EXAMINING THE BOOKS

One examination that should have a beneficial effect has been made in the books of the auditor's office, previous to its occupancy by the present incumbent. From the fact that the people have had to pay such enormous prices for the construction of gravel roads, there have been attempted re-assessments of them, that two treasurers have been short in their accounts, and other matters, have led people to believe that crooked work of some kind had been going on for some years past, and they have demanded that the books be examined, and if dishonest work be found that the guilty parties, if discovered, be punished. The Review published last week an account of something over $400 being drawn on a school fund loan, in which the parties interested, or supposed to be, know nothing about it. Now let the guilty party be run down, wherever he may be, and punished. He has committed a crime. Let him, when the facts are proven, whatever may be his politics, republican or democrat, be given a term behind the bars at Michigan City. The public hates a thief, whether he be arrayed in rags or fine linen. We know not who received this money, have heard no names mentioned, but some one has been guilty of an offense that should not be condoned, but upon whom the utmost rigors of the law should be visited. The people have been led enough, now let the bleeding come from the other side. Some one has virtually stolen $400 from the county. He is no better than the thief who enters your premises at midnight. We trust further examinations will be made, and the rottenness known to have existed fully brought to light. The tax payers demand it. Those who pay out their money to support the county have a right to know all about the matter.

BOOMING HILL.

The efforts to boom Gov. Hill for the candidacy for president upon the democratic ticket in 1892 would seem to be somewhat premature. Hill is no better nor worse than a score of other prominent democrats in the Union, and would make no better race than Black, of Illinois, Gray, of this State, and others for the same position. There must hereafter be some other claim than simply that he is from New York, and may carry a certain wing of the democracy with him. The party will demand, and correctly too, that the candidate shall have some views and actions outside the interests of his own State. He has made probably a very good Governor of New York, but this alone does not indicate that he would make a good president of the United States. In fact we consider that a wise move would be the selection of a candidate in 1892 from some locality other than New York. It has never been heretofore any particular indication that a candidate selected from that commonwealth would secure a victory for the party. Viewing the political situation for the past 24 years, can anyone indicate any political sagacity particularly in selecting candidates for the national contest exclusively from New York? Would not victory been as likely to have been attained by the choice from some other section of the country. This business of moulding everything in the interest of the New York democracy and showing an indifference to the interest of other sections should cease. Change this old, stereotyped, political program and select for a time at least the candidates for political honors somewhere else than in New York. If they be true democrats in New York they will favor and cordially support a candidate for president from some other State as ardently as from their own. We think there is nothing particularly wise nor strategic politically in booming Hill, at the present time at least.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.

The statement made from the Government office at Washington shows that the public debt was reduced last year about $88,000,000, and the nation still owes about $1,600,000,000. It will require a long time yet to extinguish this debt in spite of the favorable showing given by the treasurer's last report. In August 1885 the public debt, we believe, was something near $2,300,000,000, yet after the twenty-four years since not half of this sum has been wiped out. It is questionable if it is paid off entire within thirty years to come in spite of predictions of asserted financiers to the contrary. It would seem that the debt is used and has been for years as a means for capitalists to increase their wealth. That seems a part of the financing that has been prevalent most of the time. If not, why not use the immense supplies of money in the vaults of the treasury in paying it off and reducing it that much? Good financing in the interest of the people would have compelled those to whom the government is indebted to have received their pay in silver, paper, government certificates, or any other money used in the commerce and every day business of the country, and at any time the government was in a position to pay it. If a poor laboring man is paid in silver or paper for any claim he may have against the nation why should not a bond holder be likewise served? The public debt has caused class legislation; has made classes among the people and made many men exceedingly millionaires. If it is a "public blessing," as one of the men made wealthy by it alleged, at one time, the great majority of the American people have as yet failed to realize it.

A FOOL from the wilds of Hancock county, named Yancy, has assumed the office of coal oil inspector of this State, under a bogus appointment by Hovey, who has as much right to make the appointment as he would to appoint a postmaster. The authority for the appointment of oil inspector belongs to the legislature. Yancy has assumed the position with a great flourish of trumpets, has appointed deputies in each district of the State, and threatens to arrest the other inspector, etc. The fool has very probably had little to do with official positions and this counterfeit appointment has turned his head. He will retire soon with drooping feathers, as about all Hovey's attempts to turn aside legislative appointments have as yet come to nothing.

THE BOOK "TRUST" BEATEN.

The school book trust, that is, the firm of Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co., have probably received sufficient hint by this time to indicate to it that in the matter of supplying school books for Indiana their time is about up for the present. A new incorporated firm, among them Heilmann, of Evansville, Fleming, of Ft. Wayne, Murdock, of Michigan City, and other well known citizens, propose to furnish school books as good as heretofore and at lower stipulated prices. The firm proposes to comply with the requirements of the new school law in every respect. This is enough. The contract should be given them. The Cincinnati firm can retire, not very gracefully perhaps, but can go all the same. The new firm is exclusively Indiana also, and the money spent here will remain. This is some advantage, but nothing to compare in being rid of the "trust" which for years has compelled parents of children to pay such gouging prices for school books.

RAISING ASSESSMENTS.

The raising of assessments by a board of equalization is in some respects very unjust. It seems to act on the principle with many who have had their assessments increased from the figures furnished to the assessor by them that they are purjurers and have not sworn to the truth. Now we do not believe this is the correct view to take. The majority of men furnishing a detailed statement of their property do so honestly with a full knowledge of the light in which false swearing will be held. Some of course act dishonestly and swear falsely regarding their property, but boards of equalization should aim to find these out and not make indiscriminate selections. No man knows the value of property generally so well as the owner of it, and boards of equalization may appraise it entirely too high for taxation compared to others. It is hardly fair unless the owner of the property is positively known to have sworn falsely to raise its valuation.

It would seem that prize fighting, notwithstanding the laws in most States against it, is becoming recognized in this country as one of the fine or useful arts. A prize fighter receives as much attention from the people now-a-days as any orator or distinguished statesman, and the more men he can successfully whip the more dollars are given him. John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrain's names have been repeated much oftener and received much more lengthy notices through the daily papers than President Harrison has for months past. They seemed to be heroes in the estimation of thousands of people. The money flows in rapidly at any of their entertainments and thousands of people applaud them. Their business is to mash faces, break bones and cause blood to flow. The more neatly and expeditiously they can do this the more money and "honor" to them. This American civilization and refinement is assuredly a wonderful thing in some respects—especially that having prize fighting features.

A FEW of the leading republicans here who think they control all administration appointments to be made from this locality have been acting very contemptibly toward Mr. Cloufelter, who some time since was tendered a government position. They, it is understood, have written very abusive letters regarding the merits and standing of Mr. C. to the appointing powers at Washington, and urging that it not be made. This was done simply because they were not consulted in the matter. His standing is fully as good if not better than the writers of these letters, and the fact that he was not seeking any position whatever, and does not desire one, should have been incentive enough to these individuals to know that it was not necessary to vilify him. Judging from some of the specimen appointments made by this immaculate ring of small politicians the public at least will consider that it is time to relieve them from further service in that line.

THE REVIEW is not foremost the purchase of the toll roads at all if it will add to the advancement and prosperity of Crawfordville, but it does object to paying a high price for them in order to put money into the pockets of a few owners. The money to buy them it should be understood comes from all the people who pay taxes. Taxation is high enough at all times. Several of these alleged gravel roads are but little better than dirt roads, and in all fairness the owners have had no right to collect toll for travel over them from anybody. They are only too glad, many of them, to sell them to the township. We are all interested in the growth of our city and its increase in business, but we should at least be careful in attaining that end that we do not act recklessly in doing so, or at least so move in the matter that hereafter we should regret it.

VERMILION county has employed two experts to go over some records to look after some supposed crookedness of some officials. The "expert" business is a great fraud and they will find it out over there. Montgomery county employed two alleged experts a year or two ago. They were paid $5 per day and were the only ones who knew whether they put in full days' work. The county paid them about $3,000 and their "developments" amounted to but very little.

SOME slick swindler has found a method for transporting old potatoes into new ones. He soaks them in a preparation that makes the rough outer skin peel off and leaves the thin inner skin, making them, in appearance, so much like new vegetables that nine out of ten people cannot tell the difference. There is a way to detect the deception, however, for the peeling on the old ones will not scrape and that on the new ones will.

THE REVIEW's account of the manner by which $450 was taken from the county treasurer on a warrant drawn for some person supposed to be borrowing school fund money a few years ago has aroused considerable interest among a few republicans at least. A few exposures like this and the people can probably surmise where much of the gravel road money has gone to and their extreme cost accounted for.

DURING the past six months, on an average, wages have declined fully 20 per cent., the bottom has not yet been reached. Strikes innumerable will ensue, great losses to capital and labor will result, but in the end, labor, though better organized than ever, will be compelled to succumb to the demands of capital and monopoly.

A MINNEAPOLIS man was offered $80,000 for a three year old colt of great promise, last week, but refused it. Ten chances to one that colt will die before he has made a fourth of that sum out of him.

This administration is looking after family relations: Corporal Tanner has just appointed his daughter, a girl just out of school, to be his confidential clerk at a salary of $1,800 a year. Quite a snug salary to step into right out of school. Miss Tanner's father is a very prudent man. He proposes to "make hay while the sun shines," for he knows there are breakers and storms ahead.

FROM reliable sources, the number who perished in the Conemaugh valley at the Johnstown disaster, is estimated in the vicinity of 10,000. The amount of relief sent there is now considerably over a million dollars.

LAKE MAXINKUCKEE.

During the warm and sweltering days anyone who can is hunting some place that is cool and pleasant and those who cannot are staying at home with an every day wish that they had been born lucky. The one place in Hoosierdom which is now demanding attention is that beautiful body of water Lake Maxinkuckee. Surrounding it is the costly cottages with the many crowds of people always ready to welcome a stranger. The boats glide here and there loaded with many passengers while the oldest tars manage the sail boats which stand like white monuments all over the water. There are quite a number of campers who are using tents, while many are stopping at the hotels. The assembly building where such able ministers as Talmage and Sam Jones will soon deliver sermons is almost completed and is a mammoth affair. Surrounding the depot our fellow townsman, D. W. Cox, has made a haven, for a more beautiful spot is hard to find and it is safe to say the Vandalia folks have spent thousands of dollars in beautifying the place. Agent Edgeworth of this city paid the place his first visit Sunday and saw everything though neither he nor his gentlemanly and accommodating operator, Tim Ward, caught nary a fish. Edgeworth came near falling in the water for which act a reward would have been paid. The Alamo band will visit the lake Sunday, July 21, when it is expected a large crowd will be there. Knapp's hotel is the most popular place to stop and the people from this part of the country are fast finding it out. The Vandalia is still running its Sunday excursions which are fast growing in popularity. The train leaves this city Sunday morning at 6:30, the fare is only two dollars and you have ample time to see all the sights. No one should fail to make the trip.

A Daring Jump.

The following account of a daring ascension is taken from the Peoria Herald. Simms is a Montgomery county boy and is quite well known. He is a son of W. H. Simms, a merchant of Wayne town. "Ed Simms, the sailor, had a most thrilling experience at Fort Madison, Iowa, on the 4th. Simms is Peoria's crack balloonist. He is really as artistic and far more daring than Baldwin, of Quincy, who is now rated as the champion balloonist of the world. Simms went over to Fort Madison and made the ascension and parachute drop. The parachute fell right in the middle of the Mississippi river. Simms saw his danger and as the parachute neared the water he jumped the bar and made a dive. As soon as he rose to the surface a number of boats surrounded him and he was hauled in. The people of Fort Madison were wild in their expressions of delight. Simms rode to the depot in the mayor's carriage and was escorted by a brass band.

Card of Thanks.

BRAZIL, IND., July 3, 1889.

ED. REVIEW:

By a vote of the miners' representatives in convention assembled I have the honor of tendering you and the good people of Crawfordville our most sincere thanks for the kind and generous spirit shown our committee, Messrs. Russell and Morgan, while in your city. The miners will remember you in years to come. You may state that there is no change in the situation at this writing. The miners are enduring much privation and want, and only ask a fair day's pay for a fair day's work. In short we want arbitration. Very truly,
J. A. CHOUSE,
Sec'y Miners' Relief Com.

Relieved by Death.

Mr. Robert F. Young, whose face had become somewhat familiar on our streets last winter and spring from an immense cancer growing upon it, died at the hospital in Cincinnati on Saturday morning last. Mr. Y. went there some two months ago for treatment and for a time appeared in a fair way to recovery, but a change for worse occurred a few days ago and he died as stated on Saturday. His remains were brought to Shannondale and interred on Monday.

"Like sunshine in a shady place,"
The poet called a woman's face
That gladdened all who saw its beauty.

A face, no doubt, that beamed with health,
That blessing which is more than wealth.

And lightens every daily duty.
O how can woman, whose hard life
With many a wearing pain is rife,
Escape the grasp of such affliction,
And be a power to bless and cheer?
The answer comes both swift and clear—

THE VILLAGE BLACKSMITH.

Under a spreading chestnut tree
The village blacksmith stands,
And in a brimming basin he
Would wash his brawny hands;
But something else than water clean
His sooty palm demands.

Week in, week out, from morn till night,
He might have rubbed, I trow,
Had I not given him a cake
Of IVORY SOAP, when, lo!
Full soon those honest hands of his
Were spotless as the snow.

And when the soap escaped his grasp,
With wonder he did note
That on the water's surface dark
The cleansing bar did float,
As swims upon a turbid lake
A pearl white fairy boat.

"Thanks, thanks," said he, "my worthy friend,
For this which thou hast brought;
No village blacksmith should forget
The facts this Ivory Soap has taught:
For hands like mine it is the best
That can be found or bought."

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the Ivory," they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.
