SOLDIERS' RE-UNION.

The 63rd Boys in Camp Two Days At Waynetown.

The surviving members of the gallant 63rd Reg. Ind. Vols. met in Waynetown this week to talk over olden times and fight the battles once more ere they meet the conqueror, death. The town presented a gala appearance. All day Wednesday could be seen the blue coats carrying a gun or in squad drill, while the business houses were beautifully decorated with flags and bunting. The camp was in Edwards' grove, a beautiful woodland north of the depot. The Wayne Guards, Co. D of this city, the Attica Artillery, and many of the old veterans being in camp, while the Wayne town cornet and the 63rd sheep-skin bands furnished the music. Gen. Manson spoke on Wednesday afternoon to a good sized crowd. A camp-fire was held Wednesday night, and preparations made for the big day.

THURSDAY.

The cold and damp morning caused many to stay away, but by ten o'clock there was at least three thousand people on the grounds. The Wayne Guards presented a creditable guard mount, and the Attica battery woke up the natives with round after round of shots. Speeches were made by Hon. Andy Marshall, Rev. Clay Pool and Capt. McClair, and in the afternoon a creditable sham battle was carried out between the Wayne Guards, part of Company D. of this city, with the members of the 63rd as an opposing force. There was not an accident occurred and no drunkenness on the grounds. The crowd seemed to divide its time between the attractions around the stand and the many fakes that encircled the ground; even the milk shake man did a good business notwithstanding everybody had on their overcoats. The 63rd boys held a business meeting after the day's entertainment was over and decided to hold their next reunion at Frankfort and another meeting of this gallant regiment of Indiana's honored soldiers was over.

What Was Settled.

The Journal still insists that the question of the Goblen alleged shortage was not settled by the trial had in the circuit court. If that question was not settled, what under the heavens was settled? That was what the howl was all about. That was what the issue was presented to the court upon. It was what George Brown based his contest upon, and it was what the experts were brought here at great expense to fasten upon Goblen by an array of misfit figures which would not stand in court. Of course it was an issue, and an issue which was thoroughly settled in a long and tedious, expensive trial, only held to gratify and appease Republican malice. The Journal has worn that subject threadbare. While it was crying "stop thief" at Goblen, whom the court found innocent, it was attracting public attention away from the Republican scoundrels who were plundering the treasury and erasing the marks which could condemn them. Give us another song than this.

The Journal has not yet herd of the $450 which a Republican ex-official paid back into the county treasury some weeks since. It continues to call public attention, however, to something over three years old, and which the courts have settled satisfactorily to everybody except a few Republican conspirators who hatched up the cry of "thief" for George Brown. Mac, do, please do, wake up, things of public interest are happening all around you, and life is too short to mourn over political conspiracies which have miscarried. Tell your readers about the Republican raid on the school fund. Give them some information. Your time is too valuable to spend in cracking worny chestnuts.

The Orphans Home.

All persons interested in the Orphans Home will be glad to know that through the generosity of our Commissioners the Home has been so improved as to add greatly to the comfort and convenience of inmates as well as to much enhance the outward appearance. And now that there are more rooms, we will of necessity want funds to furnish them, and since our friends were so good as to come to our help some time ago, we feel prompted to repeat the request and ask every one who can to assist us to make a "one pound ball of carpet-rags," sometime within the next month, and leave the same with name of donor at the home of either Mrs. O. M. Gregg or Mrs. V. Q. Irwin. Also our friends in the country who have a few feathers to spare. Donations of any kind will be most kindly received and warmly appreciated.

Gus Rutledge has gone to Anderson where he accepts a position as leader of the Doxey opera house orchestra.

The damage suit of Ed Crane vs. the Indiana Surgical Institute was tried at Frankfort this week and a verdict given to the defendant.

Miss Allie Chapman has returned from a visit in Michigan, and has resumed her position with Cresce & Cade's millinery establishment.

COLLEGE NOTES.

Guthrie is a Phi still, Huffer is a Sig.

The Freshman class numbers seventy-four. Tillet, '88, was here the fore part of the week.

Walter Evans, '87, occupies the chair of Human Body this year.

Garner, a Freshman, has taken Frank Fox's place in Music Hall orchestra.

They say the Wabash is to be run by the Y. M. C. A. college branch this year.

Kuersteimer tells great stories of times had "over the Rhine" in Cincinnati, the past summer.

Douglass and Groendyke, who spent the summer selling books, are back and report a good time.

The ball game Saturday between Wabash & Purdue will be a hot one. Phil Green will pitch for our boys.

THE REVIEW is the only paper that will give the news of the college unhampered by the prejudice of college politics.

Magill has decided to make a medical missionary of himself. What a choice morsel he would make for some of those cannibals.

The Freshman class has organized, with Davis as President; Cline, Vice-president, and Crozier, Secretary. The constitution demanded a bond from the Treasurer, and no one could be found to take the office.

The Senior class this year numbers thirty-four, and is as fine a class as was ever graduated from the institution, in the way of study, athletics and society. There will be many an aching heart in the breasts of the fair maids of Crawfordville, when this class leaves, and it is already said that eleven of the boys are engaged. If this is the case, the race for the customary "class cup" will be a lively one. The man that gets it will have to get up and hump.

BASE BALL CRANKISMS.

Charley Haskins is pitching great ball for Peoria. He shut out Evansville last Friday.

The Wabash college club will go to Purdue next Saturday to play a return game with the club of that college.

The Reds played the Covington club on the latter's grounds Tuesday. It is hoped they will have better luck.

A picked nine from this city defeated the Hillsboro club on the latter's grounds Sunday by a score of 12 to 15. Dan Sullivan umpired the game.

The Terre Haute ball club defeated the Peoria club Tuesday. Dorsey made a home run drive while two men were on the bases. He is like all Crawfordville boys the very finest.

That the Reds were not in the game at Waynetown Wednesday was clearly demonstrated by the score. Sullivan was away off in his pitching and the Fountaines had their batting clothes on. The score was 6 to 25; seven innings.

The Polytechnic club will organize again this week, and will play games with the teams from DePauw university and Wabash college. Since Dougan, who pitched for the DePauws last term, did not return to college, the Pollys think they can defeat them. Harness, the pitcher who was with the Wabash college team when they shut out the Pollys, pitched for the Champanis and LaFayette while they in the Indiana and Illinois league.—Terre Haute Express.

Charley Roberts Free.

Thursday morning the doors of the Jeffersonville penitentiary swung open and allowed Charley Roberts to be a free man. It is unnecessary for us to say who he is for he is well known in this and adjoining counties, and there are many who fear him as a dangerous man. He wrote to Charles Flaid, of Terre Haute, that he would return to his home in Waverland, and is no doubt there now. Since he was placed in confinement his father and brother have both died, and there only awaits him an aged mother who, true and devoted to her boy though all the world forsake him, will give him a hearty welcome. He says he will be a better man, and as he has received on his last charge, the Shirk burglary in Parke county, one year and nine months, the reduction being on account of good behavior, it looks as if he would keep his word.

A Pastor Elopes.

Rev. Chas. Woodruff, pastor of the U. B. church at Boyleston, Clinton county, has fallen from grace, and with him is an erring sister, Mrs. Louisa Calvert, wife of a well-to-do farmer. Their intimacy has been the gossip of the village for several weeks and late Monday night culminated in their elopement. Rev. Woodruff leaves a wife in the last stages of consumption and five children in almost destitute circumstances, the woman a husband and two small children. A reward has been offered for the arrest of the runaways.

Robbed a Boy.

Frank Montgomery Ramsdell, the 9-year-old son of a jeweler at Lam Pans, Tex., arrived yesterday morning to spend the winter with his uncle, M. B. Montgomery, of Linden. The lad was robbed of his money and valise check on the train and when he arrived here was moneyless and friendless. He is a bright, mainly little fellow and soon made enough friends to help him out of his dilemma. He was sent to Linden on the local yesterday morning.—Lafayette Journal.

Mangled Remains Told the Story.

W. W. Dunn, supposed to reside at New Albany, was killed on the L. N. A. & C. railroad at Lime Stone creek on Wednesday. He was in charge of a car of horses and was on the top of the train. He was not missed until the train had reached Greencastle Junction, when a bat was found on top of the stock car. Men with a hand car went back to look for him and found the mangled remains at the Lime Stone bridge.

Death of Mrs. W. T. Warbinton.

Mrs. Ophelia Warbinton, wife of Elder W. T. Warbinton, died at her home in Covington, O., last Sunday morning of throat disease. She was a sister of Al Booher, Mrs. J. W. Tribbett, and Mrs. A. H. Bowers, of Darlington. Her remains were interred in the cemetery at Darlington on Wednesday. Elder Warbinton was formerly a resident of this county.

Want a Water Receiver.

The American loan and trust company of New York filed suit Monday in the U. S. court against the Crawfordville water works company to foreclose the mortgage held by it. A receiver was also asked.

FIVE VICTIMS.

That Number of Persons Killed in a Collision Near Chicago.

A CARELESS ENGINEER'S DOINGS.

Unheeding a Signal, He Runs His Engine Into a Loaded Passenger Coach at Washington Heights—The Unfortunates Scalded by Steam.

MANY PEOPLE HURT.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Through 24000 careless engine of Engineer Seth Twombly 2 persons were almost instantly killed and several others fatally and seriously injured shortly after 10 o'clock Tuesday evening at the Eighty-seventh street crossing of the Rock Island railroad.

The killed are: Mrs. Captain Brown, of Washington Heights; Miss Saddle Kelly, of Dummy Junction; Fred Hipner, thought to live in Washington Heights; James McCoskie, of Washington Heights; Mrs. Ward, of Washington Heights. Anton Schuback, of Washington Heights, and Gus McCarthy, of Auburn Park, were fatally scalded. The badly scalded and seriously injured are:

John McCarthy, Edward Smith, Jr., Daniel Lawrence, G. Klein, John Tierney, Mrs. A. K. Steele, Michael Huggerty, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Wheeler, Daniel O'Connor, all of Washington Heights; Parker Haraden and sister, Miss Haraden, of Tracey avenue.

The accident was caused by a freight train telescoping a detached passenger car known as the Washington Heights car that was standing in front of the station at Eighty-seventh street. This car had been attached to suburban train No. 57, which leaves the Rock Island depot at 5:35 and arrives at Eighty-seventh street at 6:18. At this crossing the car, as is customary, was detached from the main line suburban train and was waiting for an inbound passenger to pass, then to be coupled to a dummy and taken on to Washington Heights and points beyond. Freight train 97, which follows the 5:35 suburban train, was ten minutes ahead of time, and soon appeared in sight up the road, running twelve miles an hour. The semaphore which protects the standing trains was across the track, telling the engineer of the freight, Seth Twombly, to stop his train.

Not heeding the signal the freight continued its course and struck the detached passenger car with terrific force. The car, with trucks half lifted from the track, bounded ahead, striking the rear car of the suburban train proper. The force of the collision sent it backward several feet and it was again struck by the freight engine, which completely telescoped it, penetrating as far as the tender.

The demolished car contained about thirty passengers at the time of the accident. They were reading and talking, waiting for the arrival of the dummy to take them home. The first shock sent every body plunging head forward to the front end of the coach, where they hoped to escape by the door. Several attempted to jump from the windows and the wildest confusion followed.

The women screamed and tried to get to the door but were trampled under foot or cast aside in the rush. When the car struck the passenger train the people were thrown off their feet. Before they could arise the engine had again struck the car, and in an instant the pilot and wheels were crashing the interior of the car into a thousand fragments.

Singularly enough, no one was violently injured by the engine. But in an instant the car was enveloped by a rush of steam, escaping from a break in the steam-chest. The scene which followed was one of awful horror. The women, frantic with agony, tore the scalded skin from their hands and cried aloud from the pain of the deeply burned wounds.

Mrs. Captain Brown was found crushed to the side of the car, her hands containing clumps of hair torn from her head. Mrs. Kelly was lying on her side, her head tightly locked and containing large pieces of skin that she had torn from her hands and wrists while slowly dying from the scalding steam. As soon as possible help was at hand from those who were at the station when the accident occurred. It was feared that the coils in the fire-box would set the train afire, and the company at the Englewood station answered to a still alarm.

The firemen and all hands about the yards were soon at work rescuing and carrying out the dead and injured. The work of removing the bodies was a difficult one because of the density of the steam, which, notwithstanding the fire in the engine had been put out, continued to pour forth in great profusion.

As soon as the news of the accident spread people having friends and relatives aboard the ill-fated car began an eager search for them among the ruins. One by one the bodies of the dead were taken out and laid along the track, and later on removed by a special train to the Rock Island depot and thence to Klander's undertaking rooms on Monroe street. Most of the injured were taken to their homes.

Miss Kelly, who was scalded to death, was a type-writer in the office of General Superintendent Chamberlain of the Rock Island road. About six months ago her father was killed in a wreck on the Grand Trunk.

Superintendent Chamberlain visited the scene of the accident within an hour after it occurred, and said that it was one of the worst accidents for a small one that he had ever seen. The track for a distance of about 20 feet was strewn with the wreck, and at midnight last night the blockade had not been removed.

E. C. Lewis, conductor of the passenger train, said that the entire blame of the accident rested on Engineer Twombly. He was not only running ten minutes ahead of time, he said, but at a greater rate of speed than the schedule called for. Twombly is the son of the master mechanic of the Rock Island road and is said to be addicted to excessive drinking. It is also said that at the time of the accident he was under the influence of liquor and not in a fit condition to run a train. When he jumped from the engine he ran toward Chicago and has not been seen since.

The company is also severely censured by some for its gross mismanagement of affairs at the Englewood crossing. But one man is stationed there to look out for the many trains that pass that point, and he is far past the age where capability is a prominent feature of his make-up.

Granger-Swindlers Captured.

SYCAMORE, Ill., Sept. 25.—John Wright, who lives about three miles from here, has just returned from Laporte, Ind., where he has identified the prisoners jailed there as being part of a trio who robbed him of $2,000 last spring while pretending to buy his farm. They will be brought here as soon as the necessary papers can be made out.
