Old World the rattle-dazzle and marched on to a prosperous career to the tune of Yankee Doodle, or something we don't remember. The festive cackle of the fire-cracker, the boom of the torpedo, and the majestic stride of Buck Brothers are all we had to remind us that the 4th still reigns and Crawfordville. Rah!
