THE REVIEW.

BY
F. T. LUSE.

A Law Suit On Its Hands.

Last week the REVIEW tried to show up the extreme partiality shown by our board of county commissioners toward a certain contractor and prophesied trouble. Our prophecy has been partly fulfilled, even sooner than we expected. Thursday morning the firm of Bond & McClure, brick manufacturers, filed a complaint against the county for the sum of $23, balance on brick furnished contractor Henry Clements for the construction of the sewer on the Terre Haute gravel road. The question is at once asked, why didn't they bring the suit against Clements? That is easily answered. When a contract is let by the county a bond fully adequate for all expenses which may be incurred is required by law from the contractor. With our commissioners this law is often violated when Mr. Clements is the contractor, but is rigidly enforced should any other secure the work. Such is the status of affairs in the present case. Mr. Clements gave no bond for the completion of the Terre Haute sewer and hence the county fails liable for all debts incurred by Clements. The money will be paid, together with the court costs, by the tax payers all through the negligence and preference shown by our board of commissioners. This is only one case. It is claimed by persons who know that the work performed by Mr. Clements is very inferior; that the cement he uses in his sewers is very poor and crumbles in a very short time and many other complaints which we haven't space to chronicle. But it is all right. It is Mr. Clements, and Mr. Clements is quite a pet of Mr. Price, and whatever Mr. Price says goes with the rest of the board, you bet. Mr. Clements is a republican, Mr. Price is a republican, the board is republican, the county is republican, so, tax-payers, what are you going to do about it?

Predictions for August.

Prof. A. F. Foster, of Omaha, makes the following weather predictions for the month of August:

August weather and storms will be much like we experienced in July, except that the storm waves, heat belts and cool waves will range farther south. Six storm waves will pass across the continent, from west to east, during the month, and while each of them will develop more than ordinary energy, one of them will be equal to the Minnesota tornadoes July 13th to 16th. The first of these storm waves will be due to leave the Pacific coast about July 20th. Its center will cross the Mississippi valley from July 30 to Aug. 1st, and reach the Atlantic about Aug 2nd. It is not expected to be a very great storm until it reaches the middle of the north Atlantic about Aug. 4th. From 4th to 6th it will be a dangerous storm near the west coast of Europe. The next storm waves will leave the Pacific coast Aug. 4th, at which time it will be very severe and at its greatest force. It will gradually decrease as it moves eastward. Its center will cross the Mississippi valley not far from St. Louis, from 5th to 7th, and reach the Atlantic coast about the 8th. It will be of large extent and of more than ordinary force while crossing the Mississippi valley. No general drought, but strips of drought will occur in the west and southwest, doing great damage in places during the month. Extremes of hot and cold weather will occur between the 5th and 19th, with much cooler weather after the 20th.

KILLED BY THE CARS.

Benjamin Kessler Meets An Untimely Death Under A Monon Engine.

Last Tuesday afternoon Benjamin Kessler, an old and prominent farmer, living one mile north of Ladoga, was killed by a Monon passenger train. Mr. Kessler was living with a daughter on his farm through which ran the railroad. About 2 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, the old gentleman started for his orchard, the nearest route to which led him about 100 yards up the railroad track. Being extremely deaf, he did not hear the whistle of the approaching train, and was run down and instantly killed. The train immediately backed, his remains were gathered up and taken to Ladoga. Both legs were taken off above the ankles, one arm broken in three places, and the skull horribly crushed. The remains were packed in a casket at Ladoga and returned to his home. Coroner Coppage at once attended the scene and took the evidence from which it is very apparent no one is to blame, the fault lying in the old gentleman's extreme deafness. He was 86 years of age and one of the best known and highly respected men in the county. He was the father of five sons and five daughters, all of whom survive him.

A New School Building.

Trustee Owlesley, of Franklin township, had determined to reduce the number of school districts in his township by making two districts out of 8, 6 and 11. The grounds for his action were based on the fact that the total school enumeration of the three districts was but 55, while in number three it was only six with an average attendance of four. The school house in No. 11 is totally unfit for use, and he thought by making two districts out of the three it would save the building of a new school house, and altogether be quite an economical move. All the patrons protested and appealed to Supt. Zook. As a result they all met in the Superintendent's office Monday afternoon and pleaded their case. They claimed that by combining the districts it would make the walk too great for the children. Supt. Zook granted their request and a new building will be erected in No. 11 at a cost of $900 and will be completed in time for the fall term.

Desperate Attempt at Suicide.

At Fort Wayne John Wilhelm is the name of a sewing machine agent who tarries on the footstool by the merest chance. He made three desperate attempts to take his own life on Tuesday. He was arrested by the police on the charge of drunkenness, and half an hour after being placed in the hold was found hanging by his suspenders from the top bar of the cell cage. The police cut him down, and in another half hour he again suspended himself with his shirt, and was again cut down. He was removed to the county jail, and straightway made a rope out of his undershirt, and was found strangling as before. He is now watching him.

Short $100.00.

Mr. James Insley, through a spirit of accommodation one day last week is probably short just one hundred dollars in the currency of the realm, and which came about by loaning a stranger the money until morning when he could get a check on the bank cashed. The stranger has been buying milk cows, alleging that he was buying them for a dairy in New York state that a supply of 1,500 head was on hand constantly. He visited the Break's neighborhood, some six miles northwest of the city, two or three days of last week engaging cows for his eastern dairy, and secured Richard Breaks to purchase cattle for him. Breaks and the stranger met on Friday afternoon to arrange further about the business in hand. He desired $100 until morning of Breaks, who luckily for himself did not have it just then. Insley who was present kindly accommodated him, but has seen neither man nor money since. Breaks drove six cows with their calves to town on Saturday to help replenish the stranger's eastern dairy, but found no one to deliver them to. Like unto the "King of France with 40,000 men, marched up a hill and then marched down again," Breaks marched down the hill to Crawfordsville with six sleek cattle sent, and then marched up again. But where is the $100? Gone, gone from our gaze forever. Whether the stranger has been waylaid, or purposely disappeared is unknown to all parties, but that Insley is at present out $100 is a matter of no doubt.

The family found his lifeless body lying on the floor when they returned. The dead man was of a well-to-do and popular family. He had been sick for a long time and it is thought that he became discouraged with the prospects of his recovery and ended his life. —Brazill Times.
