

WHAT IS SCROFULA

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or face; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can It Be CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. "My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofulous sore neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. CARLISLE, Narragansett, N. J.

THE REVIEW.

—BY— F. T. LUSE.

Piping Gas.

ED. REVIEW:

There seems to be considerable of an effort being made by some men to get money subscribed for the purpose of piping natural gas to this town. I do not like to impugn the motives of those who are foremost in this move, but I do call in question the propriety or the benefits to be derived by business men and farmers subscribing money to such an enterprise.

I shall not take the trouble nor waste the time in arguing the question except from the standpoint of the greatest good to the greatest number.

Suppose gas is piped to this town, who will be benefited by it? Surely it will not be those who help to build up and support the town, but those who have a surplus of money and because they cannot loan their money at a big interest, they will resort to the scheme of organizing a company for the purpose of making more money, like they did out of the water works company here at one time.

The company was organized, the works built and people supplied with water for a reasonable cost, and the people were told at the time, that it was yielding a good interest on the investment. But it was not making money fast enough for the shysters who had control of it. So they sold the works to an eastern company for twice what they cost and put the surplus in their own pockets.

The writer has been credibly informed that one man in this town made $18,000 out of the water and gas, and, as a result the people are paying it back to the eastern company now in the way of higher water rents. It will be the same thing over again in the gas company.

They want the business men, farmers and others to subscribe the money to pipe the gas to this town, and when the $100,000 is raised the managers will sell the franchise to some foreign company, so as to make a nice thing out of it and the men who have been at the head of the enterprise will pocket the surplus and the people will pay for it in higher rates for gas.

The truth of the matter is the men who are usually at the head of such enterprises are those who expect to make large money out of their investments regardless of the interests of the people at large.

This cry, "it will bring manufactures to the town," is all bosh, because we are too far from the gas fields, and if companies want to start factories where they have to depend on gas for fuel, they will go where it does not cost so much as it necessarily will where it has to be piped so far.

No, Mr. Editor, it is not for the interests of the town, or dear people for which these men are working, but it is for the "almighty dollar." One man who is reported to be worth considerable money made the remark, that for his part he did not want any factories or shops located here, because they would bring a class of people to town that would detract from the morals of this community.

Your suggestion last week was a good one, that if these men would invest their money in factories and other enterprises that it would add to the wealth and prosperity of the town. If those men are in earnest when they prate about helping the town, why don't they raise money to start a paper mill so that farmers can find ready sale for their surplus straw instead of having to burn it or let it rot to get it out of the way?

If they will subscribe money towards starting a cannery here it will be a help to the town, because it will encourage farmers to raise vegetables and fruits for that purpose and besides it will give employment to the many idle girls and boys about town.

I will reserve some things to say in my next letter.

He was married to Elizabeth Adams in 1823, and in 1829 removed to Johnson county, Ind., later to Putnamville and in 1853 to Crawfordville, where he has since resided. The funeral occurred on Thursday afternoon, Rev. E. B. Thomson officiating.

The County Institute.

To one who has been paying attention to the institute and school work of Montgomery county, the present gathering of teachers in our city is a remarkable one. It far exceeds in interest and in attendance that of last year which was known as the largest and best ever held in the county. Good instructors have been in attendance and the line of work discussed has been the practical and of much benefit to those in attendance. The gathering represents a goodly array of the best talent in the county. The young men and women are of the best class and the schools will not suffer in their hands. New lines of work in the profession have been discussed and uniformly planned for the year's work through the county, but in order to carry out these plans school officers, teachers and patrons must work together. If this is not the case, the plan may or of necessity must fail. The schools of the county cost a vast sum of money each year. The bills are paid by the patrons, who are the parties directly interested, and they should take as much interest in school work as anything in the line of business in which their money is invested. Every effort should be put forth on their part to secure the best results and the greatest percent of profits on the amount invested. The patrons of the public schools make a serious mistake in not attending meetings of the teachers, such as the one just closed. The teachers are interested in the work. Their study seems to be how to secure the greatest possible success. In this day patrons, friends and firm and justice would demand that the patron who is directly interested in more than one way, should lead every aid in his power to help the teacher attain the greatest success. Upon the public school depends the future of the nation with a big N., or as a confederacy of sovereign states, and to the school we all look for the development of the child, and does it not develop we blame the school. The blame should be cast upon our own shoulders, where it belongs, on account of our not holding up the hands of the teacher in his important efforts to implant the seeds of knowledge in the mind of the child when surrounded by difficulties mountains high, piled up by our own careless hands. The REVIEW would urge upon the patrons of Montgomery county schools to study the plan of education as mapped out by the superintendent and the teachers in convention assembled and aid in its enforcement. It will succeed by their aid. The schools of this county have been brought to a high standard by Supt. Zook. Now add him in keeping them there. Let the patrons not miss another such gathering of the county's educators as has been in session in Crawfordville this week.

Worse and More of It.

W. W. Morgan and John B. Rice were Saturday appointed a committee to investigate the books in regard to the shortage of ex-Trustee Henry and they completed their labors Monday evening. They found the shortage to be a little over $3,700. Of this Joseph Grubb received $2,500 and Harry Snyder, of Joplin, Mo., $225. There was nothing on the books to show that either James or Ed Coleman received one cent although Mr. Henry still protests that they did. It now appears that Mr. Henry was short about $500 on his first term, with the following bondsmen in the sum of $15,000: D. S. Enoch, A. B. Caster, James B. Scott, Joseph Grubb and Mike Kelley. These bondsmen will know to a cent the shortage of this first term when they are called upon to settle.

The Juries.

The following juries have been selected for the September term of court:

GRAND JURY.

Benjamin F. Crabbs, George A. Enoch, Union township; G. W. Jones and I. W. Patton, Coal Creek; J. S. Fisher, of Brown; Otto Long, Sugar Creek.

SMALL JURY.

S. D. Hostetter, Walnut; W. W. Halstead and D. A. Keeler, Madison; Joseph Hopping and Wesley Bountree, Ripley; Allen Eastlack, Union; G. A. Thomas and E. F. Goff, Coal Creek; George Small, Wayne; George Little, Sugar Creek; Abijah F. Cox, Franklin; W. H. Martin, Scott.

Speak out Bro. Bowers.

Since discovering the loose manner in which Mr. Henry ran the trustee's office, it has come to light just what Joseph Grubb was doing when he was so persistent in persecuting Mr. Goben a few years ago. Now if Brother Bowers will just tell us in what honorable (?) business he was also engaged in at the same time we will feel under deep obligations to him.

Botanists in "Garland Dell."

The annual excursion of the Botanical club is one of the pleasantest of the diversions which lighten the labors of the A. A. S. Of this long series of pleasant excursions the excursion to Garland Dell Mineral Springs Monday afternoon was one of the very pleasantest. Sixty-five botanists and friends left the union station on a special Indianapolis, Decatur & Western at 12:00 o'clock. A quick run was made to south Waveland, where carriages and buggies of every style which have reigned in the past twenty-five years were gathered to take the excursionists over the 8 miles intervening between the railroad and destination.

Garland Dell is much better known by the rather grim cognomen of "Shades of Death." Many years ago it was called Buzzards Roost because of a preference which those unpleasant birds exhibited for it. As society standard of culture advanced transition from "Buzzards Roost" to "Shades of Death" was easily effected, as it did not violently change the significance of the name. Even the latter, though an obvious improvement, did not satisfy the gentlemen who purchased the place a few years ago, built a hotel and prepared to make a romantic spot a popular resort. Garland Dell pleased them better and Garland Dell it accordingly is.

The place is a deep, winding ravine, with overhanging wall of ragged and broken rocks. Ferns of many varieties droop from the ledges and crevices. Thick carpets of moss cloth the gray rocks. Delicate, tangled vines hang like portieres and wave gently in the breezes which wander along the glen. At various points in the dell clear springs gush out from beneath the rocks, and, uniting, form a considerable stream, which a little farther down leaps over a precipice sixty feet high. The place is probably as beautiful and romantic as any in the State.—Indianapolis News.

That Contract.

As a demonstration of the partiality shown certain contractors by Chairman Price, of the board of commissioners, it is only necessary to relate a little circumstance that occurred this week. Sealed bids for laying a new pipe line from the court house to the county jail were advertised for some time ago. But two parties responded, Lyle & Smith, of this city, and Healy & O'Brien, of Indianapolis. These bids were to be accompanied by an acceptable bond. Messrs. Lyle & Smith complied fully to the advertisement while Healy & O'Brien simply telegraphed to Mr. Price, (not the auditor, as is required by law) that they would do the work at a certain figure, not even stipulating what sort of iron the pipes were to be or when the work would be finished and said the bond would be sent later on. The time stipulated for opening the bids was set for 1 o'clock, but Mr. Price, knowing that the bond for Healy & O'Brien would not arrive before 1:30, postponed the time until 2 o'clock, something he had no right to do. When the bid of the Indianapolis firm was read Brothers Deere and Peterson slightly protested but were quickly quieted by a frown from Ireland's favorite son, Jim Waugh sought to interpose, but he, too, was set down on by Price. When the bid of Lyle & Smith was opened it was found to be just $3.75 higher than their opponents. These home people stated just what kind of pipes were to be used and when they would finish the work, and the bid was also accompanied by the required bond. In the face of all this the contract was given to a foreign firm and our home people left in the shade. Messrs. Healy & O'Brien can now go to work and use any kind of cheap pipe they see fit and just snap their fingers in the face of the commissioners if that body offers any objection.

A Melon Raid.

The following special from Waveland to the Journal under date of Aug. 27 tells of a disastrous raid on a melon patch in that locality on Monday night: "Considerable excitement was caused here yesterday by the report that John Penn, near Browns' Valley had shot two men in his melon patch while robbing in Monday night. Investigation proved that on Monday evening a hand car loaded with section hands started out on a water melon raid, the base of operation to be John Penn's patch. Mr. Penn was on watch with a double barrel shot gun loaded to the muzzle and when the boss were fairly at work thumping the melons to test their ripeness, let them have it. He badly wounded a boy named Cook in the eye and arm. This morning the horse thief detectives arrested Cook and several others. Cook was arraigned before Squire Goslin and fined $2 and costs. Several of the arrested were released this morning, but two of them, Day and Roberts, were taken to Browns' Valley at 12 o'clock before Squire Goslin and fined $3 and $5 with cost, respectively."

How to Vote.

No trouble at all as to how voters are to fix their tickets at the coming election. There are but two rules.

1. If the voter desires to vote for all the candidates of one party and none of the other, he may place his stamp upon the square preceding the title of the ticket he wishes to vote, like this:

STAMP. DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

2. If the voter is a "scratcher," he should be sure to place his stamp upon the squares preceding the names of the candidates he wishes to vote for.

In the latter case he does not put his stamp opposite the name of each man he votes for.

Horrible Butchery.

The following special from Minneapolis, Minn., is certainly a climax to brutal butcheries: "A rancher named Quinn, living 12 miles west of Livingston, had killed his wife and five children with a broad axe. The man was crazy and when discovered was sitting in the corner of a room eating from the arm of one of the children. The bodies were horribly mutilated, the arms and legs being severed from their bodies. The eldest girl of about 15 years of age, was cut almost into. Several men went to the house and tried to capture Quinn, but he would allow no one to approach him and was killed by one of the men in self defense."

THE NEW PENSION LAW

Provides a pension of not less than $6 nor more than $12 per month to old soldiers or sailors who served 90 days during the last war, and were honorably discharged from service, who are in any way disabled.

This pension is granted without any reference to when or how the disability was incurred either in or out of the service, if not the result of his own vicious habits.

Provides also $8 per month for the widow of every soldier or sailor who served 90 days, without regard to the time or cause of her husband's death, if she is dependent on her labor for her support. Also $2 additional for each child under 16 years of age, and the child's pension is to continue if it is insane, imbecile, or entirely helpless although the mother remarries or should die.

Provides also that any soldier's parent who is without other means of support than his or her own manual labor, if the soldier died in the service, or from any disease or wounds he received while in the service, may obtain a pension at the rate of $12 per month.

Applying for or accepting pension under this law does not prevent the claimant from prosecuting a claim under the old law. Pensions under the new law commence the time the application is filed.

If an application is made under this law the claimant can select any attorney he desires without reference to his old claim, and if a soldier is now drawing less than $8 per month he can be increased under this law.

The attorneys fee is limited to $10 in each case. We are now prepared with necessary blanks to prosecute all claims under the new law. Address or call on the Old Reliable Claim Agency of
