"We are becoming a nation of badge wearers," said one of our most prominent citizens on the streets recently, upon noting the passers by with their secret society emblems, labor union enigmas, G. A. R. indicators and traveling eye catchers. We believe ourselves justified in agreeing with the gentleman. Still it's a good thing. If you can't wear anything else wear the red, white and blue, signifying that you're a patriotic American citizen, or a blue ribbon, heralding the announcement that you are down on the red eye.

One of the prominent men in Wabash College matters, in speaking a few days ago as to why the college does not build a new chapel, and why they don't do this, that and the other thing many people would like to see done about the college, said that it is not the proper will, but the proper amount of money. A few years ago the funds of the college were invested so as to bring quite a nice rate of interest but of late years this rate has steadily decreased until now at a low rate of interest on the college funds very little money is left after paying necessary expenses. The college is sound and healthy financially but when it comes to putting up expensive buildings they need aid. Who will be the first to respond with the cash? Wabash needs a new chapel.

"Fight, Fight!"

Early Wednesday morning when the little birds were chanting glad choruses in praise of nature, and rosy-fingered dawn was illuminating with its first rays the business like pavements surrounding the Elston Bank, two dusky sons of Africa could be seen opening up the first act of an exciting day with an interesting altercation. Joe Jones and Luther Monroe were engaged in disputing the question as to which is the better man. The former has a good delivery and his argument is quite convincing; he made his gestures with a razor. The latter named gentleman is short, round, with an open and trusting countenance and has a powerful voice, which when filed has the harmonious sound of a bass viol; he emphasized his remarks with a beautiful brick bat of the latest pattern. Jones had the disadvantage of having a shorter "reach" than Monroe and after making several ineffective rents in the air his opponent laid down the Monroe doctrine by smashing Jones' noble physiognomy with the aforesaid brick bat. Shortly after the majestic form of Buck Brothers came gliding down the avenue and took Monsieur Jones in charge. The latter donated the usual amount to the school fund and Monroe is still roaming at large.

Where is Prof. Case Arnold?

There is a colored man in the city who was doing wonderful things in the saloons of the "Big Four" last night, on north Third street, between Main and Cherry. He calls himself Mackey Hampton here and he is at home where found. He ate glass, knife blades and such, drank a bucket of water which he would spit on the floor after drinking and on a wagger drank fifteen large glasses of beer in succession. After drinking the bucket of water he went to the center of Third street and spat it against the walls of the building while standing there. He proposes to eat a chicken, alive, feathers thrown in, and also a pup four months old. Judging from his ability at drinking water he would probably be a good investment for the city to substitute for the fire department to save expenses. He is also a marvelous high kicker. —Terre Haute Express.

The Great Shoot.

On Wednesday afternoon, following the wild west performance, the great shooting match between the world renowned Capt. Bogardus and our own Ed Voris took place in the presence of many hundreds of spectators, all eager to see their townsmen win. A purse of $50 had been offered Voris provided he would defeat Bogardus in a 50 live bird shoot. When time was called the weather was somewhat threatening and the day was a little darker than was desirable. The match was close and exciting throughout and owing to the darkness was closed with the 25th bird, at which time Bogardus had 23 dead birds and Voris the same number. One of the birds Voris missed he didn't see at all, otherwise we believe he would now have one more scalp added to his belt.

Courtney vs. Ramsey.

The mighty Judge reclined luxuriously in his cushion backed chair sleeping to ease the pain of hard thinking incidental to dealing with the thousands of cases which daily through his court. The gay and handsome Courtney spied his honor on the balcony above, procured a three foot fire cracker, fixed it on a fishing pole and told the good people to watch him as he went through the process of arousing the sleeping beauty. The fire cracker was lighted, placed close to the ample proboscis of his excellency and the thousand admiring people awaited developments. Mr. Ramsey now takes his naps off a mantle piece.

Fred Austin Removed.

Fred Austin has been removed from the office of special pension agent and in his removal we believe we speak the sentiments of every one when we say there never was a fairer, more competent gentleman in the employ of the government. During his stay in the city Mr. Austin has made hosts of friends who now regret to see him leave them. He had nothing to do with politics and handled every claim without the slightest partiality, but he was a democrat and had to go. Mr. Austin and his estimable wife left for their home in Missouri, Monday. May success attend their every undertaking.

Said a gentleman in a philosophic strain the other day: "Some very peculiar things turn up in this world of ours. When I was in college we had our brilliant men, whom all expected to see occupying high places in society at no distant day, we had our quiet and sober men, fit for judges, and we had our harum scarum fellows from whom no one expected anything. One of these latter fellows I saw only a few days ago acting as judge, and before him was brought up one of the quietest fellows in college, drunken, dirty and bloated with whiskey. The men were formerly classmates with promising futures, but the wheel had taken a funny twist and I saw the harum scarum sentence his former quiet classmate to jail as a common drunkard. One of the brilliant fellows went west, ran for office, got into a dispute with his opponent and was killed, his murderer being lynched for the offence by a lawless mob." Strange things happen truly. The rich become poor, the poor rich, the insignificant great, etc. and the busy world keeps moving on letting its actors take care of themselves as best they may.

The camping party just returned from Pine Hills report the mosquitoes very bad in that locality. Bob Thompson says just as he was retiring one evening a very large mosquito came in, threw him out of the bed and took possession for the night. He told the mosquito it had lots of gall and the latter, who happened to be an old timer said it acquired that quality in a campaign with Caesar through Europe many centuries ago.

The School Book Question.

The following letter was received by County Supt. Zuck in regard to the adoption of the new series of school books. There will be a meeting of the trustees July 24 to take some action in regard to their adoption in this county:

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., July 15, 1889.

MR. JOHN S. ZUCK, Co. Supt.:

We are reliably informed that certain interested parties in some parts of the State are circulating a report that the Indiana school book company will not be prepared to furnish the books recently awarded to them by the textbook commissioners in time to put them in use in the schools which will begin in September next. The law for furnishing text-books to the common schools (see page 75, acts of 1889) gives the contractors 90 days in which to fill the requisitions for books. We wish to say that we will not require the time given us by law in filling orders for the coming fall. We have made arrangements to fill promptly all requisitions that come in for books to be used in schools beginning at that time. School officers should, however, give us from 15 to 20 days' time in which to get the books shipped and delivered. Hence it is important that all county superintendents should confer with the school trustees of their counties without delay, so that requisitions for books needed in the fall term can be made early. We will try to arrange for one of our agents to meet with you and your various corporation and township trustees, show samples of our books, and devise a basis of arriving at the number and kind of books needed, and the best plan for distributing. We will be obliged if you will send us immediately the dates that your town and city schools will begin.

If you get any information where agents for other books or other persons interested are trying to defeat the provisions and objects of this law we will deem it a favor if you will advise us. We desire from the beginning to act in harmony with all school officials of the State, and will be glad if all such will communicate freely with us in reference to any subject connected with this matter which they wish explained. The best endorsement that we have for our books is the resolution passed by the State board of education. We hope for an early reply as to date when a meeting can be had.

Very respectfully,
INDIANA SCHOOL BOOK CO.

Disappeared.

Merret Strain, a wealthy and respected farmer and fine stock producer near Colfax, left in the night, July 2, saying he would be gone one week to attend a meeting, and has not been heard of since. Rumor has it now that a man's wife named Shull, a tenant on the Strain farm, disappeared on the same day, returning at night and taking her child, a boy about nine years old, and has not since returned. Mr. Strain took with him about $5,000 in cash. Mrs. Strain, with her three children, is left in great distress, not knowing if her husband is dead or playing truant. Any information leading to his whereabouts will be thankfully received by the wife.

Boy Badly Burned.

Last Friday a son of Charley Pickett, living near Alamo was in the creek bathing with some companions when two men dove up and watched the boys for some time. One of them told young Pickett, who is but 12 years old, to go to the wagon and get a cartridge out of a box and they would show them some fun. In finding it he struck a match, which ignited some powder that was in the box, burning his hands and arms badly. He could not see for several days. As soon as they boy was burned the strangers left without offering him any assistance.

Thrown from a Horse.

Sam Hays, of Waynetown, was riding a vicious horse Friday, when it threw him near the residence of Wm. Lucas. In falling he struck the road so hard it broke one bone of his leg and dislocated another. He is lying at his home and the attending physicians fear that the foot will have to be amputated. Hays is well known in this city formerly residing here. He is a son of Rev. F. M. Hays.

Humphrey & Reeves.

W. E. Humphrey and William Reeves, two of our most promising young legal lights have formed a partnership and have taken an office in the Ornbau block. William Humphries is a graduate of Wabash College and a gentleman of pronounced oratorical ability, while Billy Reeves is known to every one. We bespeak for the young men a liberal patronage by the people of Montgomery county.

Caught Her Hand.

A little girl of James Ingersoll, Jr.'s, living in Ripley township, was watching her father unload hay and place it in the barn last Friday when by some means her hand caught in the ropes dragging her to the pulleys. It was torn up horribly and 'tis found that it will have to be amputated.

WRECKED TRAINS.

Two Men Killed and Twenty Injured Near Shamokin, Pa.—Several Passengers Badly Hurt Near Mt. Carmel, Ill.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., July 18.—Wednesday evening a train on the Pennsylvania road carrying miners to their homes was wrecked near this place. John Roush, married, and Aaron Shippe, single, were killed. Twenty were more or less seriously injured. The passenger train was running at its regular speed, when the miners who were standing on the rear platform of the train saw two freight cars rushing down upon them. The cars had become detached at some colliery and were running wild down the heavy grade. The miners shouted to their companions to jump, which many of them did from the windows and platforms of the coaches, but the runaway cars overtook the train before all were out, telescoping the cars with the above result.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Captain Marshall's estimates of appropriations for improvements at Chicago harbor and vicinity aggregate $1,283,000. From La Salle to Joliet, where it will be less than forty miles from Chicago, the channel can be extended for $3,500,000.

FOUR LIVES LOST.

Peculiar Manner in Which Death Came to a Party of Men at Lincoln, Neb.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 18.—At 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon four men lost their lives in this city under peculiar circumstances. A watch was dropped in a cess-pool and the men were endeavoring to recover it. They dug a hole at the side of the pool. The hole was filled with water by the rain. One man stood on a ladder above the water and made an opening into the cess-pool. The foul air and gas rushed out and overcame him, and he fell into the water. A friend went to his assistance and was likewise overcome. One by one seven men fell into the water, which by this time was full of muck and slime from the vault. Three men were rescued, some by men who afterwards perished in attempting to save the others. The dead are: James Crawford, bricklayer; Alfred Kunkler, laborer; John Cleary, blacksmith; and Frank Malone, plasterer. Crawford and Cleary were married.
