LAW AND LAWYERS.

The recent proceedings in disbarment brought by some of the members of the legal profession in this city, has directed public attention toward the fraternity, and the criticisms pro and con have been numerous. While as a profession there is not one more honorable and lucrative, while within its ranks in this country, have been numbered Webster, Choate, Conner and scores of others who left the impress of their genius upon its institutions and have gone down to their graves with honorable records and characters, still there is no profession, it would seem, judging from past history, that has developed more scoundrelism, more low cunning, more downright dishonesty than the legal. And the public at large, generally speaking, so look upon it, and desire from a business standpoint to have as little to do with law and lawyers as possible. This feeling exists everywhere, and is not dispelled. It originates in part, no doubt, from the fact that there are entirely too many in the profession. The ranks are over crowded. They are hungry for business, that is many of them, and resort to dishonorable means to secure it. The first thought of most young men after leaving college or school, is to study law. Visions of $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000 fees pass before them, and that to them, is to be obtained easily after they have entered the practice. After they are in the situation is entirely different from anticipation, and if they make $1,000 a year they are doing well. The scheming to secure business with many of them sets in, and their actions in doing so becomes so reprehensible. We speak now of numbers of them, and desire not to include the entire fraternity, for we believe that there are lawyers who would scorn to do a dishonest act. A lawyer who advises his client to do a dishonest act to win his case, should not receive the confidence of honest men. An attorney guilty of charging exorbitant fees, is a dishonorable man and should not receive the public confidence, and in case of this kind is simply a thief. An attorney who foments strife between people of business, should be shunned. These and other things are said of some of the attorneys here, both by the public and themselves. In the disbarment proceedings one attorney censures another of advising his clients to act dishonestly, another accuses a brother member of receiving a bribe while acting as judge, still another is accused of receiving money to stop proceedings in prosecution, and so on and so forth. The public knows little regarding the truth or falsehood of these charges. If proven true those guilty should pick up their bed and walk. Their usefulness is over. For the honor of the fraternity it is hoped there is little or nothing in the charges. It may be the purging which some of the members are receiving through the work now going on will greatly purify them and all others as a bar. If so, all right, the public will believe.

EARLY ORGANIZATION.

We are pleased to note that the Democratic State Central Committee has already begun the preliminary work for the campaign of 1899 in Indiana. There is nothing better than an early start. Our political enemies, the republicans, fully understand this as well as ourselves, and are already beginning to lay plans. Politics in Indiana is becoming a system, the same as the management of any commercial or business undertaking. Both sides in this State, from the closeness of the vote, must be vigilant, alert and energetic. The lines must be carefully guarded and the movement made to checkmate the work of the opposition. For an "off year" campaign that of next year promises to be lively indeed, although at the outset the indications are certainly favorable for victory for the democracy. First, the new law, under which elections will be held next fall, is certainly favorable to us as a party. There will not be the buying, the scheming, the hauling up of men to the polls that has so often distinguished many of our elections. We feel certain, if the elections are carried on fairly, that they cannot but be to the advantage of the democracy. Again, the tariff will this year be as last year, the leading question. The republicans through the west are beginning to see the unfair workings of the present protection laws. They are beginning to realize that these laws are in the interests of monopolists. They realize this now in Ohio and Iowa, and the late victories for the democracy in those States are, to a great extent, accounted for. Still another favorable indication is the fact that very many republicans in Indiana are greatly dissatisfied with Harrison and will take the first opportunity to manifest their feeling, which will be at the next State election. "State pride," that they harped upon so much, will have small consideration next year. With all these facts in view the situation at this time has a very encouraging outlook.

With thorough organization and the formation of tariff reform clubs in every township in the State, as is now being done, the democracy can undoubtedly count upon Indiana falling into line the same as so many States have done this year.

LOOK OUT FOR THEM.

Agents are traveling through the country selling certificates of membership in the "National Union Supply Association," the object of which, they state, is to enable the farmers to buy wagons, buggies, or similar articles at manufacturers' prices. The agents claim that the association is incorporated under the laws of the State, but inquiry at the Secretary of State's office shows that no articles for its incorporation have as yet been filed there. It is more than likely that these traveling agents are frauds, and we would advise our farmer friends to let them severely alone.—Peru Sentinel.

The above, which is taken from the Peru Sentinel, and has appeared in some other papers in this State, does the "National Union Supply Association" of this city a gross injustice. This association has articles of incorporation filed with the Secretary of State, signed by Griffin, and it is acting as legitimately in its transactions as any other corporation in the State. It has and will enable farmers to buy wagons, buggies, household furniture, and other articles at manufacturers' prices. Many of the farmers through the west portion of Indiana, where the association for several months has had canvassers at work, will readily testify to the straight-forward and honorable business of it at any time they may be called upon. It is composed of old and well-known residents of this county, reliable in their dealings at all times, and those newspapers who heretofore have given publication to a false statement, such as the above, should investigate more fully before pronouncing judgment, so unjust as it is.

FAVORS A TARIFF REFORM.

Judge Baldwin, of Logansport, a prominent republican and politician, begins to see the coming signs among the people in favor of a reduction in tariff duties, and has come out boldly in favor of that doctrine. In a recent interview, he spoke this to a reporter of the Indianapolis News:

"My opinion is that the present excessive war tariff should be cut down one-half with, of course, the proper discriminations against old and enormously profitable, and in favor of new and moderately paying industries," he replied, "we don't do this, Grover Cleveland and a democratic congress will do it for us in 1899. Reform is in the air, and the simple question is, shall we republicans reform ourselves, or wait for the democrats to do it? We have a most instructive precedent in recent English politics. About a dozen years ago, Gladstone and the Liberals were attacking Disraeli upon manhood suffrage. The Liberals were carrying everything before them, when one fine morning Disraeli came in with a suffrage bill that quite took the Liberals' breath away. My recollection is that the Tories stayed in half dozen years longer."

One rich man died the other day whose good name and works deserve to live after him. His name was Crerar, his residence Chicago, and the estate and personal property he left behind him was valued at $3,500,000. He gives in his will $1,000,000 to relatives, the remaining $2,500,000 is wisely and judiciously donated to various charitable and religious associations, the largest being $1,500,000 for the founding of a public library in Chicago. How much better example has this man shown than a majority of wealthy men leaving large estates. The world will be largely gainers by the life and example of such men as Crerar. It will not curse and revile his memory as is the case quite often with the wealthy who simply live, in many cases, to oppress, and after death exhibit in their heirs the illustration of swine fighting over their feed. It is a pity that the world has not produced more Crerars, yet they seem scarce, at least in the matter of bettering mankind by their existence.

THE LONG STRIKE OVER.

The strike among the Clay county miners, which has been under way for nearly eight months, has about terminated by the return of the miners to work at the operators' prices, in most cases. Like most strikes it has resulted mostly to the injury of the miners, although the owners of the mines have suffered great pecuniary loss by the business going elsewhere and operators in other localities obtaining it. Here again might have been an instance of the excellent effects of arbitration between operators and workmen, as it has often in numerous cases. How much misery, anger and pecuniary trouble might have been avoided had each side have met at the outset in friendly discussion over their difficulties, and by mutual concessions avoided all that each have suffered. As it is each will be years in recovering from the effects of the prolonged strike.

R. G. WOOD, who originated the ballot box forgery story regarding Governor-elect Campbell, of Ohio, during the last campaign, has been arrested for his part in the work. The ballot-box narrative was aimed to injure Campbell's chances for election, but unfortunately the names of Senator Sherman and Representative Butterworth, republicans, were likewise run in. Both of these men, it seems, likewise died Wood to be prosecuted. Foraker and Halseid both grabbed eagerly at the falsehood at first, but the latter had the manliness to see the purpose and falsity of it, and retracted what he had said. Foraker did not and is now a dead duck.

FORT WAYNE is aiming to secure the State conventions of both parties next year. It is an undertaking that will probably not win. Indianapolis is naturally the place for the convening of all such assemblies. It is cheaper and much more convenient to a majority of the delegates to a political or any other kind of convention. Why Ft. Wayne desires these conventions so particularly has not been made known. It is not, however, probably from a desire to push to the front some candidate, as Allen county has never, that we remember, failed at any State convention to do that.

PERHAPS a score only out of a thousand trustees of the State have complained of the new school books, that the contents were inferior, or the bindings imperfect. The books are just as good as ever the monopoly concern furnished, besides being 50 per cent or more cheaper. The few trustees dissatisfied, talk either to have something to say, or in the interest of the Van Antwerp concern, which, like the snake's tail, continues to do a little wiggling just before its death.

JEFF DAVIS, the arch traitor, is lying at the point of death, at his plantation, 20 miles below Vicksburg.—Newport Hoosier State.

The most poignant grief that Jeff will experience on his death bed, will be that the Hoosier State man should call him an arch traitor, and it will "hurry" him off, no doubt.

"BLOCKS OF FIVE" Dudley and ex-Commissioner Turner have formed a partnership in the pension business at Washington City. This is a fine pair to draw to, a knave and a jack.

In "accounting" for the defeat of Foraker the republican press is saying that the elections turned against him because he enforced the Sunday law. Is that so? Then they were with him for two elections, were they? And he went down because they espoused the cause of democracy? Thought you said the democratic party was the whiskey party and always had been. Explain Foraker's defeat once more, please.

THE defense in the Cronin murder trial at Chicago now have the case in hand and are laboring zealously and determinedly to prove alibis for their clients. Thus far in the case the evidence would seem strongly in favor of the State, and the attorneys for these men must make a stronger defense than has yet been shown to save the necks of these men from the gallows.

STEPHEN PETTUS, a wealthy New Yorker who had ruined, by drugging, a Mrs. Southworth of that city and then boasted of it, was shot dead in the streets of that city by the disbonored woman last week. Pettus met the exact fate he deserved, and no jury will convict the woman of any crime. There is room for many more Southworths in this county.

SINCE assuming the office of Commissioner of Pensions, Gen. Raum has appointed his son to a good lucrative position. For remembering his cousins, sisters and his aunts commend us to the general average of republican government officials. From Ben Harrison down to the humblest in the land they generally pension their relatives on the government.

At the sale of seats for the Patti opera season at Chicago last week one man gave $1,600 for first choice, and several others bid as high as $1,000, $900 and $800 for seats. For great big fools, who may be blessed with money, are there any other people who can surpass the average wealthy Americans? Doubtful.

JEFF DAVIS came very near dying the other day, at New Orleans. It will be a sad day to republican statesmen and newspapers when Jeff disappears, as he is about the last "arch" traitor left, since Longstreet, Mosby, Mahone and Milligan joined the republican party.

THE Governor of New Jersey, Abbott, had at the last election a majority of 14,253. If New Jersey will do that well in 1892 for the national democratic ticket the intelligence will be that much more valuable.

The new book entitled the "Johnstown Flood," published by H. S. Goodspeed & Co., of New York, is perhaps the latest work out, yet we do not feel ourselves amiss in pronouncing it also the best. It contains the most graphic and vivid narration of that wonderful disaster, the story of which will not grow old for many a long year. When the first news of the Johnstown disaster came, every body disbelieved that so horrible a story could be true. But each day brought fresh horrors to the public notice, till it was universally remarked that for once the first accounts had not been exaggerated, but underestimated. This is so rarely the case that it is a fact worthy of notice in the history of journalism. Every where throughout the country the heart beat of sympathy, and kindness showed itself in the most generous contributions, which soon rolled up into millions. Even the Chicago fire failed to stir up the same passionate fellow feeling, because there, although the loss of property was great, that of life was comparatively small. We cannot but believe it will be long ere this profound interest sinks into indifference. This permanent record will be welcomed by the people of the land, North, South, East and West, and where ever people can read. The author seems to have taken pains in writing an accurate as well as dramatic story, and the whole thing is presented with a vigor and life likeness which brings it home to every heart. Mr. Ferris has studied the whole matter with great care, and serves it to the public in admirable style. The book is well made, and has forty-eight handsome illustrations and 522 pages. We believe that any one who has the opportunity should seize the chance to purchase this thrilling work.

I have been selling Swift's Specific (SSS) since 1878, during which time I might name a great number of very remarkable cures that it has effected. He took hundreds of dollars worth of medicines without receiving any benefit. He was at length happily and permanently cured after using a few bottles of Swift's Specific (SSS).
